KILLS PRESIDENT OF PORTUGAL AND IS LYNCHED

Assassin Shoots Dr. Sidonio Paes at the Lisbon Railroad Station.

QUICK REVENGE BY CROWD

WAS SHOT AT ONCE BEFORE

Escaped Bullet of Would-Be Murderer Ten Days Ago—Minister Barbosa Assumes Presidency.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Dr. Sidonio Paes, President of Portugal, was shot and killed by an assassin just before midnight Saturday, while he was in a railway station at Lisbon, waiting for a train to Oporto.

Advices from Lisbon reporting the murder say that he was struck by three bullets, and died within a few minutes.

The President's assailant, named Jeetne, was killed by the crowd.

PARIS, Dec. 15.—According to a Havas dispatch from Lisbon, the assassin of the President was lynched by the crowd.

Tamagnini Barbosa, Minister of the Interior, has assumed the Presidency.

Dr. Sidonio Paes, who was in his 46th year, was shot at on Dec. 6, but he was unhurt and his assailant was arrested.

Dr. Paes became President of Portugal on June 9 last after a universal, direct-suffrage election in which he rolled up a large majority. Though long prominent in the national life of his country, he first attracted international attention when in December, 1917, he headed the successful revolt which overthrew the existing régime. President Machado, and Costa, the most powerful of his ministers, at the time were engaged in an extensive tour of allied capitals and some of the battlefronts. Paes, his revolution already long planned, realized that the psychological moment had arrived for him, and on Dec. 11 he precipitated the uprising.

The struggle was short-lived and comparatively bloodless. Not more than seventy persons were killed and only a few hundred were wounded, though the city of Lisbon suffered some damage during the bombardment by the rebel forces.

Though Dr. Paes at once proclaimed himself Provisional President and succeeded in maintaining his position until the election which ratified his aspirations, he was not altogether a warlike character. Most of those who studied him at close range during the few months he played a part in the world stage described him as a dreamer with a saving grace of practicalness.

Paes had been Minister of Public Works in Portugal and Professor of Mathematics in the University of Coimbra, and had come to enjoy some reputation as a scholar. The start of the war found him in Germany as Minister Plenipotentiary, but the career was distasteful to him. Early in 1916 he resigned and returned to Lisbon, renouncing all diplomatic ambitions and embarking upon a military career. He succeeded in obtaining a commission in the army and, apparently, at once began his preparations for the overthrow of the existing Government.

When that movement had succeeded and Paes had proclaimed himself, with the aid of Macaho Santos, Premier and Foreign Minister, there were those who feared that Paes's dominion, because of his erstwhile sojourn in Germany, would mean the undermining of the allied cause in Portugal and the gradual winning of that little country to the enemy. There were even those who looked for just such a disintegration in Portugal as ensued in Russia upon the Russian revolution.

But one of the first official acts of the artillery Major who had made himself ruler of his country was to proclaim his intention to see that the Government lived up to every commitment with the Allies. Soon he was devoting his attention not only to keeping faith but to enlarging the measure of Portugal's participation. His devotion to the war and the popularity of his governmental doctrines won him the confidence of the people, as was shown by the subsequent election, and Dr. Paes met with little opposition.

He had been in office only a month when he squelched, almost without difficulty, a counter-revolution.

After that he set about enlarging the educational outlook of his country, pacifying the Roman Catholics by so revising the law separating Church and State as to remove some of their grievances and improving woeful industrial conditions. He re-established relations with the Vatican, and this course he defended at the opening of Parliament last July, taking occasion at the same time to announce his high approval of the army and navy and his determination that Portugal should play an ever-growing part in the war so long as the struggle continued.

German Crown Prince Fled from Mob of Dutch Women

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 15.—A crowd of women from Amsterdam recently went to the Island of Wieringen and made a hostile demonstration against the former German Crown Prince, who is interned there, according to a report published by the Telegraaf. Frederick William, it is alleged, saved himself by flight.

The police force on the island later took action which resulted in a German Baron who was staying at a hotel there and the Amsterdam women leaving the island.

HARBOR FOG HOLDS BIG WAR TRANSPORT

ACCIDENTS TO TWO VESSELS

Thousands Disappointed by Non-Arrival of Men Returning from Europe—Will Be in Today.

The densest fog of many years hung over New York Harbor yesterday and stopped all deep water traffic throughout the twenty-four hours. It was the first time since the war began that the movement of transports and supply ships had been interfered with by fog. In addition to compelling twenty-eight steamships and sailing vessels to anchor in the lower bay, the fog caused two accidents. The weather cleared about 3 P. M., with a westerly wind, and it is hoped that all detained vessels will come up today.

The French liner Chicago, for Bordeaux, with 300 cabin and 1,200 steerage passengers, which tried to get out yesterday morning, went aground on Craven Shoal below the Narrows and remained there for twelve hours until a high tide floated her off. Following this mishap the 1,800-ton Norwegian freighter Nils struck the wreckage of a steamship off the lightship and stove in her bow so badly that the Captain beached her on the west bank of the Ambrose Channel in 18 feet of water.

The fog settled down on Saturday afternoon and was accompanied at intervals by showers of fine rain which added to the difficulties of ferryboat pilots. During the forenoon it was impossible to distinguish Governors Island from the Battery front.

The only vessel which arrived yesterday and managed to get to her pier was the Ward liner Monterey, with mails, passengers, and freight from Mexico and Cuba. Thousands of New Yorkers were disappointed at the non-arrival of the world's greatest ship, the transport Leviathan, which has aboard more than 8,000 soldiers and sailors, sick and wounded officers and men from England and France. Her commander had sent word by radio on Saturday afternoon that he would arrive at the Ambrose Channel Lightship at 7 and be at Pier 4, Hoboken, between 8 and 9 yesterday morning. Army officers did not think the fog would make any difference to the Leviathan and prepared for landing the sick and wounded. About 7 A. M. a message was received from the commander of the Leviathan through the Navy Yard, saying she was anchored three and a half miles south of the Ambrose Channel Lightship in a dense fog and was going to remain there until it lifted. This information did not reach the public, and River Street, Hoboken, began to fill with men and women at 7 o'clock, anxious to see the great transport. After several contradictory statements had been given out it was definitely announced that she would dock at 4 o'clock. This brought a crowd of New Yorkers who were relatives or friends of those on board. Among those who came was Mrs. George Gould, with the Hon. Seton R. Beresford, to meet her son-in-law, Lord Decies.

As the fog lifted in the afternoon the crowds on the Battery increased rapidly and filled the boardwalk along the sea front. Grover A. Whalen, the Mayor's secretary, and Rodman Wanamaker, Chairman of the Mayor's Welcome Committee, went down the bay at 10:30 A. M. to meet the Leviathan with the Police Band, Police Glee Club, and forty of the Women Police Reserves. They cruised about on the Patrol, in company with the immigration cutter Immigrant, for nearly three hours and had difficulty getting back to the Battery in the fog. At 3 P. M. the Patrol made a second attempt, and, after steaming twenty-six miles, got within 100 yards of the big transport on the starboard quarter. The Captain of the Leviathan did not encourage the Patrol to go any closer. The police women had cigarettes, chocolate, and newspapers to give to the soldiers, but it couldn't be done.

The transport will be at her pier in Hoboken about 9 A. M. if the fog does not prevent, the Captain said.

Nearer to New York waiting to come up were the French liner Lorraine, with 250 passengers, including Mrs. Vincent Astor, on board. The Swedish-American liner Stockholm, from Gothenburg, with passengers and mails, and a number of steamships from the West Indies, Central America, and coastwise ports.

Among the passengers who will land today from the Stockholm is Dr. Aksele Ruanheimo, a Professor of Philosophy from Helsingfors University, who brings a formal request from the new Finnish Government to the Secretary of State that he be recognized as the Finnish representative at Washington. Captain Platon Oustinoff, a Russian cavalry officer, a son of Michael M. Oustinoff, the Russian Consul General, is also a passenger from Gothenburg.

RADICALS LEAVING GERMAN CABINET, GENEVA REPORTS

Haase and Barth Said to Have Resigned—Ledebour Also Quits Office.

BERLIN STRIKE GROWING

Three Hundred and Fifty Thousand Out—Only Two Newspapers Are Being Published.

LIEBKNECHT PLATFORM OUT

Runs on Bolshevist Lines and Calls for Confiscation of Large Fortunes.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Hugo Haase and Herr Barth, two of the three Independent Socialist members of the Commission of Six which constitutes the German Government, have resigned, according to reports that reach Geneva. The reports add that Georg Ledebour, a leading Socialist, also has severed his connections with the Government.

The Council of People's Commissioners of Germany, according to a Berlin telegram to Amsterdam, has authorized the formation of a volunteer national guard to maintain public order and safety. The organization is to be under complete control of the Commissioners, and will be pledged to support the Socialist Democratic Republic. The various detachments will have the right to elect their own leaders.

As against this action, the Spartacus group, according to a Berlin telegram to the Amsterdam Handelsblad, has drawn up the following program of immediate steps for safeguarding the revolution:

The formation of a proletariat Red Guard.

Removal of all military officers from the Soldiers' and Workmen's Councils.

Replacement of political organs and the authorities of the former régime by representatives of the Soldiers' and Workmen's Councils.

Abolition of all Parliaments and municipal and other councils. The election of a General Council which will elect and control the Executive Council of the soldiers and workmen.

Cancellation of all State and other public debts, including war loans, down to a certain fixed limit of subscription.

Expropriation of all landed estates, banks, coal mines, and large industrial works.

Meanwhile the strike in Berlin has reached serious proportions, according to other advices from Amsterdam. Only two newspapers are being published, and these as small leaflets. It is said that 350,000 workmen are out.

An Associated Press dispatch from Berlin, dated yesterday, says:

"Soldiers of the 5th Infantry Regiment of the Guards Division who entered Berlin today administered a direct snub to Herr Molkenbuhr, who is Chairman of the soldiers' section of the Workmen's and Soldiers' Executive Council. It is difficult to find any other interpretation than that the troops from the front have little respect for the Berlin Soldiers' Council.

"The assembled troops were addressed by Lieut. Gen. Lequis, former Governor of Metz, who closed with a cheer for the Fatherland in which the troops joined vociferously. Molkenbuhr then mounted the tribune and began reading a speech, whereupon the regiment stationed directly in front of the stand shouldered arms and started toward the Brandenburg Gate with its band playing.

"Other regiments followed, passing within twenty feet of where Molkenbuhr still was making a valiant effort to finish his speech. When he brought his address to an end the square was half empty, and his voice was drowned by the sound of marching feet and martial music with an occasional hoot.

"This is not the first incident indicating that soldiers from the front do not think highly of the council, which includes few men direct from the firing line."

MUNICH, Dec. 14, (Associated Press.)—Liberal and Centrist political leaders in Bavaria have launched a campaign for the dissolution of the Bavarian Soldiers' and Workmen's Council. They demand the temporary reinstatement of the old Bavarian Assembly as the only means of preventing allied occupation of Munich.

Sinn Fein Polls Heavy Vote; John Dillon Probably Beaten

BELFAST, Dec. 15.—The feature of Saturday's elections in Nationalist Ireland was the strength shown by the Sinn Fein. It is reported here that Cardinal Logue and Archbishop Walsh both supported the Sinn Fein.

The defeat of John Dillon, the Irish Nationalist leader, in East Mayo is anticipated when the final count is completed. The Sinn Feiners polled a heavy vote in the County and City of Dublin and in Cork. In Northwest Ulster the Sinn Feiners will carry the City of Derry, three seats in Donegal, and South Fermanagh and Northwest Tyrone.

The Unionists expect to retain all their seats in the North. Joseph Devlin, Nationalist for West Belfast, has been re-elected by several thousand votes.

AMERICANS KILL MEXICANS IN CLASH

ANOTHER MORTALLY HURT

Trouble, Started by Mexicans, Who Attacked Gunner's Mate, Being Settled Diplomatically.

In a clash on Nov. 28 between the armed navy guard of the American steamship Monterey, a Ward liner, and Mexican customs guards at Tampico, one Mexican, named Julio Fernandez, said to have been a Captain, was killed; a soldier mortally wounded, and a chief gunner's mate named Berry, in charge of the American guard, less seriously hurt.

This was learned yesterday on the steamer's arrival here from Havana and Nassau, where she touched after leaving Tampico.

Members of the armed guard and officers of the ship refused to discuss the incident, but details were learned from passengers on board at the time. According to them, the fight occurred shortly after 5 A. M., after members of the navy guard had gone to the rescue of Berry, who had been attacked. The Americans responded to the call without arms, but upon the Mexicans opening fire, they got their stacked weapons from their ship and responded in kind.

The fight, passengers said, was brief, the Mexicans running away as soon as the Americans opened fire, leaving their dead and wounded. Later officials of the port took the matter in hand, the passengers asserted, and a demand was made upon the Captain of the Monterey that the armed guard be delivered to them pending an investigation. This the Captain declined to do, his action being supported, it was said, by officers of two American gunboats in the harbor. Later the matter was disposed of by a decision to leave the entire subject to diplomatic settlement.

It was said that the gunner's mate went ashore on an errand just before the Monterey was to depart. Several blocks from where the ship was tied up was a saloon, and as Berry was returning to his ship, passing this saloon, he was called upon to "treat." Upon his refusing several Mexicans started after him. As the American approached his ship a shot was fired. A Mexican guard, seeing him coming, placed him under detention.

It was asserted that others of the guards started to beat him with the butts of their rifles. The sailor fought back, and called to his men for assistance. All the members of the gun crew in sight or hearing joined in the fray. Seeing reinforcements coming some of the Mexicans opened fire. No one was hit on the ship, although bullets sang past.

The naval guard then got their arms, and, as the firing continued, they returned the shots, with the result that two Mexicans fell. With the show of arms the Mexicans gave up and fled, leaving the gunner's mate free to return to his ship with his men.

The firing attracted a crowd, but no further demonstration was made. Threats were heard, however, and during the twenty-four hours that the Monterey was detained, pending investigation of the incident, every precaution was taken to guard against a surprise attack.

The two gunboats were sufficiently close to render assistance to the Monterey if required. In addition to hand arms, the Monterey carries a gun mounted on her deck, placed there during the war as a protection against submarines.

On the arrival of the Monterey here the gunner's mate and his men went to the navy yard to make an official report of the matter. Officers of the ship were questioned by naval authorities.

Announced by State Department.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The State Department today issued this statement:

"The Department of State is investigating a clash that occurred between Mexican soldiers and a member of the armed guard of the American steamer Monterey, which occurred at Tampico on Nov. 28. The Mexicans started the disturbance.

"Department of State advices are to the effect that the affair occurred early in the morning, that the American in charge of the guard, who had gone ashore, was attacked by the Mexican soldiers, and that he was injured by the Mexicans. One of the Mexican soldiers was killed and another injured during the disturbance.

"The Tampico authorities sought to have the armed guard aboard the ship surrendered to them. The whole subject, however, was left to diplomatic settlement and is being taken up between the State Department and the Mexican Government through the American Embassy at Mexico City."

WILSON CONFERS WITH CLEMENCEAU; LAYS WREATH ON LAFAYETTE'S TOMB; PRESIDENT'S IDEALS WINNING FRANCE

WILSON TWICE AT CHURCH

Goes Without Announcement to Presbyterian and Episcopal Services.

NUNS GREET HIM AT PICPUS

HOUSE AND HOOVER CALL

Food Administrator Brings Latest Information on Conditions in Germany.

PARIS, Dec. 15.—President Wilson attended church twice today, laid a wreath on the tomb of Lafayette, and had conferences with Premier Clemenceau, Colonel House, and Herbert C. Hoover. In the evening he rested in preparation for the coming strenuous week of preliminary conferences.

The Premier arrived at the Murat residence at 6 o'clock and was received immediately by President Wilson. The French leader went by automobile to the President's house a half-hour after Colonel House had called upon him.

After conferring with Premier Clemenceau, President Wilson had a long talk with Mr. Hoover, who gave him the latest information on food conditions in Germany.

In the afternoon the President made a short call on President and Mme. Poincaré at the Elysée Palace.

In the morning the President, accompanied by Mrs. Wilson and Admiral Grayson and by Secret Service men, went to the American Presbyterian Church in the Rue de Berri. His coming was known only to a few of the American colony, who had guessed that the President, being a consistent churchgoer, would choose a church of his own denomination.

The Rev. Chauncey W. Goodrich, the pastor, took his text from the ninth verse of the ninth chapter of Isaiah. [Verses 9 and 10 of the chapter in question read: "And all the people shall know, even Ephraim and the inhabitant of Samaria, that say in the pride and stoutness of heart, 'The bricks are fallen down, but we will build with hewn stones; the sycamores are cut down, but we will change them into cedars.'"]

The speaker dwelt on the necessity of impregnating political and civil life with idealism, and showed how the evolution of humanity was reaching the last stage in the constitution of a society of nations. The edifice was filled, but there was no special service. The President took part as if he had been at the Central Presbyterian Church in Washington.

In the afternoon President Wilson went to a church of Mrs. Wilson's denomination, as is the custom in Washington when he goes twice on Sunday. The church selected was the American Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, the Bishop of South Carolina officiating.

The President visited the tomb of Lafayette in the Picpus Cemetery, in the southeastern section of Paris, while returning home after the morning church service. No ceremony had been arranged at the cemetery, and he was accompanied only by Brig. Gen. Harts, a secret service operative and a French officer assigned to him as a personal aid. The President, removing his hat, entered the tomb carrying a large floral wreath, which—contrary to the custom here, by which the florist delivers the wreath and the donor later makes the visit and leaves his card—Mr. Wilson insisted on carrying himself.

On his card the President had written this inscription:

"In memory of the great Lafayette, from a fellow-servant of liberty."

As he placed the wreath on the tomb, he bowed his head and stood silent before the resting place of the famous Frenchman who helped America in her fight for independence.

As the President's coming was entirely unannounced, the aged gatekeeper was almost too flustered to unlock the gates when he learned who

Interallied Meeting Is Postponed Till Jan. 1; Wilson Gains Time for Conferences and Trips

PARIS, Dec. 15.—Plans for the reassembling of the Interallied Conference and the meetings of the Peace Congress are gradually being matured. It was the first intention to have the Interallied Conference meet tomorrow or Tuesday, but owing to the inability of Premier Lloyd George and Foreign Minister Balfour to be here because of the British elections and the approaching holidays, the formal session will not be resumed until Jan. 1.

Meanwhile President Wilson will have an opportunity to confer with the Premiers and leading statesmen of the Allies and to visit the battlefields and perhaps Italy. King Victor Emmanuel, the Crown Prince and Premier Orlando arrived in Paris Thursday. They will dine with the President some time this week.

The merits of the questions and considerations to come before the conference thus far have developed only in their initial phases, discussions of them having been more or less informal. For the American delegates the chief object to be obtained during the next fortnight is a first-hand understanding of the views of the European statesmen and an opportunity to convey to them the American point of view.

CALLED 'CITIZEN OF WORLD'

Great Meeting in Copenhagen Thanks Him for Efforts for Just and Lasting Peace.

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 15.—The following resolution was adopted today at a mass meeting in Copenhagen and telegraphed to President Wilson:

"A great assembly of Danish men and women, representing all classes of society, welcomes you to Europe. We thank you for your work for a just and lasting peace, and wish you luck in carrying through your program of securing order, liberty, and progress in the world. Being Danish citizens we are greatly indebted to you for the realization of one of your principles, the people's right of self-determination, which will reunite all that is Danish."

MADRID, Dec. 15.—All the newspapers here, regardless of opinions and sympathies, welcome the arrival in Europe of President Wilson.

"President Wilson is the most humane man of the century," says the Heraldo. "His presence in Europe means that the hour of justice has struck."

The Diario Universal declares that President Wilson is a citizen of the world, and that to Spaniards he is a citizen of Spain.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 15.—Ernest Trygger, leader of the Swedish Conservative Party, and Admiral S. A. A. Lindman, former Foreign Minister and a member of the same party, have sent the following message to President Wilson:

"Considering the close ties of friendship, gratitude, and admiration connecting the people in Sweden with your noble nation since the Decleration of Independence of the United States, we beg on behalf of the Swedish Conservative Party to render you homage when setting foot on the soil of Europe. May the noble principles of truth and justice impressing your personage lead to a peace of reconciliation between the peoples."

ROME, Dec. 14.—In huge headlines the Italian press welcomes President Wilson to Europe. The editorials praise the President's course during the war, the Epoca declaring:

"No man in Europe since Napoleon has been more popular than President Wilson, and no one has been more loved. He is loved today by those who once hated him and scoffed at him. They see in him hopes for a better world."

Italy is awaiting impatiently official announcement of the President's itinerary when he comes to Rome. Workmen are busy day and night erecting arches, flagpoles, and stands in the various streets.

Berlin Scans His Utterances.

HIS TACT IS RECOGNIZED

PARIS, Dec. 15.—The friendliness of the welcome given President Wilson and the cordial tone of the speeches delivered at the luncheon at Elysée Palace are dwelt upon by the newspapers today. L'Homme Libre says that Saturday's manifestation was "a triumphant welcome to a great man."

The presence of President Wilson in France, says the Petit Journal, is an assurance of the practical and assiduous co-operation of two great democracies in the world in the pursuit of the same ideals.

"The speech of President Poincaré," the Journal comments, "was not only a magnificent piece of oratory, but also set forth the problems of the Peace Conference, asserting that peace demands justice and security. The reply of President Wilson was tactful. French public opinion will be particularly grateful to him for the tribute which he paid to our long sufferings. Justice, of which President Wilson has made himself the champion, will know how to safeguard the settlement of all accounts."

President Wilson, in full agreement with all the Allies, says the Matin, wants a peace of justice and security. The welcome given him by the people of Paris, it adds, has voted confidence in him for the future, while thanking him for the past.

"I expected a cordial welcome, but I never could have dreamed of the sincere welcome Paris gave me. I am greatly pleased."

The newspapers, in discussing this afternoon the Sunday activities of President Wilson, note that he joined vigorously in the singing at the American Presbyterian Church, and that he wore a black morning coat, gray trousers, and a high hat.

One reporter was struck by the fact that the President did not take a seat in the first row of pews, but sat in the eighth row. Another notes that he paid great attention to the preacher's discourse.

The Temps says that he wore the same air of serenity as on his arrival on Saturday—"not severity, as we misprinted it yesterday."

UKRAINIAN APPEAL TO PARIS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The Ukrainian Congress of America, continuing its sessions here today, adopted resolutions appealing to the Peace Conference to settle the conflicting claims between Poland and theUkraine by a plebiscite, and also sent a message of sympathy to the Jewish Congress of America, which met in Philadelphia today. The latter resolution, signed by Emil Pevyuk, Chairman of the Ukrainian Congress, was at once telegraphed to the Chairman of the Jewish Congress.

The resolution in which the congress went on record in favor of a plebiscite to settle the conflicting claims between Poland and the Ukraine, acknowledges the necessity of restoring Polish independence in territories indisputably Polish, and recognizes the right of the Russian and German peoples to work out their own salvation within their own independent States, but protests against any attempts at restoring the historic Polish, Russian, German, and Austrian Empires.

PRESS REFLECTS CHANGE

Temps Belittles Precedents, and Says a Clear Field Should be Given the President.

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

PARIS, Dec. 15.—Everybody feels that something very big happened in Paris yesterday. The most optimistic dare to hope that it was the birth of a new world. All agree that it was not a mere spectacle, and that its significance is far-reaching.

Yesterday one was borne along on the flood tide of enthusiasm. All felt that it was an overwhelming demonstration of genuine feeling. Today one searches for the inner meaning.

It was not simply an expression of gratitude to America or a spontaneous tribute to President Wilson. There were plans and purpose in it all. There was a meeting of the minds between Wilson and the European multitudes. Wilson claimed his own and they claimed theirs.

Let us suppose that President Wilson in disregarding the counsel and violating the instinct and tradition of his own country was inspired by some deep longing to work out his destiny as world pacificator. As Washington was the Father of his Country and Lincoln the Great Emancipator, Wilson would be the founder and organizer of world peace.

In this grand purpose the heart of the world was with him, but the opportunity could not be improved without his actual presence and leadership. There were too many national and individual ambitions, too many currents and cross-currents running hither and thither, and so the plastic period might go by and the opportunity be lost.

If he could only see the peoples whose future well-being he wished and planned, look them in the eye and speak to them, they would feel what was in his own heart and respond to it. Then, perhaps, through a reflex effect on their Governments, there would come unity of purpose in some great plan of world peace in which all the fruits of victory should be pooled and used for the common good. For such a temporary concrete sacrifice on the part of each for the well-being of all some miracle of mental and moral uplift was needed.

Not the End, but the Beginning.

If, indeed, the President came with some such ideas, what has happened in these two days goes far to confirm the soundness of his thinking. Yesterday's greeting was not a mere outburst—something finished and spent in the doing. It was not the end, but the beginning. One perceives today an entirely different tone in French opinion and press comment.

The Temps led off yesterday in terms heretofore unknown to its columns regarding the League of Nations. Why search history, it says, for reasons and precedents against it? Parallels do not exist. This great war has changed everything. The burden of its contention is for giving President Wilson a clear field.

The bulk of the Paris press speaks in a similar strain, which could not happen under the system prevailing here except on initiation from higher up.

Better Understood by Europe.

Of course, such changes do not happen in a day, however potent the cause. It is not that the arrival of the head of the American Republic produced an instant and profound metamorphosis. The situation was there already. The President's magnetic contact only developed and revealed it. The relation between Wilson and the European peoples is long established. Understanding and confidence have been growing all the time. With that insight of his which amounts to genius, he knew it and came to Europe fearlessly in the face of all opposition.

Whatever tomorrow may bring forth, there is a new optimism in the air today. The day before yesterday despair of disarmament and of the establishment of a League of Nations and cynicism about all fine theories had been perceptible, while today not a few are optimistic enough to hope that President Wilson will not only bring the European nations together in a peace concert, but will also by his presence here and his influence with the common men beat back the tide of Bolshevism which all Europe dreads.

DAVIS'S PLANS UNCERTAIN.

New Ambassador Has Not Decided on Attending Peace Conference.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Ambassador Davis, when asked about his plans after his arrival in London yesterday, said he had none as yet; that he hoped to present his credentials as early as possible, but that must depend upon the King's convenience.

"I did not expect to get here quite so soon," he said. "I thought I should have to go to Paris with the President, but an opportunity presented itself to come straight to England aboard the battleship Wyoming, and I seized it. The naval display at Brest was most imposing. Unfortunately, I was unable to land, but I heard that the enthusiasm of the welcome to the President was wonderful."

Ambassador Davis was much interested in hearing about President Poincaré's speech at the formal luncheon to President Wilson, but he would not express any opinion on what was likely to be the course of the peace negotiations. He is not yet certain whether he will go to Paris while the conference is in session.

He has brought no staff of his own with him, and no changes are contemplated in the embassy here.

PROPOSES A "FRANCE DAY."

Rev. Dr. Young Suggests Its Celebration to Show Our Appreciation.

A suggestion that the United States have a "France Day," to celebrate our ally's part in the war and to show the American people's appreciation of the sufferings of the French, was made last night by the Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young in the Bedford Presbyterian Church, Dean Street and Nostrand Avenue, Brooklyn, at a service acknowledging the kindness of the French to our uniformed men. Dr. Young spoke in unmeasured terms of Marshal Foch, styling him "the inncarnation of the French military spirit who had taught all the French Generals the arts of war."

"Had we sacrificed proportionately to France," he continued, "we would have lost about 8,000,000 men instead of 60,000. To cancel the war loans we have made her would be but trifling compensation. The best league of nations will be occasional reunions of Americans, French, British, Italian, and Belgian soldiers in a veterans' organization on the lines of our Grand Army of the Republic, only styled 'the Grand Army of the World.'"

Chaplain Raymond C. Knox conducted the Christmas services at Columbia yesterday, preaching in St. Paul's Chapel. "What we want most to see in Germany," he said, "is some evidence of a change of will. Her will has been bad and out of her heart have come forth lying, stealing, and war. The victors are not vindictive, but until Germany gives evidence of a change of will there must be no thought of admitting her to a place among the self-respecting nations of the earth.

Relating the horrors of the war and its immense toll of men, Dr. John Roach Straton in his sermon last night in Calvary Baptist Church declared his belief that William Hohenzollern had been possessed by "a personal devil."

The golden jubilee of Mgr. Edward McKenna, pastor of St. Raymond's Roman Catholic Church, East Tremont Avenue, Westchester Village, the Bronx, was celebrated yesterday at a solemn high mass. The sermon was by Mgr. Joseph P. Chidwick, President of St. Joseph's Seminary, Dunwoodie, N. Y., and many Bronx politicians were present. A civic celebration was held last night in McKinley Square Casino in 169th Street, near Boston Road, the Bronx, at which a purse made up by his parishioners was presented to the pastor.

VIVIANI ASSAILS KULTUR.

French ex-Premier Also Regards German Republic as a Mockery.

PARIS, Dec. 14.—The German Republic is a mockery and cannot be trusted, declared former Premier Viviani in a speech tonight at a dinner given by graduates of Columbia University to mobilized graduates and students. He urged that "German kultur" be suppressed in French and American universities. The former Premier praised American efforts in the war and said that, thanks to the United States, democracy had defeated autocracy.

Colonel William Barclay Parsons presided at the dinner. Other speakers were Henri Bergson, Baron d'Estournelles de Constant and Colonel Joseph A. Blake. Marshall Joffre had been invited to attend, but sent his regrets.

DEMOBILIZING IN FRANCE.

PARIS, Dec. 15.—The War Ministry has decided to demobilize the classes of 1892 and 1893, beginning Dec. 25 and ending Jan. 18.

German Governor's Flemish Autonomy Scheme Proves a Boomerang.

BRUGES, Nov. 30. — The one-time German Governor of Belgium, Von Bissing, appears to have rendered Belgium a signal service by endeavoring to exploit his plan of splitting the country into two parts by his scheme of Flemish autonomy. Judged from present indications it has united Belgium as never before in its history. Before the war there was a well-defined Flemish movement, but when Von Bissing attempted to exploit it the Flemings demurred, for they feared the German bearing gifts.

The number of disciples converted to the policy by Von Bissing is small. Adventurers, discontented office-seekers and for the most part youths, they are no longer in position to champion the designs of Von Bissing, for they have taken refuge in Germany or Holland, where it is likely they will spend years of exile.

SEE BRITISH ARMY CROSS THE RHINE

COLOGNE, Dec. 14.—This morning at 10 o'clock our cavalry passed through the streets of Cologne, crossed the Hohenzollern bridge, and went beyond the Rhine to take possession of the bridgeheads.

For some days not many British soldiers had been seen in the city of Cologne, the troops being camped in the outskirts, and it was only yesterday afternoon that the British Governor made his entry and established his headquarters in one of the hotels which had been taken over for the purpose. Crowds of German people gathered to see the man who will control their way of life during the British occupation, and were kept back in a hollow square by their own police when the Governor's motor car drove in with an escort of lancers, while a band Scottish pipers played a greeting.

This morning the passing of the cavalry over the Rhine was an impressive sight for all the people of Cologne, and for the British was another historical episode on the long journey of this war, which has led at last to this river flowing now behind the British lines. To the German people the Rhine is the very river of their life, and down its tide come drifting all the ghost memories of their race and its water is sacred to them as the fount from which their national legends, their old folk songs, and the sentiment that lies deep in their hearts have come forth in abundance.

In military history the Rhine has been their last line of defense, the moat around the keep of German strength; so today when British troops rode across the bridge and passed beyond the Rhine to further outposts, it was the supreme sign of victory for them and of German defeat.

They are a proud people, and they did not show by any word of rage or cry of bitterness the emotion they must have felt when the British men went over the bridge. There were not large crowds about. Many of the people of Cologne did not come out to see the actual crossing, though they were in the streets through which the cavalry rode, but there were lines of people on each side of the way and groups of them at each end of the Hohenzollern Bridge.

The Hohenzollern Bridge is a massive structure of the German character, with castellated towers at each end like those outside a mediaeval fortress. At the city end on pedestals below the towers are enormous equestrian figures of William I. of Prussia and his son of the House of Hohenzollern which has now fallen with a crash that has shaken off the crowns of the other German kings.

Below one of these statues on the southern side of the bridge, General Sir Herbert Plumer, commanuing the Second Army of the British armies in the field army of Flanders, which has fought so many battles since the first battle of Ypres, stood in the midst of the Generals and staff officers of his corps and divisions and brigades and received the salute of the cavalry as they rode behind the Rhine.

Hardly once during two hours did this gallant old General give his arm any rest as he stood there rigid, with his hand to his cap. It was an ordeal for any man, but Plumer, who has known the sacrifice of his men through bloody years, saluted each of them today, Colonel or Corporal, or trooper, horse gunner, bugler, or signaler, with all the honor he could give them on this last ride to their journey's end. It was a picture which belongs to history.

A guard of honor of Lancers, with red and white pennons at their lance tips, was on one side of the bridge below the statue of William I., sitting there motionless, as though also made of bronze, like that great horseman, except when their beautiful animals pawed the ground and tossed their heads. A band was close to the army commander's place, and when he came it played the old tune of "Rule, Britannia," and then when the cavalry passed led the song of "The Long, Long Trail."

There were Lancers in the first escort squadron, and the officers rode with drawn swords, and as they came near to the saluting base turned in their saddles and shouted in the high, long-drawn voice of the cavalry command: "Carry swords," and then to the escort squadron: "Eyes right," and every trooper turned his head sideways, so that there was a gleam of steel helmets down the lines with that fine stern look of men which gives a thrill to one's spine.

Lancers and Dragoon Guards and Hussars, with their horse artillery, in which each gun was polished as a pretty toy for pageantry and not for death, they passed in a steady stream which took two hours to flow by across that bridge.

Down below on the quay side was another procession which I happened to see when I looked over the bridge. It was headed by two German officers in full uniform, with a white flag on the front of their motor car, and behind them came a long line of other cars with the German eagle painted on the panels. They had come into Cologne under a flag of truce to deliver up the cars, according to the terms of the armistice.

Cologne is orderly and submissive to the regulations under British authority. The people go about their way with as little notice as possible of the foreign troops in their midst, though in the cafés and restaurants one sees them stealing glances at the British officers and men who come in to listen to the music of the orchestras, which play on gayly, as though no tragic thing had come to Germany.

The kilt of the Scottish officer breaks down their mask of indifference and they cannot hide their smiles at its strangeness to them, and now and again the breezy way of the young Tommies or Jocks and their good-natured humor soften the looks of people who naturally are not inclined to beam at the British. Here and there English-speaking Germans who were soldiers until a week or so ago act as guides to the British who lose their way in the maze of streets, and I have heard them exchanging reminiscences of battles in which they fought against each other. But there is no fraternization. There are the Commander in Chief's orders against it.

The British soldier has not established a lingua franca such as he used in France. The German language beats him altogether, and he finds only one blessed word in it which helps him at all. It is the word bier. But the shops speak to him through their lighted windows, and he stares into them like a child outside a toyshop, wondering at the richness of them.

The German shops are displaying their Christmas goods and the war has made no outward difference to the spirit of that day, soon coming, which is kept in Germany as a feast of home life with as much sentiment, or more, as in England.

There are thousands of Christmas trees in the shops, lighted when darkness falls with little bulbs and all sparkling with colored bulbs and cotton wool snow. Girls with their hair in pigtails and small boys in soldier caps stand with their noses glued to the window panes, staring at the blue-eyed dolls and gnomes and hobgoblins and mechanical toys. They are the children I met in the Rheingasse and market and narrow alleys with not too much to eat and the wolf at the door.

In the great shops of Tietz, the biggest store in Cologne, there is floor upon floor richly laden with the accessories and adornments of German home life, fine porcelain ware, beautiful glass, embroideries and things that women love in their drawing rooms, and Christmas trees, greener than those that grow in the forest of Eupen, taper high above the counters with Santa Claus as their guardian angel.

The German Christmas is coming, and the German people are preparing to celebrate it for their children's sake in the old spirit of their national traditions, but it will be a tragic Christmas for Germany, and there will be more tears than laughter round the green trees with their colored lights.

EX-KAISER IS CUT OFF FROM OUTSIDE WORLD

Reports That He Is in Constant Communication With Former Advisers Denied.

AMERONGEN, Holland, Dec. 15, (Associated Press.)—The former German Emperor continues to lead the life of a near-recluse. He is virtually cut off from communication with the outside world. Reports that he was in constant communication with his former advisers are not true.

There is no truth in the rumors that the ex-Empress is seriously ill. She has been troubled for years with an affection of the heart, and after her arrival here desired to have her former physician in attendance. He arrived at the castle yesterday, and said that her condition showed no change.

Whenever there is a break in the incessant drizzle customary in Holland, William Hohenzollern and his wife walk in the rain-soaked grounds with one or two attendants. Sometimes they take a trip in a closed motor car.

The correspondent inquired into the rumor that the ex-Emperor intended to move his quarters, and learned that Herr Hohenzollern was not interested in other houses in Holland and was not likely to move anywhere until he knew more regarding his future.

GASSED MONEY IN PARIS.

French Village Tradesmen Refuse Coins Blackened by Fumes.

PARIS, Nov. 30.—Gassed money has made its way to Paris to be spent, since the small townspeople refuse to take it in trade. A Young Men's Christian Association secretary in a village protested when an aged woman storekeeper refused the jet black coins he offered, briefly explaining, "No good."

"But," insisted the Red Triangle man, "those coins are perfectly good. They were new and shiny when I put them in my pocket. I have been through a gas attack, and the fumes have turned them black. See—"

He took out his knife and scraped until the bright metal was revealed.

And she went on to explain that after a coin had been gassed she did not want to have anything to do with it. Finally the man who had made the purchases was obliged to borrow enough from a fellow-worker to pay for what he had bought.

"It is bad enough to go through the danger and discomfort of a gas attack without having perfectly good money ruined," mused the Y. M. C. A. man. "This matter ought to be held against the boches when the final settlement comes. It is the worst of all their crimes."

RIGID MARTIAL LAW IMPOSED ON COLOGNE

Gen. Plumer Terminates Lax Rule Over Germans Exercised by British Vanguard.

LIFE OF CITY REGULATED

Residents Must Salute British Officers and Anthem—British Cavalry Cross the Rhine.

COLOGNE, Dec. 12, (Associated Press.)—Cologne today came under rigid martial law for the first time since British troops arrived here, and the people have begun to realize what formal occupation is going to mean.

Since the advance troops of the British Army entered the city there had been little or no interference with the affairs of the population, and the Germans were beginning to flatter themselves that they were going to have a rather easy time, when they were awakened by the orders of General Plumer, which became effective today.

Contained in the list of rules are two which the residents appear to dislike particularly. One provides that all males must greet British officers and the playing of the British national anthem, civilians by removing their hats and men in uniform by the usual military salute. The other order forbids residents to leave their homes between the hours of 7 at night and 6 o'clock in the morning, with some exceptions, such as clergymen and physicians.

Residents Listed on Their Doors.

On the inside of the door leading into every house must be posted a list of the occupants, containing information regarding their ages, occupations, and other matters. No person may change residence without permission, and every inhabitant 12 years of age or over must have an identification card. All day today crowds were gathered outside the shops of photographers waiting to get the pictures which must be placed on the cards. Residents having these cards may circulate freely about the city, but may not leave it without permission. It is forbidden to travel on horseback or on a bicycle, except for certain occupational reasons.

No newspapers or pamphlets may be printed or circulated without permission. Today the Cologne Gazette and other papers were not published, although they expect to resume tomorrow.

The transportation and sale of liquor, except beer and wines, are forbidden. No street assemblies will be permitted, and other assemblies must be authorized. Amusement places cannot run without authorization.

Residents must surrender all weapons and must aid the military in the pursuit of lawbreakers. There can be no telephone communication, save in extreme cases, and then only with permission. The employment of wireless and pigeons is forbidden. Only limited personal or business correspondence with unoccupied Germany and foreign countries and correspondence with German prisoners are permitted. Civilians are forbidden to have cameras. The military will have the right to search men suspected of having concealed weapons or of having broken ordinances.

Field Marshal Haig has issued an order to the entire occupied territory in which he declares that the inhabitants will be protected as long as they are obedient and peaceable. The death penalty or such other punishment as may be decreed is provided if violence is done to soldiers or the supplies or works necessary to the military operations are damaged.

Vanguard Rides Across Rhine.

British cavalry for the first time today crossed the Rhine as the vanguard for the Army of Occupation. A thousand khaki-clad horsemen, with full battle equipment, pushed over the river from Cologne and Bonn and went eastward to establish the semi-circular line which is being swung about these two cities to a depth of thirty kilometres. One division of English horsemen, with artillery and armored cars, was sent out from Cologne, while Canadian cavalry was operating through Bonn.

In Cologne the movement was made the occasion for a grand review by General Plumer and his staff. The review was held under the huge equestrian statue of the former Emperor at the western entrance of the Hohenzollern bridge. From this point General Plumer saw his troops begin their last march of occupation.

Thousands of civilians, including many one-time officers and soldiers, lined the streets leading to the bridge and watched this war-like procession. The endless line of civilians stretched far away along the streets through which the parade passed. For more than an hour a steady line of horsemen passed the reviewing point, while nearby a military band played them across the Rhine.

The people everywhere were quiet and respectful. When the parade was about half over a passenger train from Berlin came steaming across the railroad bridge. The people on board rushed to the windows of the cars and watched the procession. Tomorrow a considerable body of infantry will arrive for the formal occupation.

General Fergusson, the new military Governor, arrived yesterday and established headquarters in offices near the Cathedral. He was attended by Scotch infantry and pipers, who later escorted him to Government House. Field Marshal Haig is expected to arrive here next Tuesday for an inspection.

LONDON, Dec. 14. — British troops rapidly are completing the occupation of the Cologne bridgehead, and east of Cologne already have reached the town of Olpe, according to an official statement issued tonight. The statement reads:

"Yesterday our advanced troops, completing their occupation of the Cologne bridgehead, reached the general line of Obercassel, Seelscheid, east of Hoheppell, Olpe, Solingen, and north of Hilden."

POLICE RESERVES RESIGN.

Seventy Men, Comprising One Company, Object to Officials Higher Up.

Charging that officials of the Police Reserve are "incompetent and unfair," and that the organization is "rife with petty politics," seventy men, comprising the entire 47th Company of the 7th Regiment, Police Reserves, resigned last night from the organization. The resignation of this contingent, which is attached to the Simpson Street Police Station in the Bronx, went into effect at midnight last night.

Captain Arthur C. Clark of 1,375 Prospect Avenue, the Bronx, in command of the 4th Company, said last night that the resignation was not a political move but the result of long and careful deliberation. He said officials higher up had inducted undesirable men into his company. Twelve of these had been expelled, and he was brought up on charges of insubordination. The men, the Captain added, had backed him up.

CAPTIVES RETURNING HOME.

Four Trainloads of Prisoners to Leave Germany Every Day for France.

BERNE, Dec. 13. — Regular transport of Entente prisoners of war from Germany began today. Four trains will leave Germany daily for France, each conveying 700 to 800 prisoners. It is estimated that there are 75,000 French and British prisoners thus to be repatriated.

The prisoners in Northern and Central Germany will be repatriated by a more direct route.

FOUR MORE DIE ON CRUISER

Victims of Explosion Aboard the Brooklyn in Japan.

YOKOHAMA, Dec. 12, (Associated Press.)—Four more Americans, members of the crew of the United States armored cruiser Brooklyn, have died as a result of injuries sustained in the explosion, supposedly of coal dust, on board the cruiser last Monday.

They are Fireman James A. Anderson of Dabob, Wash.; Leonard C. Carter of Muscatine, Iowa; John S. Parler of Fresno, Cal., and Kent H. Steen of Walnut Wells, N. M.

Flying Instructors' New Insignia.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Instructors of fliers in the Air Service of the army have been authorized by the War Department to wear on the left arm a sleeve decoration consisting of gilt wings of the same size as those in the insignia on the collar decoration. This award, it was announced today, "is made in appreciation of the services of the several hundred fine fliers who have been kept at home for use on the flying fields of this country in turning out the quota of pilots asked for by the Allies."

his caller was. The news of the President's visit spread rapidly to the adjoining convent, and as he left the cemetery he passed through lines of aged nuns who came out to pay their respects to the American Chief Executive.

Invitation from the Pope Expected.

Tomorrow, some time before the public reception at the Hotel de Ville, the President will receive Thomas Nelson Page, the American Ambassador to Italy, who is expected to convey to him some kind of informal invitation from the Pope to visit the Vatican.

While Mr. Wilson has not announced positively that he will visit Pope Benedict, it now seems probable that he will do so. It is known here that the Pope is anxious ot receive him, and the Vatican officials have announced that the visit may be made without danger of embarrassment because of the differences between the Vatican and the Quirinal.

It is likely that if President Wilson goes to Rome he will visit the Quirinal Palace as the guest of King Victor Emmanuel. Afterward he will go to the American Embassy, where he will be met by the rector and students of the American College. The rector will convey to the President Pope Benedict's desire to see him.

If Mr. Wilson goes to the Vatican he will also call upon Cardinal Gasparri, the Papal Secretary of State, who will return the call at the embassy on behalf of the Pope, who cannot by precedent leave the Vatican. This was the program followed when King Edward VII. visited the King and the Pope.

The visit to Rome, if made, will probably be after Christmas, as King Victor Emmanuel will be in Paris until Dec. 28.

All the residents of Paris apparently turned out today in the hope of getting a glimpse of the President. It was remarked that the Wilson luck was continuing, for the sun broke through the murky clouds for the first time in days, and began to dry up the muddy streets. The sun lit up the city in all its fluttering banners and flags.

To a foreign observer, it appeared that every one in Paris was on the boulevards. There was no space whatever on the sidewalks. A great crowd gathered in the Place de la Concorde before the headquarters of the American mission. The crowd jammed about the doors and took a keen interest in every American passing in or out. The most inconsequential attaché, carrying a case of official papers, was surrounded and carefully inspected by admiring French men and women.

American army automobiles were surrounded and cheered whenever they stopped. All one needed, apparently, to be taken into the hearts of the crowd was just to look like an American. Every sort of conveyance was out on the boulevards or in the parks, each carrying individual cheering groups. Taxicabs carried crowds of American soldiers, and even the old one-horse chaise was again doing duty.

The parading, happy crowds reminded one of Riverside Drive on a Sunday afternoon, while the wide spaces and the parks gave just a touch of Washington.

Henry White, former American Ambassador to Paris, and now a member of the American Peace Mission, who has known the capital through long residence here, said that seldom had King, Emperor, or other foreign dignitary received such a welcome as that extended President Wilson.

The members of the American mission now are devoting their time to getting themselves settled and to organizing for their work. It is believed fortunate that the next two weeks will be taken up by informal conferences, because, as matters stand now, it would be virtually impossible to do any business. There are offices to be arranged, personal affairs to be straightened out, meeting places to be fixed, and the general arrangements attendant on an affair of this kind to be perfected.

One of the most important arrangements to be made is not yet under way. It concerns organized means for making public the news of the preliminary arrangements as well as of the meetings of the mission. Colonel House and George Creel, Chairman of the Committee of Public Information, conferred on the subject with the President today.

Thousands Sign Visitors' Book.

Thousands of names have already been inscribed in the great visitors' book in the entrance of the Murat mansion, President Wilson's temporary residence. Not only have all the prominent men of the official world called and signed the book, but also the leaders of society. The name of scarcely any Prince, Duke, or Marquis is absent. Side by side with the names of eminent men of science and art are those of humbler persons. Among the names are those of Cardinal Amette, the Archbishop of Paris, and the Japanese Ambassador, Keishiro Matsui.

The city was probably more brilliantly illuminated last night than ever before. Electrical devices erected in honor of President Wilson blazed in all parts of the capital. The words, "Vive Wilson!" outlined in electric lights, were displayed at many vantage points, while the coat-of-arms of the United States was frequently seen outlined in red, white, and blue.

The architectural lines of the Chamber of Deputies were picked out in lights. The headquarters of the American peace delegation was lighted with a huge electric sign bearing the motto, "E Pluribus Unum." The building occupied by the American Red Cross was ablaze, and a huge illuminated sign stretching across the Rue Royale from the French Naval Building to the peace mission headquarters bore the words, "Vive Wilson!"

The immense searchlight on the Eiffel Tower, heretofore used in searching the sky for raiding aircraft, radiated over the city, carrying a message of peace. All the public buildings and monuments were lighted brilliantly.

IRISH APPEAL TO WILSON.

Great Brooklyn Meeting Sends Message to the President.

At a meeting held in the Academy of Music in Brooklyn last night under the auspices of the Friends of Irish Freedom, a cable message was sent to President Wilson, asking him to urge Ireland's right of self-determination at the Peace Conference. The Academy was crowded and more than 2,000 persons were turned away when the police ordered the doors closed. Mgr. Edward W. McCarthy, pastor of St. Augustine's Church, presided, and the speakers were Judge Robert Hendrick, John J. Rooney, Alfred J. Talley, and Dr. Gerald O'Keefe. This was the message sent to President Wilson:

> Great mass meeting of your fellow-citizens assembled in Brooklyn Academy of Music, congratulate you on your safe arrival and your great welcome by the French people.
> We petition you most earnestly to demand at the Peace Conference the application of American principles to Ireland. America demands the self-determination and self-government of all nations. American sons of Irish blood have died gloriously for these principles. We ask you to be the champion of Irish freedom.

Mgr. McCarthy said that the Irish race had fought in many wars for freedom in many countries, but that now they were in a fight for their own freedom. The race, he said, had no stancher friend than President Wilson.

The meeting adopted a resolution expressing sympathy with the nationalistic aspirations of the Irish, and urging the Government and the people of this country to obtain for Ireland at the Peace Conference the right of self-government. Copies of this resolution are to be sent to the President, to United States Senators, and to the Speaker of the House.

THOMPSON CRITICISES TRIP.

Thinks Wilson Has Abandoned a National Policy.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—At a meeting tonight in which 8,000 persons united in a demand that President Wilson urge the Peace Conference to give the right to Ireland to determine its own form of Government, Mayor William Hale Thompson took occasion to criticize the President for going to Europe and abandoning "the policy of non-interference isteredin European affairs."

Mayor Thompson said on this point:

"There was a time in this country not very long ago when it was considered the settled policy of America for our Government to refrain from interfering with governmental affairs in Europe. That wise policy was inaugurated by George Washington; and later as a corollary to that proposition we announced that we would not allow European nations to interfere with governmental affairs on this continent. That policy was known as the Monroe Doctrine, and stood the test of time up to the present Administration.

"Apparently we have abandoned the policy of noninterference in European governmental affairs, for we have representatives of this Government now on the way to the Peace Conference whose purposes will include, if we are correctly informed, the creation of new Governments and the reforming of old Governments in Central Europe.

"It is a new condition which confronts us, and one with which we must reckon, and if this be our new policy, it is difficult to see why we should be indifferent to the situation in Ireland, where the people have been pleading for centuries for the right to govern themselves."

Geneva Expects the President.

GENEVA, Dec. 15.—It is reported here on what appears to be good authority that President Wilson will stop for a short time in Geneva on his way to Italy.

REVOLUTION A SHOCK TO SOME GERMANS

Intellectuals Completely Bewildered by Allied Victory and Subsequent Events

DIFFER ABOUT BOLSHEVISM

By HAROLD WILLIAMS.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERNE, Dec. 15.—I have had a conversation with two distinguished German intellectuals recently arrived from Germany. Both maintained an independent attitude during the war. One in particular is a leading authority on English economic questions. I reproduce here the substance of their views on the present position in Germany.

My first informant was comparatively hopeful. He considers the danger of Bolshevism not serious, and drew particular attention to the strongly anti-Bolshevist attitude of the troops from the front. The troops, after four years of fighting, desire peace and order, and in any case the German people through trade unions and other organizations are much more highly disciplined than the Russian and resent anarchy.

Herr Kurt Eisner, the Bavarian Premier, is a man of ideas and a poet. He is sincere but not a practical statesman. He has abandoned now his opposition to a National Assembly, but still thinks parliamentarism is only a transitory form of government and still hopes to build up out of the present soviets a new form of democratic government on a basis of vocational representation; that is to say, there shall be an assembly including representatives of all classes, all vocations, and all interests, councils of industrialists and intellectuals as well as of soldiers, workmen, and peasants.

Auer, on the contrary, is a prosaic realist, and though he and Eisner should naturally compliment each other, they seem to find considerable difficulty in working harmoniously so far, according to my first informant, who persisted in hoping that the sound disciplined spirit of the German people would overcome all difficulties.

He pointed out that in some parts of Germany, in Hesse for example, the people were dissatisfied with the one-sided rule of the Workers' and Soldiers' Council and created people's councils representing all classes.

My second informant, an economist, was less optimistic in regard to the Bolshevist danger. He pointed out that the military power of the Russian Bolsheviki was growing, that they were advancing very near to the German frontier and that their declared ambition was to establish a Bolshevist front on the Rhine. This was particularly serious at a moment when machine guns constituted such a powerful political argument in Germany and when so many armed men were idle in the towns and constantly attending political meetings.

"The young men who now rule Germany," said this economist, "have excellent intentions and desire to maintain order. They think it is a question of machine guns, and do not realize that that is simply another form of militarism.

"The Entente powers would do a great service if they would declare explicitly and formally to these young men that the order on which peace is conditional means government by a parliamentary majority."

Discussing the elections for a National Assembly, my informant said the women's vote complicated the matter. In Catholic districts it would mean an enormous addition to the Clerical vote, while the factory woman would vote for the Socialists. The German intellectuals, on the whole, were completely bewildered. Six weeks ago they still believed in victory, and never dreamed of revolution. Now they are completely unable to get their bearings.

ERZBERGER RENEWS ARMISTICE PLAINT

ing of the blockade, the liberation of prisoners of war, and the immediate opening of the Peace Conference.

Marshal Foch, it is said, has refused to recognize the Soldiers' and Workmen's Councils.

PARIS, Dec. 15.—The complete text of the amendment to the German armistice signed yesterday morning in Marshal Foch's railway train at Treves, follows:

"First—The duration of the treaty of armistice concluded on Nov. 11 is prolonged one month, until the 17th day of January, 1919, at 5 o'clock in the morning. This extension of a month will be extended until the conclusion of preliminaries to peace, subject to the consent of the allied Governments.

"Second—The execution of the conditions of the agreement of Nov. 11, such as are not completely fulfilled, will be followed and completed in the period of the extension of the armistice after regulations fixed by the International Armistice Committee according to instructions of the Allied High Command.

"Third—The following conditions will be added to the agreement of Nov. 11: 'The Allied High Command reserves the right to begin meanwhile, if it thinks it wise, in order to assure new guarantees to occupy the neutral zone on the right bank of the Rhine to the north of the bridgehead of Cologne, up to the Dutch frontier. This occupation will be announced by the Allied High Command by giving six days' notice.'"

Reported Record of Austrian Military Tribunals During the War.

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 15.—The Supreme Military Tribunal at Vienna has announced that 11,400 persons were sentenced to death by Austrian military tribunals during the war and executed, a Berlin dispatch to the Handelsblad says.

The State Council of German Austria, according to a dispatch from Vienna, has decided to send a note to all foreign Governments demanding a plebiscite for the self-determination of the populations of Bohemia, Moravia, and Silesia.

British Submarine Crews Quick to Master Surrendered Craft.

HARWICH, England, Nov. 21, (Associated Press.)—The business of actually accepting the German submarines n surrender was performed by officers and men of the British submarine force who for more than four years had maintained a tedious but relentless watch of waters of the British Isles. An Admiral in a light cruiser commanded the fleet to which the U-boats surrendered, but it was a submarine officer who first stepped aboard each submarine, curtly went through with the brief formalities, and it was a crew of men who had fought the U-boats by underwater methods that manned it and took it to port.

Although British submarines always were on the lookout for U-boats their success in the war was not measured by the number they destroyed. Nevertheless it was coincident that twenty U-boats should have been sunk by British submersibles in the war, and it was the same number first surrendered to the British submarine crews on the day the taking over of the German fleet began off this port.

As far as possible the Admiralty distributed the honor of taking over the U-boats among all the men of the submarine flotilla. Fourteen men were placed on each surrendered boat, and as they surrendered in batches of twenty, a total of 280 officers and men were allowed to participate each day. Every man looked forward to it eagerly, all of them wanted to be selected for the first day's work, but when they boarded the beaten craft they maintained excellent discipline and orders against any demonstration were so carefully obeyed that it was almost with an air of disinterest that they went about their duties.

So much had been said of the intricacies of the German submarine that there were many misgivings among the British officers of their ability to navigate them soon after they had received them. They were soon reassured, however, as nothing far different from other submarines was found. Among the first twenty brought in was the U-135, which is 276 feet long, was completed three months ago, and had never been to sea until she crossed the British Channel to be surrendered.

Her type attracted Commodore S. S. Hall, who has been at the head of the British submarine force since the beginning of hostilities. He was taken to the vessel soon after she was placed in her berth in the River Stour, and inspected her with the young lieutenant who had taken her over and brought her into port with the aid of the German engineers.

390 BODIES FROM OTRANTO.

Of Those Recovered 241 Are Known to be Americans.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Latest reports from the Island of Islay state that 241 bodies known to be those of Americans who lost their lives in the sinking of the British transport Otranto have been recovered, 15 having come ashore within one week. Of these 20 have not been identified. There are 149 other bodies that have been found, but whether they are those of Americans or members of the transport's crew has not been determined.

Another British Army labor battalion has arrived at the island, to aid in combing the wreckage from the steamer for bodies.

CARE FOR EX-SOLDIERS.

Australian Official Reports Success of Measures Undertaken There.

MELBOURNE, Dec. 15.—Minister of Repatriation Millen said yesterday that encouraging results had attended the efforts of his department to find employment for returned soldiers, and that the vocational training schemes for the men had been successful.

Pensions have been given to disabled soldiers and to the widows and children of the men killed. Hotels are already being established, he declared, in the capital cities of the Commonwealth, where disabled men may live in pleasant surroundings and receive skilled medical attention.

DANIELS FREES PRISONERS.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Dec. 15.—Two hundred prisoners were permitted to leave the naval prison here today in order to reach home by Christmas, through the special clemency of Secretary Daniels. All received dishonorable discharges. They represent nearly every State in the Union.

It was announced that at the request of Lieut. Commander Thomas Mott Osborne, former Warden at Sing Sing Prison, 120 men would receive releases Tuesday as Christmas presents and be restored to full duty in the navy.

URGES MORE HOSPITALS.

State Institutions Are Overcrowded, Charities Association Reports.

In the annual report of the State Charities Aid Association, made public yesterday, the overcrowded condition of State hospitals for mental distress is emphasized and the need for immediate expansion of the system dwelt upon. The overcrowding is called extremely serious. The report says that the thirteen hospitals have a normal capacity of 28,997 patients, but the end of the fiscal year found them housing 35,462 persons, or 6,465 more patients than capacity, showing 22.3 per cent. overcrowding.

"The overcrowding has been around the 6,000 mark for a number of years," says the report. "The excess was actually relieved by only 443 beds during the present fiscal year."

The report gives some instances to illustrate this overcrowding. They follow:

Hospitals.	Population.	Capacity.	Over-crowded.
Binghamton	2,701	2,400	301
Brooklyn	884	637	247
Buffalo	2,202	1,700	502
Central Islip	5,040	4,100	940
Gowanda	1,281	950	331
Hudson River	3,428	2,850	578
Kings Park	4,479	3,500	979
Manhattan	5,327	4,250	1,077
Middletown	2,181	1,800	381
Rochester	1,541	1,260	281
St. Lawrence	2,285	1,950	335
Utica	1,687	1,400	287
Willard	2,426	2,200	226
Total	35,462	28,097	6,465

Relief from this condition will come through the $1,034,920 appropriated for new construction, but the plans have been held up because of the shortage of labor and the scarcity and high cost of building material. The association urges that the building program be pushed, but that available appropriations be supplemented by additional sums as soon as possible.

The State is now committed to the construction of a new State hospital at Creedmoor, a State hospital at Marcy, near Utica; a psychopathic hospital in this city, and a new State hospital in the metropolitan district to take the place of the abandoned Mohansic institution.

Will Push Bronx River Viaduct.

Work on the new viaduct across the Bronx River Valley and the New York Central and New Haven tracks at 238th Street is to be pushed to rapid completion. It will be more than 1,000 feet in length. The Woodlawn and Wakefield sections are separated at this point by the deepest part of the Bronx Valley so that it is necessary for persons desiring to cross the river to travel through Mount Vernon and the edge of Yonkers.

Princeton Honors Its Fallen.

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 15.—A memorial service was conducted today in Marquard Chapel for the 103 Princeton men who have given their lives to the allied cause. Parents, relatives, and friends from all parts of the country were present. Sentries from the Princeton army and navy units were stationed at the entrance to the chapel. Standing under the American flag, President John Grier Hibben spoke of the sacrifices made by the Princeton men. Dr. Henry Van Dyke, in his uniform as a Lieutenant Commander of the navy, read a memorial poem.

OUR TROOPS REACH FINAL OBJECTIVES

Advance Units at the Rim of a 30-Kilometer Circle Pivoting on Coblenz.

BANDS PLAY SPIRITED AIRS

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION, Dec. 15, (Associated Press.)—The objectives of the American Army of Occupation were reached today at various points. Spreading out like a great fan the advanced units of the Americans took up their positions along the boundary of a thirty-kilometer semicircle pivoting on Coblenz.

The 32d Division is occupying the bridgehead on the left, the 2d Division comes next, while the 1st Division is on the right of the 2d Division. Two French divisions are occupying a part of the bridgehead, their position being on the extreme right of the Americans.

As the various detachments reached the boundaries of the bridgehead the infantrymen marched into the towns behind bands playing spirited American airs. In some instances the bands gave concerts for the benefit of the natives while the infantrymen hustled about looking for quarters.

The men of the bridgehead force as they reached the limits of the great arc today began settling down for a rest after their hike from the battleline in France, which began just four weeks ago. Different units all along the line are in the occupied villages. The officers are using public buildings as headquarters, but are being billeted in hotels and private homes.

The main body of the men is encamped just west of the bridgehead. The troops spent Sunday in making themselves comfortable for an extended stay on the bridgehead. The doughboys having reached their objectives are now asking one another, "Where do we go from here?"

For three days the Americans have streamed across the four bridges spanning the Rhine. The two bridges at Coblenz have been particularly burdened, even during part of the night. With the first troops, who crossed Friday, went some camions with temporary supplies. Saturday streams of motor trucks, loaded with food, clothing, and gasoline, rumbled along the cobblestone streets of Coblenz in greater numbers than the citizens had ever seen, notwithstanding the fact that Coblenz was formerly an important point for the German Army.

The huge American trucks are nearly as wide as some of the streets of Coblenz, so instead of reaching the bridges through the city's centre the trucks followed the Moselle River to the Rhine esplanade and thence crossed the bridges.

A six-inch howitzer, drawn by six horses, passed through Coblenz Saturday and proceeded on across the river. This attracted much attention in Coblenz and the villages east of the Rhine. Since the howitzer was last in action it has been painted a dull battle green, and appeared as if it had just come from the shop.

More civilians appeared in the streets of Coblenz Saturday than on any day since the Americans arrived. One civilian said that many of the timid folk of Coblenz had been keeping within doors as they felt a little uncertain as to what the behavior of the Americans would be.

GEN. FAYOLLE WARNS, THEN REASSURES, MAINZ

Says Germans, Despite Cruel, Unjust War, Have Nothing to Fear if They Behave.

MAINZ, Dec. 15.—The French forces of occupation have reached the extreme eastern limit of the bridgehead in this region. In its forward movement the 10th Army has found more of a spirit of curiosity among the population than of hostility. The regular authorities have been recognized by the French and no attention has been paid to the Workmen's Committees.

Food supplies seem to be ample and the inhabitants appear to be in good health. Activity has been suspended in most of the industrial centres, otherwise life in this region continues normal.

The entry of Generals Fayolle and Mangin into Mainz at 2 o'clock yesterday created a profound impression on that part of the population that did not remain indoors. It was one of the most memorable ceremonies of the occupation.

The strong guard of French troops requested by the authorities of the city had put an end to the pillaging of the military stores on Dec. 9. Their conduct since that time had provoked the most favorable comment on the part of citizens and officials, and that impression was strengthened yesterday when the men of the Tenth Army marched through Mainz with the same dignity that has characterized the forward movement of the French everywhere into German territory.

The Frenchmen swung through the old Hessian town which was French for a score of years after occupation by the Revolutionary armies, with the businesslike gait so familiar in the last four and a half years, apparently unconscious that they were victors marching into the conquered town of an adversary. The attitude of officers and men greatly facilitated the task of occupation.

The people of Mainz maintained greater reserve than the inhabitants of the other towns occupied by the French. Many of the houses and buildings were tightly closed, and a large proportion of the people in the streets were women and children.

After a review of the troops of the Tenth Army, General Fayolle and General Mangin were presented to the city and provincial authorities in the old Hessian grand ducal palace. The Burgomaster, the President of the Provincial Government, and the President of the Chamber of Commerce addressed General Fayolle, expressing the hope that the military authorities would cooperate with them in maintaining order and keeping the economic life of the region going.

General Fayolle, in reply, reminded them that the war imposed by Germany was one of the most cruel and unjust in history. He drew a picture of the devastation in France and Belgium, and the distress of families without shelter, their goods, products, and manufacturing machinery having been carried off into Germany and their soil left a desert.

The General recalled how, after repeated defeats since July 15, the Germans had been obliged to ask for an armistice. He assured the authorities that, however natural reprisals might be considered, they had nothing to fear from the troops of occupation, either for their persons or possessions, so long as they realized the situation and accepted the French occupation in a proper spirit.

The German authorities listened with respectful attention to a translation of General Fayolle's address and a short talk by General Mangin, who assured them of the co-operation of the army in maintaining the regular course of life in the occupied region. The German officials appeared disposed to continue the conversation, but they were given to understand that the ceremony was over and they filed out after ceremonious salutes.

DENIES MEXICAN WAR PLOT.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 15.—Stung by charges in newspapers in the United States that he was sent to Germany with the object of seeking an alliance which would make Mexico financially and politically independent of the United States, England, and France; also that Carranza had agreed to declare war on the United States, Rafael Zubaran, ex-Minister to Germany, says in an interview in a local paper:

"It is untrue that President Carranza gave me a commission to arrange an alliance of any kind with Germany. It is untrue that I would have made or tried to make an alliance which would have obliged Mexico to declare war on the United States if the United States entered the war on the side of the allied powers, or any other alliance.

"The seriousness of these charges prompts me to demand that the newspapers publishing them make known the source of their information, if they have any. I formally invite the papers which made the charges to show their proofs."

TO MAKE FINLAND FREE.

New President Encouraged by His Reception in Britain and France.

LONDON, Dec. 15, (via Montreal.)—President Mannerheim of Finland left Newcastle for Helsingfors yesterday to assume his new office. Before leaving he said his policy and aim was to secure recognition of the complete independence of Finland by all the powers, and to establish a definite form of government, based on the co-operation of all political parties.

It was also part of his policy, he continued, to establish good relations with Finland's Scandinavian neighbors, and to form a friendly alliance with the real Russia, which must emerge from the present chaos.

In the meantime Finland was in great need of food. The Allies, he declared, had arranged to send regular shipments of foodstuffs. President Mannerheim believed that all the German troops had now left Finland. The commercial treaties between Finland and Germany had been cancelled a few days ago.

In conclusion, he said he had conferred with the leading statesmen of Great Britain and France and was delighted with his reception.

TO FIGHT BOLSHEVISM.

Security League Plans for a Country-Wide Campaign.

The National Security League's post-war work will be directed toward a country-wide campaign to combat bolshevist doctrines in America. In a statement issued yesterday an officer of the organization wrote:

"The league emphasizes the fact that its efforts will not be directed against socialism, as such, but will be confined entirely to counteracting the various un-American influences parading under the guise of socialism. The league is definitely opposed to entering into any discussion on the economic claims of socialism. The league has no issue as a patriotic organization with the Socialists on their economic doctrines any more than with those who uphold free trade, single tax, or prohibition.

"Our attack is to be made on the bolshevist opposition to American government, American ideals, and America's war. All good Americans will agree to the necessity of suppressing activities and propaganda of any group aiming at revolution, believing in government by the minority, antagonizing the Constitution and the Supreme Court, and moving to undermine democratic government. The published Constitution of the Soviet Government and the doctrines of Lenine show that the bolshevist program includes ideas on labor control which are absolutely contrary to the ideals of American labor."

Buys Part of Bayer Business.

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 15.—The Grasselli Company, a large chemical manufacturing concern, has taken the chemical end of the business of the Bayer Chemical Company of New York, which was purchased last week by the Sterling Products Company of Wheeling. The Grasselli Company pays $2,500,000 for its part of the Bayer business, while the Sterling Company pays about $3,000,000.

LENINE REPORTED READY TO GIVE UP

MILUKOFF PLEA TO ALLIES

Says an Army Sent by Way of the Black Sea Could Save the Situation in Russia.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 14.—The Bolshevist leaders in Russia are engaged in heated discussions whether to abandon their entire régime, according to the Swedish Naval Attaché at Petrograd who has arrived here.

Nikolai Lenine, the Premier, and Leo Kameneff are said to favor abandonment, but they are opposed by War Minister Trotzky, Foreign Minister Tchitcherin and M. Radek, who urge holding out to the last.

The matter was brought before the Central Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates and Lenine was defeated by the slight majority of twelve out of 200 votes.

The Naval Attaché said that there were many deaths from starvation in Petrograd, especially among the children and the people.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 13, (Associated Press.)—Paul Milukoff, Foreign Minister in the first Russian Cabinet after the revolution, has arrived here with other Constitutional Democratic leaders and Social Democrats from Odessa to request permission of the allied command to proceed to Paris to urge that an allied army be sent into Russia by way of the Black Sea.

"The only possible cure for the present trouble in Russia is that an allied force be landed immediately in the south," he said. "The disorganized old Russian Army could rally around this force. The United States probably is in position to give the greatest help. It will cost the Allies less now than later, because the Bolsheviki daily are growing in strength, owing to the indecision of their opponents.

"The entry of allied forces would save hundreds of thousands of lives this Winter because the people will starve unless the civil war is ended and the transportation of food to Central Russia resumed."

M. Milukoff and other members of his party painted a dark picture of the disorders in South Russia, which the Bolsheviki are unable to control. The only military force is an army from the Caucasus which has little fighting capacity. It is composed of Cossacks and officers of the ol dimperial régime.

Railroad trains to cities, they add, are packed with fugitives from the country districts. Railway communication between Odessa and Kiev has been broken by an uprising of the Petulara faction which is opposed to the reunion of the Ukraine with Great Russia.

GLASGOW, Dec. 13, (Associated Press.)—Tens of thousands of soldiers are moving back and forth across the old Russian frontier. They come from many nations. All are returning to their homes and some of them are pillaging as they go.

The further the correspondent penetrated eastward from Vienna, it became more evident that the disease of Bolshevism was threatening to overturn the normal life of the population.

In some districts the situation is relatively quiet. In Western Galicia and around Warsaw, the Polish capital, there are said to be no food problems.

An incident showing the manner of the wholesale pillaging which is going on in some districts was related by a daughter of Count Edward Rayozynski, who has fled to Cracow from the family estate near Lublin. She had been living near Lublin with her children since the destruction of the château during the Russian advance in 1917. Recently bands of robbers, composed mostly of Polish peasants, began to burn the homes of the upper classes. Jewish peasants in the neighborhood promised to protect her when she appealed to them and succeeded in beating off attacks several times. Finally she succeeded in making her way to Cracow.

It is reported here that the army of the German General Hoffman, which is supposed to consist of 200,000 men, is scattered throughout Lithuania, and Northwestern Poland. It is stated that this force has become a great menace to the peace of Poland. According to the armistice agreement it was supposed to remain where it was and keep order until January. It is reported, however, that the force is slowly disintegrating, the soldiers being anxious to get home. Some are selling their arms to the Jewish and Polish peasants while others are taking up the Bolshevist cause.

ASSAILS JOHNSON'S STAND.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Dec. 15.—Jerome B. Landfield, who for many years has been a close student of Russian affairs, who is a member of the Faculty of the University of California, and whose wife is a member of the former Russian royal family, has given out a statement assailing Senator Hiram Johnson's position as most unfortunate. He says:

"It is evident he is not conversant with the facts, and it seems probable he has been imposed upon by some of the sinister forces employed by the Bolsheviki with a view of embarrassing the State Department. The facts are simple. Bolshevism is not a political system but a social disease, an opportunity for the criminal elements to glut their appetites for robbery and murder. The Soviet Government is not a Russian institution, but was made in Germany for the destruction of the Russian Army. Every proposition made by the Bolsheviki was on the face of it faithless and designed to split the Allies and disorganize loyal people.

"The Bolsheviki are the greatest menace of civilization today. They are plundering Russia and salting away the plunder for their own use, devoting it to propaganda, and probably $50,000,000 of this has been employed already, a considerable portion of it in America. The rest of the world must fear the spread of this vile pestilence. Where class hatred is strong and the proletariat is large, it will be worse than Russia.

"Such speeches as that of Senator Johnson afford powerful encouragement to the elements that are engaged to spread this poisonous contagion of German virus in our own fair land."

ASK AID FOR RUSSIA.

Federated Societies Also Favor a People's University Here.

The three-day session of the Federation of Russian Societies, meeting in Beethoven Hall, 210 Fifth Street, came to an end yesterday with the passing of resolutions favoring the establishment of a Russian People's University in this city, the establishment of a federal republic in Russia, the memorializing of the American Congress to come to the aid of Russia with food and supplies, opposing armed intervention, and denouncing dictatorships of any kind. The last resolution had especial reference to the Kolchak fiasco in Omsk.

Professor K. M. Petruenkivich of Yale opposed the plan of a people's university on the ground that the country now has a number of well established vocational and scientific schools available to the peoples of all nationalities. He argued that the Russians would not be able to compete with these institutions.

Alexander A. Bublikoff, the man who arrested the former Czar, spoke against the Bolsheviki. He voiced what seemed to be the sentiment of the convention that Bolshevism could not succeed but that a federal republic must be established. A. D. Semenoffsky, President of the Federation, read a number of communications from prominent Russians and Americans at the end of the session. Most of them favored the establishment of the Russian University.

A few facts for family discussion

Comparatively few women have had the benefit of wide experience as managers of money. In most American homes, the husband is "general financial manager."

But what happens when the wife has to become the financial manager?

If she suddenly comes into complete control of a large sum of money, for example—the life insurance her husband leaves, often she is bewildered by its size. It seems like an inexhaustible pot of gold into which she can always dip freely. She rarely has the necessary experience to administer "bulk money" safely and with sound judgment.

If you recognize that the wise administration of what you leave is quite as important to your family as the amount you leave, we are prepared to discuss with you for safe-guarding the money you leave

A COLUMBIA Trust Fund is simply money set aside for definite objects under the experienced protection and administration of this Company.

The trust fund operates precisely as you indicate either in your will or under an agreement you can make with us any time.

The establishment of a Columbia Trust Fund often becomes one of the kindest and most thoughtful things a man can do—for those he leaves behind.

An officer at any one of our offices will gladly explain how a trust fund can be made to meet your wishes and the needs of your wife and other heirs.

PEACE NOT TO HALT WORK OF RED CROSS

SEE THIS AS LAST DRIVE

Vice President Marshall and C. E. Hughes Plead for 100 Per Cent. Membership.

An appeal to the nation to "make the people of the United States and the members of the Red Cross interchangeable terms" was put out yesterday by Vice President Marshall and Charles Evans Hughes at a meeting in the Metropolitan Opera House to open the week's "Christmas Roll Call" of the American Red Cross. Both speakers emphasized that it was the duty of every American citizen to uphold the ideals of the Republic, not merely by declaring them, but by working through the American Red Cross to aid in the reconstruction of the countries devastated by war and to ease the pain and sorrow of those left wounded or without friends or relatives to care for them.

Vice President Marshall devoted more than half of his thirty-minute speech to a discussion of the ideals of American government and citizenship. In another part of his talk, referring to the invasion of Belgium "as a pink tea in comparison with the broth of hell when you consider the sufferings of little Armenia," the Vice President said:

"You think that peace has brought surcease from sorrow? No. You were not put here to be citizens of an entirely peaceful world. I am not quite sure whether the world really wants war to cease entirely. You were not put here in an entirely peaceful world. You were put here to exercise your God-given instinct of gentleness and kindness and mercy. So I beg you not to think that the work has been done or that peace has spread her healing wings over the nations of the earth. I beg you to remember that it is your duty to be tender and true to humanity.

"This war has taught me many great lessons. Before this war I imagined that the guarantee contained in the Constitution of the United States of freedom of speech and freedom of press meant the unlimited right upon my part to say anything I pleased about anybody, whether I knew anything about it or them at all; that liberty of speech and liberty of press meant mere power of expression. This war has taught me that what the fathers meant by liberty of speech and liberty of press was that no American, either in the hour of peace or the hour of war, ought to utter a single sentiment that will not redound to the glory of our common country.

"I thought that liberty meant very much the doing as a man pleased, but as I have seen these soldiers and sailors making themselves obedient to the military and naval law I have concluded that one of your great New Yorkers made the only real and true definition of a free people when he said that the freedom of a people consisted of organized self-control. And I have concluded that democracy no longer spells demagogy and that liberty no longer spells license. Now and then I know there are many fearful persons who are doubtful about the future of the Republic. But I have concluded that nations do not die by reason of their material wealth and prosperity, that nations only die when they lose their immortal souls. I am frank to confess that I was among that number who before this war had wondered whether the American people had lost their immortal soul in materialism. Thank God I know the American people did not lose their immortal soul.

"I know that here and there you can point to a profiteer in the contracts that have been made with this Government; that you can point to a man who would not obey all the food regulations; a workingman who worked on Sunday and took Monday for his holiday because wages were double on Sunday; but look at the record of this people and answer me if, when the hour of need came, every grade and every condition, from highest to lowest, from richest to poorest, from wisest to most ignorant, did not rise up to defend the immortal soul of America?

"I have learned that out of this great war there is coming a spirit of comradeship, of fellowship, and of good-will which is going to have much to do with solving the problems of the Republic, for whatever others may think, for myself I still believe that no finer form of government has ever been devised among men than the government which the fathers have transmitted to this generation. It is that government that I believe these boys of yours, when they come back from across the seas, will save from the grasping hand of greed upon the one hand, and the red hand of Bolshevism upon the other.

"I have discovered that no man or woman who has given his or her life in the defense of a great cause has ever died or ever can die, but any man or any woman who can subscribe to the Red Cross and become an annual member and does not do so, is dead, and I shall not return to New York to attend the funeral if you have one.

"Justice and mercy are to go together in the future years and if this Republic has a soul, and I believe it has, I believe that the handmaiden of the immortal soul is the American Red Cross."

In introducing the Vice President, Mr. Hughes referred to the visit of the President to Europe, and expressed the hope that the Peace Conference would result in ties binding the Allies closer together for the peace of the world than they were bound together in the prosecution of the war. "There should be, and I believe there is," he said, "one dominant thought in the minds of all patriotic Americans at this time, and that is a great pride and profound satisfaction in the greetings that are going forth from the heart of France to the representative of the people of the United States. The best of any office is not in official duty, but in unofficial privilege made possible by tenure of office; and in the absence of the President of the United States, it becomes the peculiar privilege of the Vice President of the United States to utter the thoughts of America, particularly at this time in connection with this great humanitarian enterprise.

"This is the last and best drive of the Red Cross—Victory's drive" continued Mr. Hughes, "our boys are crossing the Rhine, but they are crossing as the guardians of liberty and guarantors of peace. The Red Cross goes forward to repair the ravages of war, to bind up the wounds of those who have suffered in this cause, with its special message of humanity to a world not blessed by peace, and with a background of achievement which makes its record the brightest page in the illustrious history of the last four years.

"We cannot for a moment overemphasize the way in which democracy has made war. Not only have battalions and munitions been furnished, not only manpower and machinepower and all the extraordinary unity of force in men and arms; but this great force has been brought to the crisis in the world's history, guarded, guided, and ministered to by the heart of a democratic people which was not content with the mere supply of arms, but that every American son with all the passion and warmth and feeling, and depth of guardianship and conviction and protection which only generous people warned, as they were, and thrilled as they were by the thought of what was at stake in this contest, could provide for those who went forth not simply as soldiers, but as loved ones—the representatives of our homes and our firesides to guide, if need be, that other people might be secure in the blessings of home and of liberty protecting the home."

Mrs. August Belmont, assistant to the National War Council of the Red Cross, told of the work of the organization and the response of American women to the call in the last eighteen months, and asserted that there should be no slackening of effort now because it was the duty of the American organization to aid the sick and the wounded and the homeless in all other countries until they were able to aid themselves in overcoming the ravages of war.

"The work of the Red Cross is not going to stop," she said, "it is simply going to turn into other channels, and those who have been working on making surgical dressings should register themselves now for the future work that will take other forms. The Red Cross at the present time is taking care of and helping 200,000 families of men on the other side each month.

"They are facing a desperate time in Europe at the present moment. It is very critical. The war is over, but they are facing very strenuous and serious times. You cannot make ideals reality by simply proclaiming that they are your ideals, any more than you can make this country great by proclamation. We have concentrated every energy during the past eighteen months to making the world safe for democracy. We have now got to concentrate every energy and every nerve in making democracy safe for the world. That is a Government task, and a big task, but there is a very large share and a large part that can be carried on by the Red Cross and by the Red Cross workers.

"Mr. Davison said in speaking of the Red Cross that it was the mobilized heart and sentiment and spirit of the American people. In demobilizing our armies don't let us demobilize that spirit and that heart. Let us all stand together for the future service, whatever it may be, with an absolute confidence in the fact that those who have led us so wonderfully to such success and such real service during the war, will lead us out of the war into a very real program of service for the future."

Other speakers at the meeting were Colonel Whittlesey, Commander of the "Lost Battalion"; Dr. Woods Hutchinson, and H. D. Campbell, Chairman of the New York County Committee for the Red Cross Christmas Roll Call. The opera house was decorated with American flags and the insignia of the Red Cross, and the crowd that filled the greater part of the house received all the speakers with enthusiasm. There was music by the Pelham Bay Naval Band, Margaret Romaine of the Metropolitan Opera Company sang, and community singing under the direction of L. Camilleri of the People's Liberty Chorus. The stage was occupied by Red Cross canteen workers, ambulance drivers and nurses, sailors and a detachment of the 22d Infantry from Governors Island.

Vice President Marshall, Mrs. Marshall and their daughter arrived in the city at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. They were met at the Pennsylvania Station by Ethan Allen, Chairman of the Atlantic Division of the Red Cross, and Walter Jennings, Chairman of the County Chapter. The Vice President was taken immediately to the Metropolitan Club, where he was a guest at a luncheon given by Mr. Allen. Mr. Marshall probably will not return to Washington until Tuesday morning. He is staying at the Hotel Gotham.

At a meeting in the Manhattan Opera House last night to prepare the industrial units of the Red Cross for their part in the Christmas roll call, Major Gen. Emilio Guglielmotti, head of the Italian Mission to this country, told of the work of the first American Red Cross units on the Italian front and said that in disaster and in victory American mercy was always ready to take care of the wounded and to give aid to the civilians who were made homeless by advances of the enemy. Italians had learned to love America before American military units fought with the Italian armies, he said, because of the Red Cross. He said he had seen appeals from the Germans to this country for assistance in feeding the population, but he added that the bread ration there was still five pounds a week, "while in Italy, where bread is the chief food, it has been necessary to reduce the ration to three pounds a week, with two pounds of meat a month and no milk or eggs."

"I don't say this in complaint," he continued. "Italy is proud she has been able to make sacrifices in the common cause of humanity, and we are willing to make more sacrifices. But I mention them to show you how much anything the Red Cross can do for Italy or any other of the allied nations stricken by the war will be appreciated."

General Guglielmotti turned to the Chairman and said that he wanted to be the first to become a member of the organization for 1919, and that he hoped to bring in many other Italian members until the American Red Cross had members throughout the world. He was applauded loudly by the audience. The other speakers were Alice L. Day, Director of the industrial units in the county chapter, and Dr. Karl Reiland, rector of St. George's Church, who has been serving as a Captain in the Red Cross overseas.

RED CROSS WAR FUND CLEAR.

Interest on Gifts More Than Pays Administration Costs

The War Council of the American Red Cross announced yesterday in a financial report that for every dollar contributed to the organization by members more than $1.01 was used for relief work, because the interest on the gifts was more than enough to provide the operating expenses. Only 2 cents of every dollar appropriated from the general funds is needed for administrative purposes, leaving the surplus of interest for actual relief work.

According to the report for the fiscal year ended on June 30 last, the total management expense of the Red Cross was $2,164,865, including all expenses for the national headquarters and the fourteen divisional headquarters. None of this money comes from the war fund, but is withdrawn from the membership fund. About 8,500 persons work in the organization in this country, but 2,000 of that number are volunteers and receive no pay. More than 3,500 workers are employed overseas.

In addition to these paid workers, the 8,000,000 women in the Red Cross rooms throughout the country finished articles valued at about $44,000,000. It is reported also that the nation gave to the organization more than $300,000,000 in two war fund drives and one membership drive, all to be devoted to the relief work here and abroad. The cost of collecting this money was about seven-tenths of a cent on the dollar.

Appropriations for foreign relief work were divided as follows: France, $36,613,630; Italy, $6,410,630; Great Britain, except Canada, $3,684,529; Belgium, $1,432,374; Russia, $1,216,685; Rumania, $2,714,610; Serbia, $1,000,582; Switzerland, $807,937; Armenia, Syria, and Palestine, $3,461,827; Canada, $500,000; Poland, $200,000; Portugal, $6,000; miscellaneous foreign relief expenditures, $1,739,813. All these accounts, including the contributions and all other funds of the organization, are audited regularly by the Inspector General's department in the War Department.

Daniels Urges All to Enroll.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Secretary Daniels has issued this statement: "In this war the ministrations of the Red Cross have touched all parts of the world, chiefly those portions whose suffering was the greatest. I am proud to be a member of this organization, and I hope every American will enroll during the Christmas roll call. It enables all members in this world-wide organization to help where comfort and cheer are needed."

JUSTICE FOR WAR VICTIMS.

Andre Cheredame Says Peace Must be Based on Stringent Conditions.

On the eve of his departure for France Andre Cheredame, the French writer on international relations, was the guest at a dinner last night given at the University Club, Fifty-fourth Street and Fifth Avenue, by the American Defense Society. Various members of the society were asked to give their interpretations of American opinion to Mr. Cheredame as to what the attitude of the United States should be toward the Peace Conference. After this symposium, Mr. Cheredame spoke on the necessity of turning what he called the "virtual peace of the armistice" to a real peace of stringent conditions for the enemy. Among those who gave their views of the present situation were Darwin P. Kingsley of the New York Life Insurance Company, Professor Richard Gottheil of Columbia, Assistant Attorney General Alfred T. Becker, Professor H. F. Osborn, Richard M. Hurd, Maurice Leon, and A. G. Fox. Charles Stewart Davison presided.

"After hearing the expression of American public opinion," said Mr. Cheredame, "I shall be able to give the right impression to my countrymen, that the peace must be a just peace, one that is just to the victims of the Germans. The war is not really over because the facts of victory have not yet been realized. Germany is full of the things she has stolen from all Europe, and while the terms of the armistice give security for the present, we must have a peace that will give satisfaction for ten or twenty years or more.

"In the first place, France has lost more men than Germany, not only in proportion to her population, but in absolute figures. Germany, with a population of 68,000,000, lost 1,580,000 men, while France, with 40,000,000 inhabitants, lost 1,700,000 men. Added to this is the dangerous fact that the birth rate in France is one-third less than that in Germany. So the situation is much worse than before the war. Then the expense of the war has been much greater to France than it has been to Germany, for while the Germans made their shells, for instance, from French iron and Belgian coal, the French had to make them from American steel and English coal. In figuring the reparation to be made to France, we must consider both the direct and indirect damage. As an example of the latter, I may cite the tremendous pensions that France will be compelled to pay in the future. They amount to 10,000,000,000 francs."

PROPHET IS ALIVE AND WELL

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Dec. 15.—Abdul Baha Abbas, Persian prophet of the brotherhood of man, who lived in this city six years ago during his brief stay in America, is alive and well, according to the first news of him which has reached his followers here in a long time. A letter written in Palestine Sept. 26 by Ahmad Schrab and addressed to C. H. Edsall of 19 Walnut Crescent, says that the aged teacher, who became head of the Bahaist sect with its reputed 14,000,000 followers at the death of his father, and who has spent more than forty years of his life in prison and exile, is in perfect health.

"After years of forced silence and untold suffering," the letter runs, "I can take up the pen to write you these few preliminary words of joyous greeting. The most glorious news that I can just now impart to you is the perfect health of the beloved master and his dear family. Praise be to God, Palestine is now free and is on the road to virtuous life, national achievements, and unlimited progress."

BAGDAD RAILWAY BADLY RUN DOWN

Germans Allowed Most of the Locomotives to Become Unfit for Use.

DANGER IN TAURUS TUNNELS

Line Might Be Completed to Persian Gulf in Two Years, Director Says.

By WARD PRICE.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 21, (via Saloniki, Dec. 7.)—One of the greatest German schemes which the war has overthrown was the ambition for a German-controlled railway line from Hamburg to Bagdad. With the armistice the Bagdad Railway has entered another phase. Its eventual history rests with the peace conference to decide.

As to the actual condition of the line I had today a conversation with M. Edouard Haguenin, Director General of Railways. The tunnels through the Taurus Mountains were opened for broad-guage traffic last month and trains can now run as far as Neisibin, 100 miles west of Mosul. The track throughout is in good condition, but the rolling stock has been much deteriorated by overwork during the war.

Although there are still plenty of freight cars serviceable, two-thirds of the engines are unfit for work through lack of spare parts, which Germany has not supplied. Nevertheless, a limited daily traffic from Constantinople to Neisibin would be possible, together with a larger service of trains in Western Asia Minor, from which the food supplies of Constantinople are drawn, if it were not for a lack of coal, which has brought the working line to extremely reduced and irregular proportions. As regards the continuance of the service, the question of the existing German staff is a vital one.

"Most of our German engineers," said M. Haguenin, "are civilians who have been in this country thirty years. They have the required special knowledge of the Bagdad Railway, without which the line could not be worked. Even should the Allies insist on replacing them by engineers of their own, it would be necessary for the latter to pass a couple of months in collaboration with the present German staff before they would be able to accept the responsibility.

As to the probable time required to complete the Bagdad Railway to the Persian Gulf, M. Haguenin said that a great deal depended on what the British had done in Mesopotamia. Several hundred miles of tracks laid by the Turks beyond Neisibin would need to be reconstructed, as they were hastily done with poor materials. Working from both ends with adequate supplies of material and labor and with the use of the British military railways in Mesopotamia as lines of supply, he thought that trains might be running through to the Persian Gulf in two years.

NO GRAFT, SAYS PIEZ.

Denies Charges of Crime at Hog Island Made by Senators.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—Charles Piez, Director General of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, today denied charges made in the Senate yesterday by Senators Vardaman of Mississippi and Johnson of California that graft existed at the Hog Island ship yards.

"There is an official investigation of the Hog Island plant that is now in the hands of the President," Mr. Piez is quoted as saying. "I have not seen the report myself, but I know men who have looked it over and they tell me that Hog Island is cleared of all charges of crime and graft.

"The mistake in Hog Island lies in the bigness of the yard. But that is not the fault of the officials of the Emergency Fleet Corporation."

APPEAL FOR HOSPITALS.

Bankers and Brokers Asked to Aid Institutions Here.

The Bankers and Brokers' Auxiliary of the United Hospital Fund has sent an appeal to banking and brokerage firms and bank officials asking for contributions. The fund is used to help pay for free treatment of the needy by forty-six hospitals of New York City. Accompanying the letter is a pamphlet showing the work of the hospitals in the last year.

"You are aware that medical supplies, food, and fuel cost more than last year, and the sick and poor have not decreased in number. On the contrary, the return of our soldiers and the influenza and pneumonia epidemics have increased the heavy burdens of our hospitals."

The officers of the auxiliary are James Speyer, Chairman, and Walter E. Frew, Treasurer, 13 William Street.

ASKS FOR HIGHER PAY IN CUSTOMS SERVICE

One of McAdoo's Last Acts as Secretary an Appeal for More for Tax Collection.

BASED ON COST OF LIVING

Department Losing Valuable Men, He Says, Because Salaries Have Not Kept Pace with Prices

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—One of the last official acts of William G. McAdoo, the retiring Secretary of the Treasury, was to make a plea for higher salaries for Government employes.

Mr. McAdoo's plea was contained in a letter to Speaker Champ Clark, submitting a revised estimate increasing from $10,000,000 to $11,385,464' the amount requisite for defraying the cost of collecting the customs revenue during the fiscal year 1920. Mr. McAdoo asserts that the estimate is the result of a careful study of the relation of salaries in the Customs Service to the cost of living. He refers to the diminishing purchasing power of the dollar at the present time and speaks of the inability on the part of employes working on salaries fixed by law many years ago to cope with the present high cost of living.

In making public Mr. McAdoo's letter to Speaker Clark, the Treasury Department issued a statement dealing with the revised estimate. This statement read:

"This revised estimate is the result of a careful study made by Secretary McAdoo of the relation of salaries in the Customs Service to the cost of living. The investigation discloses the fact that the average salaries of employes of the Customs Service had advanced during the period from 1885 to 1914 from $1,245 to $1,290. This means that during the period of thirty years the increase made in the entire Customs Service was less than 4 per cent. During this same period the cost of living increased more than 50 per cent. It is true that in 1918 Congress granted an additional compensation of 5 per cent. on salaries of $1,200 or more, and 10 per cent. on those under $1,200 per annum.

Another 50 Per Cent. Increase.

"But it must also be remembered that during the period between 1914 and 1918 the cost of living increased a further 50 per cent. In other words, during the period between 1885 and 1918, the cost of living has increased at least 100 per cent., whereas the average salaries in the Customs Service have advanced less than 12 per cent.

"The situation bears most heavily on those receiving an annual salary of less than $1,400. The inevitable result of the situation is that the Government loses the services of some of its best men, who are attracted to the higher salaries offered by manufacturing and other business concerns.

"Secretary McAdoo therefore recommends in his letter to Speaker of the House that a minimum salary of $5 per day be paid to Inspectors of Customs, with corresponding increases for the examiners of merchandise, customs guards, openers and packers, weighers, Deputy Collectors, laborers, and other employes."

Mr. McAdoo says that during the period between 1914 and 1918 the cost of living increased a further 50 per cent. Between 1885 and 1918 the cost of living increased 100 per cent., while the average salaries in the customs service have advanced less than 12 per cent. The situation, Mr. McAdoo thinks, bears most heavily on those receiving an annual salary of less than $1,400, and says the inevitable result of the situation is that the Government loses the services of some of its best men, who are attracted to the higher salaries offered by manufacturing and other business concerns.

McAdoo's Letter.

The letter follows:

The Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Sir: I have the honor to refer to the estimate recently submitted by this department to Congress for defraying the cost of collecting the customs revenues for the fiscal year 1920 in the sum of $10,000,000, which estimate was based solely on the normal expenditures of the present fiscal year without providing for any increases in the compensations of the personnel. In view, however, of the greatly increased cost in living, with the resultant difficulty experienced by this department in retaining trained men of proven capabilities in the customs service at the present salaries, as well as the inability to secure competent employes from civil service registers who are willing to enter the service at the inadequate salaries provided, I have deemed it expedient to revise the estimate as originally presented and to submit an amended one calling for an appropriation of $11,385,464. I cannot too strongly urge that the same be given favorable consideration.

It is perhaps unnecessary for me to refer to the diminishing purchasing power of the dollar at the present time, nor to the utter inability on the part of employes working on salaries fixed by statute many years since, to cope with the situation thus confronted. The increased cost of living, and the humanitarian as well as the business necessity for raising the wage scale of employes in proportion to such increase, has been recognized by practically every non-Government concern in this country and prompt measures have been taken by them toward ameliorating the conditions which exist in this regard. This raising of the standard wage scale by commercial concerns has resulted in an increasing number of customs men of highly technical training and of many years' experience in the service resigning to accept more lucrative employment in commercial life. During the period of the war it has been possible in some instances, through appeals made to the men on purely patriotic grounds, to prevail upon them to remain at their posts, though at a great personal sacrifice on their part. Now that the war contingency has passed, and patriotism can no longer be used as a wedge to keep them in Government employ, there is every likelihood that unless some inducement is offered to retain employes who, by reason of their special qualifications, have made themselves almost indispensable in certain branches of the customs machinery, the Customs Service will be so seriously crippled by reason of their separation therefrom that it will be some time before the service has again reached that standard of efficiency and economy that at present obtains.

In the revised estimate I have provided for a minimum salary for inspectors of customs at $5 per diem and have also provided for increased grades among the low salaried examiners of merchandise, customs guards, openers and packers, weighers, deputy collectors, and laborers and other employes. These recommended increases have been confined to employes in the lower and intermediate grades and in no instance have been made applicable to employes at present receiving salaries considered sufficiently large enough to make both ends meet.

In the above connection I may state that it is quite doubtful whether there has existed in any other branch of the Government service a more consistent and systematic effort directed toward retrenchment in expenditures than in the Customs Service during recent years. In substantiation of this statement there is given below a table showing the customs expenditures just prior and for four years subsequent to the customs reorganization of July 1, 1913, at which time 160 customs districts and independent ports were consolidated into but forty-nine districts, viz.:

Fiscal Year.	Expenditures.	Saving From Preced'g Year.
1915	9,930,261	510,917
1916	9,813,085	117,176
1917	9,774,881	38,204

It will be noted from the above table that the original estimate submitted for 1920 was $441,000 less than the actual expenditures during the fiscal year 1914, immediately preceding the outbreak of the European war, when normal conditions obtained throughout the country, and that the revised estimate submitted herewith based on present abnormal conditions, though providing for increases in compensation aggregating $1,385,464, is but $454,032 in excess of the actual customs expenditures for the fiscal year 1913. I trust, therefore, that in determining the merits of the recommendations for increases in compensation involved in the revised estimate herewith submitted due weight' and consideration will be given to the achievements made along the lines of economy in the administration of the customs service as shown by the figures submitted above. Respectfully,

W. G. McADOO, Secretary.

TELLS OF KAISER'S RAGE.

Assailed Wilson When We Entered War, Davis Declares.

Dr. Arthur N. Davis, for fourteen years dentist of the then Kaiser William and other members of the German royal house, spoke last evening at the Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, 104th Street, between Amsterdam and Columbus Avenues, on the Kaiser as he knew him. Dr. Davis told of the interviews he had had with the former Kaiser, and he pointed out how sure the Emperor was of keeping America out of the war, and, after she did get into it, of beating her.

When, in 1917, America did enter the war, Dr. Davis said, the Kaiser summoned him and said: "What has your President been doing? But I have no fear of America. You have no officers, no ships, no trained soldiers. It was ridiculous for your country to declare war. The American people will learn, when it is too late, of the mistake they made by electing a college professor President."

Recounting previous interviews, Dr. Davis quoted the Kaiser as saying:

"Carnegie refers to me as a war lord. I am not a war lord. I have kept the peace of the world. Any nation would think twice before going to war with me."

At another time, previous to America's entry into the war, the Kaiser, according to Dr. Davis, said that he was greatly disappointed that America did not take up arms in Germany's favor. He said that such a combination would make America great; that it would be a means of crushing England and of America's annexation of Canada and Mexico.

RAIL PROBLEM PROGRESS.

Executives Discussing Future of Roads Conclude Sessions.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—"Gratifying progress toward a common, liberal program has been made," it was stated today after the final session here of the Standing Committee of the Association of Railway Executives, which has been discussing problems that will arise when the railroads are returned by the Government to private control. The committee, which represents 92 per cent. of the railroad mileage in the United States, had been in session since Wednesday.

"The whole question of the ultimate return of the railroads to private operation has been considered," said Thomas De Witt Cuyler, Chairman of the association, in a formal statement, "together with the development of a system of public regulation and control for the future which shall not only protect against abuses, but be affirmatively helpful to the development of adequate transformation facilities for the great after-the-war tasks of the country.

"The executives have now returned to their homes to consult with their various roads and with other interests vitally affected by future transportation plans. Further meetings will be held, but it is impossible now to determine their time and place. In due time the results will be laid before Congress and the public."

Bolsheviki Shout Spargo Down.

Police reserves were sent to Public School 84 in Brownsville last night because an audience of radicals grew disorderly when John Spargo, loyal Socialist, attempted to denounce Bolshevism. The speaker found his audience against him from the start and was interrupted by groans, hisses, and cat-calls. One heckler asked him why he was not in Russia fighting the Bolsheviki if he disapproved of them, but his reply was lost in the general uproar. His topic was "Social Reconstruction in Europe."

NEW YORK'S 100 NEEDIEST CASES

"Faith, Hope, Charity, but the Greatest of These Is Charity."

An Appeal to Kind and Generous Hearts on Behalf of the Stricken and Friendless, and the Children for Whom Santa Claus Will Be Merely a Dream Unless Aid Comes in Time

"Blessed Is He That Considereth the Poor."

Selected for The New York Times by Four of the City's Leading Charity Associations

THE annual appeal of THE NEW YORK TIMES for New York's Hundred Neediest Cases is made this year for the seventh time. The cases described are selected by the four leading charitable societies of this city, and are put forth as extreme cases of need in themselves, and as types of the struggles and sufferings of many others who have met with similar misfortunes.

The majority of the cases this year, as in preceding years, are ones in which the help now asked will be of permanent benefit. Most of the money contributed in the past has helped a family through a few critical months, until a sick father could return to his post, or until a mother was able to rest and regain strength, or a son or daughter to come of working age.

"In every case but one—though progress has varied—some permanent result for good has been attained," wrote Lawson Purdy, Director of the Charity Organization Society, regarding the cases selected by that organization for the Hundred Neediest Cases of last year. "In not a few instances have poverty and suffering been left far behind as a new and brighter future spread out its opportunities."

Result of Study in Brooklyn.

The Brooklyn Bureau of Charities made a study last year of the results of the contributions of readers of THE NEW YORK TIMES to Brooklyn cases among the Hundred Neediest, and Thomas J. Riley, General Secretary of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities, wrote:

"The outstanding features were that while in most cases the relief asked was temporary, the benefits were of a permanent nature; that sick and undernourished cases had been in most cases restored to health, and that many of the families appealed for had not only been saved from disruption, but had been started along the road to self-support."

In spite of general prosperity, the number of needy cases and the intensity of the need are probably greater this year than in the preceding year because of the prevailing prices and the sickness of the last year. The condition confronting all charities this year was described as follows by William H. Matthews, Acting General Director of the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, in his appeal on Sunday:

Many Influenza Victims.

"There is added reason for THE TIMES appeal this year by reason of the recent influenza epidemic, which robbed so many homes of the poor of their wage-earner, leaving mothers and children in trembling dread as they think of the coming year. Among the cases printed by THE NEW YORK TIMES this year will be found several of these families.

"The sudden glorious coming of peace has filled our hearts with cheer and thanksgiving, but there will be neither peace nor cheer in these homes unless good friends go to their aid. Rather will the season to them be one of additional sadness.

"To us one of the happiest features of the work has been the continued interest that some of the contributors have taken in the families throughout the year. Only last week a physician spent a part of a day with one of our nurses visiting the families he had helped through THE TIMES appeal. His last word was, 'I shall try to double my contribution to THE TIMES this year. This is a relief work that in addition to meeting emergent needs removes permanently the handicaps under which the families were suffering.'"

The gifts to the Hundred Neediest Cases go direct to the objects for which they are given without any deduction for administration charges. The four charitable organizations make a substantial contribution by furnishing the means of administering the funds, so that every dollar is made to give the fullest possible value in food, shelter, clothing, heat, and medical supplies. The following are the Hundred Neediest Cases:

CASE 100.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

Miss Sophie, 66 years old, has for years cared for her invalid sister, Miss Henrietta, 69 years old. Miss Sophie is now crippled by rheumatism and can do very little. Both are German born and registered as alien enemies. After leading secluded and quiet lives, the ordeal of being finger-printed and registered gave them a fright from which they have not recovered and they are still in more or less fear. They will remain together and live with a fair degree of comfort through the next year, if $20 a month is provided for them. The total amount asked is $240.

Homeless Boy Needs Care.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

Gordon's mother died wehn he was 3 years old and his father abandoned him. He was shifted from one bad environment to another until a few months ago, when he was put for the first time in a good boarding home. He is regarded as a very naughty boy, with a large vocabulary of swear words and a disinclination to do anything that he is told. The doctor who has been looking after him reported him "as a young animal." He has been improving a good deal in the home where he is now. He was just nursed through pneumonia by the woman who has charge of him now and is beginning to appreciate the care he has received. This good woman has not the money to pay for his support, but $4 a week will keep him with her. Total amount needed, $208.

CASE 98.

Widow with Seven Children.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

The father of this family was a thrifty and honest man, who took care of his household to the best of his capacity and paid all his bills until he died suddenly a year ago, leaving a frail widow and seven children, the eldest not old enough to work. The mother by untiring efforts has kept the family together in spite of dire poverty through the year, but her health has rapidly given way. The eldest girl, Rose, is uncommonly bright and a hard student. A year of special trade training will enable her to go to work with a good prospect of success to help care for her mother and the other six children. They are all children of good character, and the future of the family is fairly well assured if they are helped through the critical year ahead. The total amount needed is $1,200.

Ill, Works for Three Children.

[Reported by Brooklyn Bureau of Charities.]

Mrs. T. suffers from asthma and has to guard carefully against tuberculosis which has once attacked her. Overwork is a great danger to her, but she has nevertheless been earning $9 a week and caring for her three children besides—little girls of 8 and 6 and a boy of 4. She is determined to keep her three children, who are extremely happy with her in spite of hard times. Only $100 is asked to help them this year.

CASE 96.

Hard-Working Widow Ill.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

Mrs. Dominica C. got along until she and her oldest son suffered from influenza and were left greatly weakened. Since her husband died she had been earning $8 a week, and she made both ends meet with this. To do so, she, her 13-year-old son Michael, and the three younger children, 11, 7, and 6 years old, all slept in one bed. If she has good care she can go to work again shortly after Christmas, and very soon Michael will be helping her. To give them a little better shelter and some more food during the year, a total of $520 is asked.

Family Stricken by Influenza.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

John M., a hard-working young man, his young wife, and their baby all had severe attacks of influenza. The young husband, who was run down by overwork when the attack came, developed pneumonia and is still in a hospital. His wife cannot work and the weeks of sickness have swept away their small savings. They need only a little help to give them a new start; $100 is asked.

AN APPEAL FOR THOSE IN NEED.

THE readers of THE NEW YORK TIMES, who celebrate this year one of the happiest Christmases in history, will not overlook the needs of some of those whose misfortunes are recounted on this page.

Poverty is harder than ever to face today because of the high prices of food. Far more than the normal number of families have suddenly known distress for the first time this year because of the sudden death of the breadwinner from influenza. The fact that high wages generally prevail means nothing to women suddenly left widows with large families and no incomes. Most of the cases this year are of this type; good, industrious people, suddenly stricken by misfortune.

Gifts can be made for the Hundred Neediest Cases to THE NEW YORK TIMES direct or to the charitable organizations which selected the case from its records as one of the neediest. Widows for whom help is asked are only those who are ineligible to State pensions. The associations that reported the cases are as follows:

THE NEW YORK ASSOCIATION FOR IMPROVING THE CONDITION OF THE POOR, 105 East Twenty-second Street. Telephone Gramercy 7040.

THE CHARITY ORGANIZATION SOCIETY, 105 East Twenty-second Street. Telephone Gramercy 4066.

CASE 94.

Widow and Five Stricken.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

Since her husband's sudden death, Grace G. supported herself and her four children by $10 a week earned in a cigarette factory. Her children, 6, 4, 2 and 1 year old, have been in a day nursery while she worked. All five were taken with influenza. It will take months to rebuild the strength of the mother, during which time it would be fatal for her to attempt to work; $348 will help them until the mother can again begin to earn an existence.

CASE 93.

Orphan Boy Needs Help.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

Andy lived for ten years in terror of a drunken father, who quarreled with his mother and beat him and his little brother. Almost four years ago the mother died, and Andy and his little brother were sent to a big institution. Andy has been a shy and solitary child, because of the impressions of terror left by his early life. He has been sent recently to a wholesome family in the country, who are teaching him confidence and giving him a better outlook on the world. This family is poor, and $4 a week is needed to keep him. The total amount asked is $208.

CASE 92.

Mother of 4 Needs Long Rest.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

Since her husband died two years ago, Mrs. W. worked unceasingly, until her health was broken by an attack of influenza. She by her own efforts cared for her two daughters, Helen, 11 years old; Flora, 10, and two delicate little boys. Only a long rest can enable her to return to work, and then she has hard problems to face. Her two oldest girls, who are bright and ambitious, want to stay in school, Helen hoping to become a teacher and Flora a stenographer. It is doubtful whether the two girls can remain in school after they have reached working age to carry out these plans; $400 is needed to give the family bare necessities for the present.

CASE 91.

Illness Swept Away Savings.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

William M. found out that he had tuberculosis when he sought to volunteer for the army. He has grown worse, and is now in a sanitarium. During his illness his savings were swept away. His wife has not been able, unaided, to care for her four children, whose ages range from 1 to 10 years. The doctors advise William that he will be in sound health again if he remains in the sanitarium for a year. It will take $720 to keep the mother and children together in the meantime, and a total of $720 is asked.

CASE 90.

Young Mother and Baby Deserted.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

Winifred, a young mother with a little baby, has been deserted by her husband. She is a trained nurse, but she has recently been severely ill and is now entirely unable to work. Her baby has been for weeks hovering between life and death. If she gets a chance to recover her health she will be self-supporting. $300 is asked.

CASE 89.

Wants Little Family Back.

[Reported by Brooklyn Bureau of Charities.]

Mr. V. died suddenly of influenza, leaving his wife with six children and another coming. Mrs. V. and two of the children have had the same disease. The mother will not be able to work for many weeks. Already the mother has had to see her three eldest children—little girls of 10 and 7 and a nine-year-old boy—taken to institutions. She hopes they are gone for only a little while. If she is given help for six months, she can help to draw her family together again. $300 is asked for her.

CASE 88.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

The death of Mr. K. last Fall broke up one of the happiest and most affectionate families in New York. The devoted mother went to work with determination to keep her family of four children by her own efforts. With the help of 7-year-old Clara and 6-year-old Allen in the housework, she managed to care for them and the two babies until all the children came down at once with the influenza. This swept all her money away. The family needs $600 for the coming year.

CASE. 87.

Need to be Set on Feet.

[Reported by Brooklyn Bureau of Charities.]

The N. family has never before needed help. If they are set on their feet now there is no fear of dependence for the future. The father, suffering from influenza followed by pneumonia, has been in bed for weeks and the small amount he had been able to save for a rainy day is gone. The mother and three children, the youngest a child of 5 months, need help for a few weeks and all will be right again. Only $100 is asked.

CASE 86.

Father Taken to Insane Asylum.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

The mother and elder sister went to work for their family of five when the father was taken to an insane asylum. Toil and anxiety has broken the mother's health, and she cannot work again until she is out of the hospital. Angela, 15 years old, who earns $10 a week in a department store, is the only breadwinner. She can take care of the three younger children until the mother is able to work again if $315 is provided.

CASE 85.

To Keep Children Together.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

Amy, a charming little girl of 11, and "Buster," 8 years old, were taken from their mother because she was not a fit person to care for them, and their father was dead. It was not possible to put the two children in one home. Amy was put with a family which has been delighted with her and has kept her since. "Buster" has always been a handful for anybody to manage, and has been given up by one family after another because they could do nothing with him. The family of which Amy is now a regular member think he is a good boy just the same, and want him with his sister, who loves him very much. They haven't the money to keep the boy. One hundred and seventy-five dollars is asked to make it possible.

CASE 84.

Another Insane Father.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

Mrs. Mary K. needs held in caring for her three little children, because their father has lost his mind and been taken to an insane asylum. There is a chance that the family may be held together and supported by the mother later on, but they will need $500 in the year which they are facing.

CASE 83.

Widow's Burden Too Great.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

This industrious widow has been struggling for years to care for her four children. The burden is too much for her. Her eldest son has just come of working age, but is threatened with tuberculosis. If care is provided for him for a time, he can earn enough money, with the help of his mother's small wages, to keep the family going. They need $440 for the year.

CASE 82.

Deserted by His Parents.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

This is a frail, shy, little boy, 7 years old, deserted by his parents, homeless, and destitute. When his parents went away, nobody knows where, his grandmother took the boy for a while, but old age and desperate poverty have made it impossible for her to care for him. He has good qualities, and his adoption into a good family is certain if he is cared for and trained a little while. Two hundred dollars is asked.

CASE 81.

Aid to Fight Tuberculosis.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

Since her husband's death two years ago until the influenza epidemic, Mrs. Mary B. had cared for her two little children. She had a severe case of influenza and has not been able to get her strength back. She has to guard against tuberculosis, which once attacked her. Help to the extent of $200 is asked to enable her to regain her strength and resume an independent life.

CASE 80.

Victims of the Epidemic.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

The father and mother were industrious and thrifty, provided fairly well for their large family, and even put a little money aside. The birth of another child and the sickness of the whole family during the influenza epidemic swept this away, and the father, who was the last to have the disease, died of it. The broken-hearted mother is working as a janitress, but she cannot earn enough to keep her children with her, and they need $720 for the year.

Father Dying of Consumption.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

The father of this family, 30 years old, is dying of consumption and cannot help. The mother takes excellent care of the three children, but with a frail baby and two other little girls, the elder 7, to take care of, she is nearly at the end of the rope. Special care is needed for the three children to save them from their father's disease. They need $640 next year.

CASE 78.

Father Lost by Drowning.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

After a hard struggle to care for his wife and three children, Lawrence D. took a job in the country at good wages, leaving his family in a two-room tenement in this city, intending to send for them later. Two months afterward Mrs. D. got word that he had been drowned. The eldest child is 5 years, and the others 3 and 1. Mrs. D. is earning what she can by sewing, but is untrained as yet, and will not earn enough for all four for many months. Four hundred dollars is asked for them.

Widow and Fatherless Need Aid.

[Reported by Brooklyn Bureau of Charities.]

Mr. U. died last Spring after years of ill-health, leaving his delicate wife with three children, 11, 7, and 3 years old. Another child was born soon after the father's death. She has worked hard for them, but her health gave way completely. It will be months before she can take up the battle again. Five hundred dollars is asked for them for the coming year.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

The head of this family was a baker, and a steady, industrious worker. He took care of his family of six, but could not earn enough to set anything aside for them. He died of influenza early in the Fall. The mother is incapacitated for the time by an operation, and by an attack of rheumatism. The eldest boy, Leonard, 11 years old, is industrious and a good student, but cannot begin to earn money for three years. They need $65 a month for this year or a total of $780.

CASE 75.

Need Funds for Boy's Board.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

Donald is a bright, wideawake boy of 11 years, who will not go long unadopted. His father deserted his mother when he was very young. She was very frail, but she worked hard to take care of him, until a short time ago her reason gave way, and she was taken to an institution. Two hundred and eight dollars is needed to keep him in a good boarding home for a year.

CASE 74.

Family of Nine in Want.

[Reported by Brooklyn Bureau of Charities.]

The father, mother, and six of the eight children in this family came down with the influenza all at once. The father grew weaker, and is now in a hospital for consumptives. The eldest boy, Tom, at 16 years old is the main support of the family. He brings home every cent of his $10 a week to his mother. In time taken from her household duties the mother earns an extra $2 a week. Nine people cannot live on $12 a week. The second oldest boy will be a wage-earner in a few months, and the third a year later. For the coming year they need at least $150.

CASE 73.

Mother, Ill, Cares for Two Sons.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

The father of this family, who was a heavy drinker, abused his family for years and never fully provided for them. He is probably insane and is in a hospital for observation. The mother, who has been working as a janitress to provide for her two boys and to send them to school, is broken in health and must go to a hospital. The eldest son, Jimmie, 12 years old, has helped her manfully and will soon be working, but for the coming year the mother and children must have $480.

CASE 72.

Fatherless Family of Three in Need.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

Six weeks ago, while his little daughter lay ill with influenza, Joseph Z. died of pneumonia. His young wife, stunned, heart-broken, not strong herself, tried in vain to work out some plan for the future of her two children and herself. One of her children, a 4-year-old girl, is just home from the hospital. The other is a tiny baby. At the end of a year Mrs. Z. will probably be able to work for the family's support, but she must be helped through the coming year. $360 is needed.

CASE 71.

Chance for Delicate Boy.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

George is 11 years old, a nervous, sensitive, delicate boy, who now has his first chance of happiness and normality. He is the child of a drunken father and a mother who is mentally defective. He and his brothers and sisters had an incredibly miserable existence until they were taken from their home by court order. George is under the care of a nerve specialist now, and has been placed in an excellent boarding home in the country, where he will get a fine new start if $208 is provided for him for the year.

CASE 70.

Father of Four Is Stricken.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

The father of this family has been helpless for months with rheumatism. He received help for a time from lodge benefits, but this has come to an end. He had a wife, three little boys of 8, 6, and 3 years, and a little girl of 4. The mother is not strong enough to earn the money needed to keep a family of six. The father will recover in time and go back to work, but they are in great need now. It will take $75 a month to keep parents and children fed and cared for, or a total of $900 for the year.

Mother, with Five Children, Ill.

[Reported by Brooklyn Bureau of Charities.]

Walter D., an excellent mechanic, cared well for his wife and five children, until pneumonia following influenza took his life. The next week Mrs. D. and two of the children were taken with the same disease. The death and the period of sickness used up their savings. The mother, still ill, faces the problem of caring for her five children of 7, 5, 3, and 2 years and a tiny baby. She has nothing at all now. She is eager to work, but $300 is needed to help her through the coming year.

CASE 68.

Foster Mother Needs Aid.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

Until very recently Jack, 5 years old, had never known care and good treatment. His mother died last Summer, worn out by overwork and misery and brutalities from a drinking husband. The boy is under weight, apathetic and needing medical attention. He and his brothers and sisters were taken from the father, and Jack has been placed with a good foster mother, who is spending what she can on him, but she cannot meet the needs of the child for clothing and special care. One hundred dollars is needed for him.

CASE 67.

Mother of Four Needs $7.50 a Week.

[Reported by Brooklyn Bureau of Charities.]

Mrs. H. has made a hard fight during the four years since her husband deserted her to care for her three little boys and one little girl, and she had been fairly successful until her health broke down recently. She is still able to earn $7.50, but the expenses of the family cannot be brought under $15 a week. They need $390 for the coming year.

CASE 66.

Seven Without Funds.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

John M. had steady work as a blacksmith at good wages, but he could not care for his six children and a delicate wife and still save money. He died of influenza in October. The mother has heart disease, and although she gives the children good care, she cannot earn one cent for their support. The eldest child is 11. All seven are intensely fond of one another, and hope their home will not be broken up. They need $675 for the year.

Try to Keep Children Together.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

Lawrence, 10 years old, and his little sister, Edith, were taken from an irresponsible mother and separated. The boy was placed in a fine new home with a splendid mother and father, but his little sister could not be placed in the new home, too. The boy begged constantly to see Edith, and when she learned that she was to see her brother again, she became so excited that she could not eat. It was intended that the little girl was only to pay a visit, but when they were once together the foster-parents did not have the heart to separate them. The foster-parents are poor and can't quite make both ends meet under the circumstances, and $50 is asked to keep the little boy and girl together.

CASE 64.

Girl 14 Tries to Support Seven.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

A month ago Fred Y. was well and strong. He was working for the Government and had put $100 in Liberty bonds. Then he died suddenly of influenza. He left a wife and seven children, the oldest, Anna, a girl of 14, who went to work immediately upon the death of the father. But the Liberty bonds had to be sold to meet their immediate needs, and the seven cannot live on the little girl's income. Help is needed until the next girl is able to work, and $400 is asked for them.

CASE 63.

Mother, Ill, Cares for Six.

[Reported by Brooklyn Bureau of Charities.]

Robert O. died of pneumonia a week ago, leaving his wife with seven children, the oldest a girl of 9. Mrs. O. was sick, too, but as soon as she could get about she went to work in a factory. Her small wage was not enough for her large family, but she received help for months from her brother, who gave her a small weekly allowance, but recently he married and his help ceased. During the Summer the oldest girl was very ill with mastoiditis. The youngest girl died of complications, following measles. Mrs. O. herself was ill with influenza. The mother has taken wonderful care of her children under these circumstances, and the oldest ones are doing well in school. Seven hundred and twenty dollars is need to help this devoted mother with her great responsibilities through next year.

Little Father Needs Aid.

[Reported by Brooklyn Bureau of Charities.]

Howard, 14 years old, is earning $7 a week and is the only support of his half-sick mother and two other children. His father died of tuberculosis last April and his mother has not completely recovered from the same disease. The boy is working hard and making progress, but is not yet equal to the task, and $400 is needed for the family.

TAKE THIS TO HEART!

THIS is a typical case—typical of the "100 Neediest"—of thousands of others like them. The father is ill. He has always been the family's steady breadwinner, devoted to the wife and little ones. Hunger and terror of the future have come upon them now, through no fault of theirs, because "the father has broken down." Often it is tuberculosis; often the breakdown itself is caused by overwork for the dear ones in the little tenement.

Whatever has brought it about, the father's strength has failed. The family has been plunged into utter desperation. There is no food. There is no warmth. Little by little, even the furniture is being sacrificed.

There is a little new baby in the family, a little Christmas child, perhaps, whose coming was looked forward to joyously only a few months ago. And the mother is ill. She and her baby need all the things that only money can buy—food, warmth, care.

The other children are very young, far too young to help bear the family burdens. The little girl tries to do little things for her mother and the baby, but she is cold and hungry, too—and she is young enough still to dream of a child's happiness at Christmas. The little boy, who is older, can only look forward grimly to working papers—still years away, perhaps, but the destitute family's only hope. For the father was the only breadwinner. And the father is sick.

If they are helped now, they will be independent again in the future. For help now means strength. If they are forgotten at this Christmas time there is nothing ahead for them but starvation, invalidism, permanent helplessness. Their case is typical. Theirs is the misery for which aid is asked.

CASE 61.

Frail Child Needs Care.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

Tony is over 2 years old, but is just beginning to walk, because he has not recovered fully from a severe illness last Summer. Careful feeding and attention for the next few months will make him strong, but without them the frail child may not live and will certainly never be strong and fully developed. He has a hard-working mother, who is doing her best to bring her child back to health. She needs $100 to help her.

CASE 60.

Four Children to Support.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

Mrs. P. can earn only $3 a week, in addition to taking care of her family. Her eldest boy, Freddie, is only 11 years old, her little girls are 4 and 3, and her baby is a year and a half old. Her husband, an industrious man, who looked after them well until his illness, is in a hospital and must remain there for six or seven months longer. When he returns the family will be all right again. They need $300 in the meantime.

Father a Victim of Influenza.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

Influenza carried off Albert E., a conscientious worker and a good father. This occurred when his wife, whose latest child was less than a month old, lay ill with pneumonia. There are six other children in the family. The eldest, young Albert, will go to work in the Spring. The mother is barely convalescent now, and the plight of the family is desperate. They need $630 to see them through this period of trouble.

CASE 58.

Child's Innocence Betrayed.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

Rachael Edlin is a little girl of 14 years, who was soon to enter high school and looked forward to the time when she would aid in supporting her mother and two little brothers. She was a light-hearted and innocent little girl. Her misfortune came through her very innocence. She is soon to be a mother. Hardly out of childhood, she is destitute as well as deceived and deserted. If she is to make a new beginning she must be helped through the months just ahead. Two hundred dollars is asked for.

CASE 57.

Invalid Boy Needs Special Food.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

During the eight years since her husband's death by tuberculosis, Mrs. W. has worked long hours every day to bring up her four children. She is on the point of winning the fight, for her oldest girl is almost old enough to go to work to help her, and the second girl will be old enough in another year. But Henry, 11 years old, is developing the disease which caused his father's death. He must have special food, particularly fresh milk and eggs, which are far beyond the mother's present means. Five hundred and forty-four dollars will lift them over their difficulty.

To Maintain a Tenement Home.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

Mrs. R. worked hard for years at dressmaking to support herself and her blind husband. A few months ago he died. She collapsed immediately, and has not been able to work since. She is old, and the only thing she has to hope for is that she shall be allowed to stay in the tenement home where she has lived for many years. Her maintenance costs $29.50 a month, or $354 for the year.

CASE 55.

Mother Ill in Hospital.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

Mrs. Ella Keegan, whose husband died before her little boy was born and has since had nine years of hard work to keep herself and little Michael from want, is in a hospital, where she underwent a serious operation, and it will be several weeks before she can work again. She is anxious that her little son be kept for her. She has been paying $3 a week to have him cared for, but now all her money is gone. Three dollars a week and some clothes will provide for Mrs. Keegan and little Michael. Total amount needed, $75.

CASE 54.

Help Asked for a Homeless Boy.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

Jimmy Sharp, a bright-eyed, lovable boy of 11, never knew until recently what it was to have a good home. His father died long ago, and he was deserted by his mother. There was no restrainnig influence of the home for the lad. Recently he was sent to the country, where he is being taught how to control his temper and where all of his good traits are being developed. It costs $4 a week to care for him. The training he receives during the next few years will determine the man. Only a little money now will assure Jimmy's growing up to be a self-respecting citizen. Total amount needed, $208.

CASE 53.

Mother of Seven Needs Assistance.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

Seven children, the oldest of whom is only 13 years old, were left to the care of a widowed mother when Frank F., an industrious chauffeur, died two months ago. Mrs. F. takes excellent care of her children and her home is kept clean and orderly. She talks of going to work, which would only mean an early breakdown and her children left without the proper care. Ten dollars a month is provided by her Church, but in addition they need $65 a month to keep them well and strong until the time that the oldest child, Leonard, is able to work. Total amount needed, $780.

CASE 52.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

John, 16 years old, has been the only support of the family since the father and husband became ill, and he earns only $10 a week. To the family is soon to be added another member. CASE 51.

Widow Needs Assistance.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

CASE 49.

Taken from Drunken Father.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

Peter is 14, a frail child with a weak heart who needs constant care. He has been placed in a good boarding home and receives medical care. He will need education, for he is intellectually bright. These things must be paid for, and Peter has nothing at all. Total amount needed $208.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

Total amount needed, $870.

CASE 46.

CASE 43.

Seven on $5 a Week.

Her case came to the attention of the authorities when her husband, who was insane, was found chained to his bed in a miserable apartment with the wife ill, with her two-weeks-old baby by her side and her four other children showing the effects of ill-nourishment. The father was taken away. The wife, when she recovered, obtained home work. Madge, the oldest girl, 14, got employment as a messenger and the family income is $12.50 a week. To win them back their health and a limited measure of comfort will take $20 a month. Total amount needed $240.

CASE 39.

Cheated Out of Husband's Savings.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

When M. died in February he left his wife with money laid aside for "a rainy day." She looked forward to life with confidence. Susan, the fourteen-year-old child of the family, with a talent for music, had begun piano lessons and they were all happy. A relative took advantage of the woman's lack of business experience, and she was cheated out of every cent of her husband's savings. Now she is trying to earn money by sewing on blouses at $3.50 a week, and little Susan's hope of being a musician is a dim dream. The total amount needed, $300.

CASE 38.

Both are intelligent, manly lads and devoted to each other. Total amount needed, $416.

Father a Suicide, Mother Ill.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

When L., a surly, ill-humored man, committed suicide under a subway train he left a delicate wife and three small children. Although another mouth came to be fed seven months after the father's death, the wife bravely set out to support her little ones. When influenza was epidemic the mother and children were taken sick, and now the mother has not sufficiently recovered to be able to give the children, weakened by the disease, the care they need. They face Christmas with nothing. The total amount needed for this case is $756.

Two Dead of Influenza.

[Reported by Brooklyn Bureau of Charities.]

The father died six weeks ago when he had to undergo an operation for appendicitis immediately after getting over influenza. It left the mother to take care of five children, the eldest 9 years, the youngest a child in arms. There was another little boy, 3 years old, who died of influenza. Stunned by these two deaths, the mother is in no condition at present to face the future. She is, however, an excellent mother, a capable housekeeper, a woman whose home is worth protecting. A little help will give her a new start. Two hundred dollars is needed.

CASE 35.

Sorely Stricken Family.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

When the head of this family of six was injured and taken to a hospital the burden of its support was thrown upon the eldest girl, Emma, earning $9 a week in a factory. The father, anxious to take this burden from the shoulders of his daughter, went back to work before he had recovered, and broke down immediately. The mother then went out to work, but she had to give up her employment almost immediately to take care of her four-year-old daughter Nellie, who came down with diphtheria. This was too much for the mother, and Nellie had hardly recovered when the mother was taken to a hospital with pneumonia. While both parents were in hospitals the seven-year-old girl Margaret died suddenly of heart failure. Emma is still working in the factory, and looking after the two surviving sisters at home, but she is breaking under overwork. An income for a few months to give Emma rest and provide for the others until the father and mother have recovered their health will make the family independent again. Two hundred and forty dollars is all that is needed to do this.

CASE 34.

Handicapped by Parents.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

Dan and Sally, two young children, have been badly handicapped through their early childhood by having a drunken father, now dead, and a careless mother, who has been forbidden by the courts to have their custody. The children have plenty of intrinsic good qualities, and will overcome their bad start if they have a decent opportunity. They are to be sent to a good boarding home and to be well cared for if $416 is forthcoming.

CASE 33.

Father Is Going Blind.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

Mr. O., who formerly earned good wages and kept his family well, has partially lost the sight of his eyes and can no longer work at his trade. All that he has been able to do is office cleaning, and his earnings at that will not keep his wife and four little children—Harry, 4 years old; Hazel, 3; Patrick, a year and a half, and Helen, an infant. Their eldest boy, 6 years old, was run over by a truck and killed, and the shock destroyed the health of the mother, who is now unable to work. They need $480 for the year.

CASE 32.

Father Drowned in Rescue Attempt.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

George C. was swimming in Pelham Bay last Summer when a boy was seized with cramps. George swam to him and tried to rescue him, but both were drowned. George left behind him a young wife and four little children. She has been earning a few dollars a week sewing, but cannot support her family. It is the first Christmas which has not been a bright and gay one for the children—Bertha, 8 years old; Samuel and Louis, 6 and 4, and a baby. They need $600 for the year.

CASE 31.

Parents Dead of Consumption.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

Both David Kent's parents have died of consumption within the last few months. He is 2 years old, penniless and alone in the world, and threatened with the disease that carried off his parents. Two hundred and eight dollars is needed to care for him in the meantime.

CASE 30.

Six Children to Care For.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

The removal of the father to a sanitarium has left Mrs. K. with the problem of caring for herself and six children and another that is coming. The eldest, Tessie, 11 years old, is sickly. After her come the twins, Romeo and Giovanni, 9 years. Six-year-old Olga is in good health, but Mario, 4, and Mary, 2, are in very poor health; $855 is needed for them for a year, when the father may come back.

They can get along with an additional $25 a month. Three hundred dollars is needed for the year.

CASE 28.

A Mother Overcome by Misfortune.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

Mrs. S. was left to support her three children when her husband died. She worked hard at the impossible task. An unheard of temptation came in her way when a woman offered to pay $5 a day to have her nine-month-old baby act in the movies. She accepted and sent nine-year-old Jeanne along to make sure it was properly looked after. Jeanne was sent on an errand and the woman and baby disappeared. The woman landed in the Tombs and then in an insane asylum. The baby, badly trated by the crazy woman, was returned home ill and it died. The mother broke down completely. She and Jeanne and another daughter, six-year-old Grace, are destitute. They can get a fresh start if they are helped through this year. They need $720.

All of them were brutally treated by the father, a drunkard, who died recently. In spite of her illness, the mother has earned the rent and coal by janitress service. She is intensely eager to support her children, and is almost sure to sacrifice her life by overwork unless there is help. They need $480 for the year.

CASE 26.

He was a victim of the infantile paralysis epidemic and has to go on crutches. In spite of this handicap, he has been trying to earn money after school, because the family is to poor to support him. He loves these people and $300 will keep him with them until his education will enable him to pay his own way. Three hundred dollars is needed.

CASE 24.

Boys Need a Helping Hand.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

Six hardy, ragged little brothers, all lively and promising, will get along well enough if they have a little help just now. Their father, who took care of them as long as he had strength to work, is in a sanitarium. The mother worked "finishing garments" until her strength was exhausted. The oldest boy, who is 14, will soon be earning money, and others will follow him rapidly. The father may come back, but for the year they need $750.

CASE 23.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

Pauline, a girl of 18 years, is in desperate straits. She was left fatherless and motherless as a child. She will do well, nevertheless, it is reported, if she is helped through the hard days just ahead of her. Three hundred dollars is asked.

CASE 21.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

Rita, 15 years old, is doing extra school work with the help of sympathetic teachers to enable her in a few months to work at a trade. Then she will support her widowed mother who is in ill-health, and her grandmother, 85 years old and blind. Until she can work they need $270.

CASE 20.

Woman of 75 Needs Assistance.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

For more than twenty years Mrs. S. has lived in one little attic room, her bedroom, dining room, workroom, and library. She made flowers for a living until recently when a slight touch of paralysis made it impossible for her to do the fine work required. Her landlord has let her keep her room and is giving her $4 a month for a little cleaning and sweeping. She is 75 years old and cannot do much work, in spite of a vigorous and independent spirit. Two hundred and sixteen dollars will keep her one year, probably her last.

CASE 19.

Mother with Seven to Support.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

The father died a few weeks ago after eight months of illness which consumed his savings. The mother has been able to earn $6 a week at cleaning, but she has to look after her seven children—Nora, 9 years, not recovered from an operation on her throat and requiring special attention; Leta, a year younger, delicate since she underwent an operation on her knee a few years ago; Michael, 13 years old, a good boy, but not yet old enough to help; Ruth, 6; Mabel, 5; Joseph, 3; John, 1. Eight hundred and ten dollars will keep them together for a year.

CASE 18.

Child Needs Careful Training.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

Isabel's mother deserted her in childhood. Before long she was placed in a good home where her foster father and mother treated her as if she were their own flesh and blood. A year ago her foster father died suddenly. Her foster mother, almost an invalid, cannot keep her. She is now 12 years old, a precocious child, perhaps a little too forward, and what is technically called "difficult." She will be placed with a wise boarding mother living in the country, who has been exceptionally successful in giving the right training to girls who are hard to manage. Two hundred and fifty dollars is needed.

CASE 17.

Influenza Cripples a Family.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

The head of this family was committed to an insane asylum last Summer. The mother went to work and moved with her children, of 6, 4, and 2 years old, into a basement tenement. They were all attacked by influenza. If the mother can rest and build up her strength she can undertake at least a part of the burden of supporting them. For the year they need $500.

CASE 16.

Tuberculosis Impoverishes Family.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

There was no happier family than this one three years ago. The father was making good wages and his wife and Josephine, Elizabeth, Rose and Jack, all devoted to each other, lived comfortably and without anxiety. Then the father was taken with tuberculosis and has slowly been losing the battle to support his family. His aged mother is taking care of him and has put his bed in a front room, so that during the few weeks or months he has to live he can wave his hand at his girls as they go by on their way to school. The mother is delicate and the children have a tendency to their father's disease. They need $200 for the coming year.

CASE 15.

To Aid Three Orphan Girls.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

The hard-working mother of Maria, 12 years old; Angelina, 9, and Carmella, 6, maintained remarkably well since their father died several years ago. In the last year her health gave way and she died. The three girls, with bright, brown hair and pretty, dark eyes, cling to each other and are desperate at the thought that they may be separated. Seven hundred and eighty dollars will keep them together in a good boarding home for a year.

CASE 14.

Mother and Children Need Aid.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

Rosina, an industrious and intelligent young woman, was left with four children by the recent death of her husband. There will be another child soon. She has been earning a few dollars a week sewing. She has full confidence in the future of the family, after the birth of the child soon to arrive, but it will take $540 to keep mother and children together this coming year.

CASE 13.

Two Unfortunate Children.

[Reported by Brooklyn Bureau of Charities.]

Mrs. R., a widow, took in her twelve-year-old nephew Charles and her six-year-old niece Elizabeth, and has supported them by sharing her earnings of $9 a week in a factory, because their mother is in an insane asylum and the father, her brother, is in jail. She was barely managing until this Fall when she suffered an attack of pneumonia which made it impossible for her to go on. The two children are sickly and underfed. They need $300 for the year.

CASE 12.

Needs Care in a Sanitarium.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

Leon, a good boy, has since he has been able to work looked after his old father and mother, who are both helpless. He is 25 years old, and is working for them now, but he has been told that he will not live a year if he keeps on working. He had pneumonia and is now suffering from incipient tuberculosis. Two hundred and seventy-six dollars is needed to send him to a sanitarium until it is safe for him to go to work again.

CASE 11.

Influenza Impoverishes a Family.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

Timothy McG. idolized Bridget and Mary, his two little daughters. When they got influenza he worked night and day to get extra money for special care and food for them. By the time they had pulled through, he was tired out and ill. Three days later he died of the same disease. "He sacrificed his life for his children," the doctor told the charity worker who visited the family. Worn out by her efforts during this period of sickness, the mother is in a hospital. They have no money. Six hundred and forty dollars is needed to help them all to get well and to get started again.

CASE 10.

Girl Broken in Health.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

Josephine, 14 years old, whose father died last Christmas, went to work to aid her mother and her younger brother, Fred. She worked too hard and did not get enough to eat. She is completely broken in health and the three are destitute. If help is provided now she will be on her feet again, able to renew the struggle. They need $600 for the year.

CASE 9.

Boy Abandoned by His Mother.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

Owen is a year and a half old. He was abandoned by his mother to the first woman who would take the child. He has been almost without care. He would have been a fine child, if he had been looked after, and he will be a fine child yet. What is done for him now will determine his future. He has a pathetic pair of bow legs, the result of neglect, which would almost amount to a deformity later in life, if he is not supplied with braces now. He has been undernourished until now he is almost a shadow. He has big, blue eyes, and when he is remade physically, in a few months, he will be a prize for families seeking to adopt a child of good promise. In the meantime, $150 is needed for him.

Mother of Three Needs Medical Care.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

Mary M. had a happy childhood in the Danish West Indies, America's newest possession, and then went to Copenhagen, where she became a trained nurse. She married a chef and came to this country. They made money and did well until two years ago, when her husband died of heart failure, leaving her with three children—Clara, 10; Rose, 6, and Paul, not yet 3. She could not work at her profession without leaving her children. She worked in factories, scrubbed, ran elevators. She kept things going until her health failed. She has undergone two serious operations. She needs medical care and rest, and the children need food and shelter. The family will be kept together if $750 is provided.

CASE 7.

Eight Dependent on Boy, 14.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

Joe, who is 14 years old, has been trying, since his father died, to provide for his mother and six brothers and sisters. He earns $30 a month in a piano factory. His mother and the others, having no connections, since the father was buried in Potter's field, thought it was a case of living on what Joe brought in or dying. They did not know how or where to apply for aid, but neighbors brought their plight to the attention of a charitable society. They need $52 a month in addition to the big brother's aid; $624 is required for the year.

CASE 6.

Father and Four Children Ill.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

Mr. N. has fought a hard battle, through constantly recurring attacks of disease, to take care of his wife and four children. He has lost the battle. He has chronic asthma, which will always prevent him from working regularly, though he can earn a little from time to time. His wife has her hands full enough, looking after him and the four children, but she steals the time to work when she can to earn a little for them. William, 11 years old; George, 9, and the two baby girls, Anna and Carnela, have all been taken down, each with measles, followed by pneumonia. A family in a worse plight could hardly be pictured. They need $450 for the year.

CASE 5.

This Boy Never Knew Kindness.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Assoc.]

This poor boy, Cyril by name, 13 years old, has been wronged. He has had a shiftless father and an irresponsible mother, who have always looked on him as being in the way. He has been abused, when not neglected. The courts finally decided that he should never go back to them. He has hardly ever played with other children and has never known what kindness is. He is undersized and undernourished, with a sad expression and odd ways. He knows that he is ignorant and not like other children. He needs food, care, kindness and a chance to go to school. Four dollars a week will pay his board with a good foster mother. Total amount needed, $208.

CASE 4.

Grandmother Cares for Orphans.

[Reported by Brooklyn Bureau of Charities.]

Ethel is 11 years old and James 9. They suddenly became orphans four years ago. Their grandmother, who had put by a little to keep her in her old age, and their uncle, who was earning fair wages, took charge of them and got along well enough for three years. The uncle was carried off by pneumonia. The money which the grandmother had considered sufficient to keep her decently in her last days melted before high prices and the need of feeding three. Old and failing as she is, she went out to work for her dead son's children, but she cannot make enough for them. They need $250 for the year.

CASE 3.

Five Lack Means to Live.

[Reported by Charity Organization Society.]

This woman, whose husband died last February, has been keeping herself and four children since then on less than many men spend for cigars. Her struggle resulted in sickness which prevented her from earning even the small amount which her labor had previously brought. She must undergo an operation before she can return to work. Her children are Emily, 9; Raymond, 7; Max, 4; Margaret, 2. Emily, whose memory carries her back to good times when the family was better of, dreams of having a big doll for Christmas. Raymond prays to Santa Claus for a toy automobile. The two other children have never had experiences on which to base any glittering hopes. Whether any of the children realize their Christmas wishes, they and their mother should have the means of existence. Four hundred and thirty dollars will keep them for a year.

CASE 2.

Two Orphan Boys Homeless.

[Reported by State Charities Aid Association.]

The father of Martin and Edward deserted them and their mother a long time ago. The mother killed herself by overwork to keep and support them. Their sisters went to a grandmother, who was able to take care of the little girls, but could not stretch her means further, so the boys—Edward, 9 years old, and Martin, 4—are homeless. They are bright and pleasing children, with the marks on them of the careful training they received from their good mother until she spent her life for them. Eight dollars a week will keep them together in a good home for the coming year. The total amount asked is $416.

CASE 1.

Mother and Five Children Destitute.

[Reported by Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.]

A year ago this was a family of seven, the father, mother, Patsy, 5 years old; Betty, 4; Jimmie, 3; Alice, 1, and Ellen, just born. The father and mother had been thrifty and had money in the bank. But the father came down with Bright's disease through overwork, lingered six months and died. Then the mother and all the children were stricken with influenza. The money that had been carefully put aside was spent, because the family had always conducted its affairs on a pay-as-you-go basis, asking no favors. They now have nothing. Their barest necessities will come to $60 a month through the next year. The amount asked for is $720.

"My Unknown Chum" is delightful.

Clean literature and clean womanhood are the keystones of civilization and MY UNKNOWN CHUM is "the cleanest and best all-around book in the English Language."

"Life is too short for reading inferior books."—Bryce.

MY UNKNOWN CHUM
("AGUECHEEK") Foreword by HENRY GARRITY

"An Ideal Chum." You will read it often and like it better the oftener you read it—once read, it will be your chum, as it is now the chum of thousands. You will see France, Belgium, England, Italy and America—men and women in a new light that will make it the Chum of the home, of your traveling bag—and an inspiration for letters. It has naught to do with the horrors of war.

The essay-story of the beautiful girl and wife will remind many a youth, man, and Soldier of what he owes to womanhood in these truly inferno times.

It fulfills to the letter Lord Rosebery's definition of the three-fold function of a book—"TO FURNISH INFORMATION, LITERATURE, RECREATION"

SIR CHARLES FITZPATRICK, Chief Justice of Canada: "'My Unknown Chum' is a wonderful book. I can repeat some of the pages almost by heart. I buy it to give to those I love and to friends who can appreciate a good book."

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY—the largest wholesale booksellers:—"'My Unknown Chum' is a wonderful book—appeals to the cultivated classes. Has a remarkable sale. We sell more copies than we do of many 'best selling' novels."

EX-MAYOR JAMES LOGAN, Worcester, Mass., Vice Chairman Y. M. C. A.:—"A friend gave me a copy of 'My Unknown Chum' and since than I have given away about ten or twelve copies. I recently made a trip to San Francisco and took 'My Unknown Chum' with me for a second reading from cover to cover, a thing I have not done for thirty years, i. e., read a book the second time. It is wonderfully interesting."

CARDINAL GASQUET, the world's foremost scholar:—"I have read 'My Unknown Chum' with the greatest possible pleasure."

ALICE M. BRADLEY, author of the Belasco production—"The Governor's Lady":—"The title 'My Unknown Chum' most aptly describes the book. It is a chum, a confidant, with old-time manners and all-time observation and philosophy. He takes you with him and delights you. What delicious humor."

SIR THOMAS WHITE, Canadian Minister of Finance:—"I have read 'My Unknown Chum' many times over with great pleasure. What a beautiful, simple, clear style, deep human sympathy and insight it exhibits. It is indeed well named, for it is truly a chum to those who love literature."

PHILIP GIBBS, most brilliant of the English war correspondents:—"'My Unknown Chum' is delightful."

REV. FRANCIS P. SIEGFRIED:—"Whenever I want to give a book to an intelligent person I give a copy of 'My Unknown Chum.'"

EX-GOVERNOR AND SENATOR-ELECT DAVID I. WALSH, of Massachusetts:—(The only book he has ever endorsed to the public.) "'My Unknown Chum'—I cannot too strongly express the pleasure and companionship I found in this excellent book. It is all that is claimed for it—even more. It is not only a companion but a friend."

Whether young or old, you will find "My Unknown Chum" the best of comrades all through life. He will introduce you to about all that is worth while. He will tell you how to invest suffering with charm, how to manage should you, too, ever be "Hard Up in Paris" or elsewhere. His views of Cant—of Life are worth in lasting results a typhoon of spoutings from Serio-comic Revivalists.

Preachy? Not a bit of it. He will go with you to the theatre—take you "Behind the Scenes" if you like, tell about the art, the pleasures of the playhouse, with never a word or thought of the sensualistic rubbish that features only the flesh-mummer, her toothbrush brilliancy and the stage door—that leads to so many family scandals, domestic wreckage and divorce.

NEW YORKERS TOLD LOVE FOR GERMANY

Gifts in the "Golden Book" Accompanied by Sentiments of Deep Devotion.

MOST OF NAMES WITHHELD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Passionate words of love for the Fatherland and fervent expressions of confidence that Germany's soldiers soon wou'd vanquish the "jealous boastings of the enemy" were written on the pages of the "Golden Book of German War Orphans," presented as evidence to the Senate committee investigating German propaganda by Captain George B. Lester, of the Army Intelligence Service.

The book bore an inscription on the title page to the German Empress, to whom it was to have been sent. Instead it was seized by army secret agents, and now rests in the Senate committee's files. The committee decided not to make public most of the hundreds of names it contains, but a score or more were read into the public record.

The ornate volume contained the autographs of hundreds of American citizens—most of them born in Germany and some of them prominent—who gave funds for German war orphans, in the Winter of 1916 and the Spring of 1917, even after diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany had been broken.

"To my beloved old German Fatherland, mighty Germany," read one inscription signed by Leopold Zimmerman of New York, Oct. 19, 1916, in connection with a gift of $1,000. "You may well vaunt that your sons are victors, and that the jealous boastings of the enemy will soon be met by their merited end."

Another inscription said: "As a token of the beloved German Fatherland and her great Kaiser, Wilhelm II., the best and noblest prince of all history, from a number of truly German-thinking evangelical churches of the charge of Brooklyn—$100."

George Sylvester Viereck, editor of Viereck's Weekly, and a leader in the German propaganda movement, wrote: "Good fortune and blessings for the noble work. May there be no blank page."

Another page carried this announcement: "As a token to our German hero brothers and as a mark of our highest admiration of them and their incomparable hero Kaiser, the German-American Committee in co-operation with the German Church of Elmhurst, N. J., donates $250."

Dr. Kampmann, in a prison camp at Fort Douglas, Utah, Nov. 17, 1917, accompanied his donation with this explanation:

"The last piece of money—I hid it in a stocking—shall be dedicated to the war orphans."

The German round table at Kuechler's Roost, Reading, Penn., gave $1,000 on Christmas, 1916.

"So long as German bells ring from the Memel to the Rhine," ran an inscription by H. Urkschwerdt, "so long as the German sea breaks upon the strand, so long, O German people, remember what your fathers created in a memorable monument to German glory."

The committee's hearings will be resumed Tuesday.

PREDICTS EXTRA SESSION.

Penrose Thinks Appropriation Bills May Make It Necessary.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—An extra session of Congress to consider railroad legislation and the peace treaty, and perhaps several annual appropriation bills that may fail of passage in the short session will be necessary, in the opinion of Senator Penrose, ranking Republican member of the Senate Finance Committee.

"In my opinion," said Senator Penrose, "an extra session of Congress will be absolutely necessary, not because of the revenue bill, for that surely will be passed in time to provide taxes for next year. But I cannot see how Congress can dispose of the thirteen big appropriation measures in the next seventyseven legislative days. Then, too, the country expects Congress to give prompt consideration to the peace treaty in the Senate, and to railroad and constructive legislation in both Senate and House."

Senator Penrose will make the chief speech of the opposition to the Revenue bill in the Senate on Tuesday, and it is expected that the debate will not last longer than the end of next month.

ORDNANCE EXPERT ACCUSED

Moe B. Gottleib Charged with Stealing Big-Gun Specifications.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Moe B. Gottleib, an army ordnance expert, was arrested at his home here today on a warrant charging him with the theft of important specifications for big guns. He was released in $3,000 bail for his appearance at the preliminary hearing in the District Supreme Court tomorrow.

According to the authorities, they found in Gottleib's home two portfolios containing drawings and information relating to practically every kind of heavy ordnance used by the army. There also were documents detailing secret formulas for steel manufacture used by the Government, the police said, and the whole was carefully arranged and indexed.

Gottleib is 31 years old, and professes to have been born in Russia. There is no evidence, officials said, that he was connected with any foreign Government.

TELLS OF PACKING COSTS.

Cudahy Shows Profits Have Not Grown With War Sales.

E. A. Cudahy, President of the Cudahy Packing Company, in his annual statement to stockholders just issued, shows how the company's business expanded with the war—fresh beef exports increasing from 6,000,000 pounds in the year before the war to 417,000,000 pounds in the ten months ended with October. Sales for the year ending Nov. 2 were $286,660,971, compared with $184,811,423 in the year ended Oct. 27, 1917.

"We wish that the public could, from day to day, follow accurately with us the costs of labor, material, and live stock, and could see with us how these items account for the increased price of meats. Two things are fundamental. Cheap meats cannot be made from high-priced livestock with high-priced labor.

"By referring to the figures shown in our annual financial statement, it will be observed that if total reserves for income and war revenue taxes be added to our net profits as shown, we still have made less than 2.15 cents out of each dollar we have taken in, and that out overage profit has been slightly less than ½c per pound on the total volume handled, including both edible and inedible products.

"In 1913 our company paid to the farmers of the United States some $75,000,000 for the animals purchased. This year, and for a volume and weight approximately 33 1-3 per cent. greater, we have paid more than $180,000,000. In 1913 we paid our employes some $7,000,000 for wages and salaries. This year we have paid them in excess of $15,500,000."

ACCUSED OF SLAYING BRIDE.

Insurance Man Arrested After Alleged Bigamy and Murder.

MUSKEGON, Mich., Dec. 15.—Milo H. Piper, a wealthy insurance man, was brought back to Muskegon today to face a charge of slaying his bigamous bride to deceive his real wife. Piper's arrest at Hamilton, Ont., yesterday bared the story of a two-year effort to solve a mystery.

In 1915, it is charged, Piper met Miss Frieda Weichman at a Chicago tennis club. She was married to him at Crown Point, Ind., within a year, and the two started on an automobile honeymoon. Until August, 1916, the girl's relatives received letters from her, the last being from Faribault, Minn.

Early in September, 1916, section hands working on the Grand Trunk Railway in Eggleston Township, Mich., came upon a freshly turned grave near a railway crossing. A few minutes' digging brought to light the body of a girl clad in a night dress, a skirt, and a sweater jacket. The body was in such condition that the Coroner decided an autopsy would be useless.

While vain efforts were being made to identify the body, Mrs. F. W. Klinke of Hinsdale, a suburb of Chicago, who had been a friend of Miss Weichman, became alarmed at not hearing from her. After writing several letters to Muskegon, she came here and went to the Piper home, where she found a woman with a baby, who said she was Mrs. Piper. She went to Piper's office, but he denied ever having met Miss Weichman. Mrs. Klinke then appealed to the police.

Chief of Police Morey produced the clothing which had been found on the body buried beside the railway tracks. Mrs. Klinke immediately identified the garments as having belonged to Miss Weichman. Detectives were sent to find Piper, but he had vanished. He was traced to Chicago, from there to Detroit, and was finally arrested at Hamilton, Ont.

Piper is said to have been married about four years, and his wife and three-year-old child now live in Muskegon.

PLANS FOR NAVY WELCOME.

Secretary Daniels to Review Fleet Here on Dec. 23.

It was learned last night that Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, will review the seventy warships which are expected to arrive in New York next Sunday on Monday, Dec. 23, from 10 o'clock in the morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. In the evening the officers of the returning ships will be guests at a dinner and as many of the sailors as can be spared will be given shore leave in order to attend any of the theatres that suits their fancy, which will be entirely free to them.

On Dec. 24 and 25 the welcoming committee will hold no receptions of any kind because of the Christmas holidays. Thursday, Dec. 26, has been set aside as the official welcoming day, when Mayor Hylan will receive Admirals Mayo, Rodman, and Rogers at the City Hall in the morning. Later in the day a land parade of the sailors will take place, starting at the Washington Arch north on Fifth Avenue to Seventy-second Street, where they will disband.

It was announced by Grover A. Whalen, Mayor Hylan's Secretary, last night that a conference would be held today to perfect all plans for the celebration. Among those who will attend are Rodman Wanamaker, Major Gen. J. Franklin Bell, Rear Admiral Nathaniel R. Usher, Mr. Whalen, and Daniel G. Reid, Executive Chairman of the welcoming committee.

Peace Work for War Workers

Shall the mighty machinery of power which won the war be "scrapped?" How can the millions of soldiers, millions of women, great factories, vast capital, compelling energy mobilized for war, be employed to conquer the problems of peace?

How shall our industries be readjusted? How shall our man-power and woman-power be distributed? How shall business meet the new conditions? How shall war taxes be revised? How shall the great fleet of ships be owned and profitably engaged in developing America's foreign trade? What new fields for investment will be opened in Europe?

BURLESON CUTS TELEPHONE TOLLS

Long Distance Rates at Night to be One-Half and One-Fourth the Day Charge After Jan. 21.

DAY BASIS 6¼ MILLS A MILE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Postmaster General Burleson today announced a sweeping reduction in long distance and to all telephone rates on a basis of 6¼ mills a mile air-line mileage. The night rate is to be half the day rate up to midnight and one fourth the day rate between midnight and 4:30 A. M. The schedule becomes effective on Jan. 21, 1919. Mr. Burleson also contemplates making provision for what he will consider "scientific basis for future reductions" as his plans proceed for the unification of telegraph and teelphone wires.

The night rates begin at 8:30 o'clock and end at 4:30 o'clock. The night rate is said to be the lowest ever offered in any country and it is the expectation of Mr. Burleson that the service will receive extensive patronage. The day rate from San Francisco to New York is approximately $16. Between midnight and 4:30 in the morning this rate will be approximately $4.

In announcing the approval of the report of a special committee on rate standardization the Postoffice Department issued this statement:

"A station-to-station service is established such as now exists in the balance of the world, that is, when a connection is established with a man's house or office, the opportunity to converse is provided and the station-to-station rate, which is the basic rate, applies and is payable whether the particular person desired responds or not. This rate, up to twenty-four miles, is at the rate of 5 cents for six miles, and for greater distances 5 cents for each eight miles, or about 6¼ mills a mile. The distance is computed by air-line methods and not by pole-line or public highways. The air-line distances are commonly about 100 miles when the others would run 150 miles. It is stated by the committee that more than sixty varieties of toll rates have existed in the United States up to the present time. The effect of this uniform or basic rate in the station-to-station service is to reduce or not affect about 70 per cent. of the rates, though necessarily slightly raising about 30 per cent. in the process of standardization.

"It requires about two and a half times as much work to establish connection with a particular person than the station-to-station service. Hitherto the rates have been the same for both kinds of services, nothing being paid, however great the services performed, on the failure of the telephone institution to secure the particular person. The particular person service has also been used to defraud the Government out of its toll revenues. Designing persons employ codes under which, although the desired telephone is reached, the particular person is said not to there, but words of explanation given from his phone answer all the purposes of the call under the code arrangements.

"The particular person service is not discontinued, but the rate therefor is so modified as to prevent these abuses and compensate the telephone service in part for the extra expense of labor and plant involved, and a charge of 25 per cent. of the station-to-station is made for such service when the particular person is secured, and a report charge of 25 per cent. of the station-to-station rate is made when the house or office telephone is obtained and his whereabouts or refusal to talk is reported. It is pointed out that the system of making no charge whatever in such cases when the man's telephone had been reached and the answer given was like expecting the street car fare to be refunded to the visitor when he did not find his party in when he arrived, although all the work of carrying him from one point to another had been done.

"In many large sections of the country the smallest toll rate has been not less than 15 cents. Under the new scheme for short distances the rates are reduced to 5 cents and 10 cents, and for the cheapest form of service the person can talk five minutes, as compared with three minutes now, or in some cases only two minutes or one minute. Free toll areas where the exchange rate was designed to cover the free service or a low charge therefor are not affected by this order, which will go into effect on the 21st of January, 1919."

CLOTHING AWAITS BELGIANS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Announcement is made that about 25,000,000 articles of used clothing were contributed through the Red Cross in response to the appeal from the Commission for Relief in Belgium. Collected in September, this clothing is now being assembled at Newark for shipment. The number of articles is an estimate, but the weight of the clothing is 20,000,000 pounds.

The commission asked for 5,000 tons; the total amount collected was 10,000 tons, nearly every district doubling its quota. Clothing, cloth, and wearing apparel of all sorts is still pouring in at Newark. Three large warehouses are full to the roof. The Orange Riding Academy is piled forty feet high with clothing, and 250 cars are waiting to be unloaded.

Among the gifts was one of thousands of American uniforms of the civil war period, given by Bannerman of New York, dealer in army and navy outfits. Some of these uniforms of army broadcloth, when recut, will make very serviceable clothing.

FREES OIL INDUSTRY.

Government Drops Regulations Intended to Stabilize Prices.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The Fuel Administration announced today that it had asked the oil industry to suspend its voluntary plan to stabilize prices and obtain uninterrupted flow of crude oil which was recently extended for a period of three months. Similar action has been taken with respect to prices of crude oil or its refined products. It was explained that this suspension will be permanent unless events prove the necessity of again exercising control.

The administration said, however, that the licenses now outstanding would remain in force until the promulgation of peace, and that the rules and regulations as amended by the order of Dec. 7 were still effective. All agreements will continue subject to cancellation or assignment on request of the United States Fuel Administration.

The allocation of supplies of petroleum products for the Allies will terminate with the allocation for shipment during the month of January.

PAY HONORS TO TILLMAN.

Memorial Addresses in House and Senate to South Carolinian.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Tributes were paid to the memory of the late Senator Benjamin R. Tillman of South Carolina today at special sessions of the Senate and House. Democratic and Republican leaders joined in eulogies of the Senator who for a score of years was an active figure in Congress.

In the Senate addresses were delivered by Senators Smith and Pollack of South Carolina, Lodge of Massachusetts, Swanson of Virginia, Nelson of Minnesota, and Lewis of Illinois, and the House by Representatives Walsh of Massachusetts and Padgett of Tennessee, and by all the members of the South Carolina delegation. In the absence of Vice President Marshall, Senator Saulsbury of Delaware presided in the Senate, while in the House Representative Lever of South Carolina was Speaker pro-tem by appointment of Speaker Clark.

"WOMAN'S LIBERTY LOAN."

Suffragists Give $50,000 to "Get Last Senator's Vote Out of Way."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—More than $50,000 was contributed to the "woman's liberty loan" at a suffrage rally held here today by the National Woman's Party. The money was subscribed after Mrs. Toscan Bennett of Hartford, Conn., had asked the audience how much it would give "to get the last Senator's vote out of the way of woman's liberty."

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont of New York, one of the speakers at the meeting, gave $1,000, the New York State Branch of the party $25,000, the Pennsylvania Branch $15,000, and the District of Columbia Branch $1,000. From the Southern States came $500, and the new voters of Michigan sent $200.

The meeting was preceded by a procession of women representing all the countries of the world in which women vote. Behind them came twenty-six women who have served jail sentences here this year as the result of demonstrations in front of the White House. After they had taken their places on the stage they were presented with "prison pins" as an insignia of their services for "women's freedom."

It was announced that tomorrow the Woman's Party would stage a demonstration in Lafayette Square, opposite the White House, at which copies of all of President Wilson's speeches, including the two he has delivered since his arrival in Paris, would be burned.

Queenstown Bids Dixie Adieu.

QUEENSTOWN, Dec. 15, (Associated Press.)—The U. S. S. Dixie, a destroyer tender, which has held a large place in the hearts of the American sailors and the residents here, steamed slowly out of the harbor today on her way home. She was accompanied part of the way by barges loaded with American sailors, while crowds along the shore and at the windows waved flags. The band of the U. S. S. Melville, her sister ship, played patriotic tunes as the Dixie moved out.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Miss Julia C. Lathrop, Chief of the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor, and Miss Grace Abbott, Director of the Child Labor Division of the same bureau, will sail tomorrow morning for Europe on the steamship Adriatic. They expect to consult with child welfare experts in England, France, and Italy.

More Time to Vise Passports.

On account of the rush of travel to England since the signing of the armistice, the British Military Control Officer at the Consulate, 44 Whitehall Street, announced yesterday that three days' notice is required before a passport can be visèd. Until Saturday forty-eight hours was required, but there was so much congestion that the extra twenty-four hour rule has been established.

MACKAY ACCUSES BURLESON OF PLOT

Cable Seizure, He Says, Is Part of Scheme to Bring About Government Ownership.

IN HANDS OF RIVALS NOW

On the eve of an important legal conference which will be held today between officials of the Commercial Cable Company and counsel, Charles Evans Hughes and William W. Cook, to determine the next step in the fight to check Postmaster General Burleson's control of the cables, Clarence H. Mackay, President of the Mackay Companies, issued a statement yesterday after his return from a hunting trip. Mr. Mackay said:

"On my return to New York last night I learned of the removal by Postmaster General Burleson of George W. Ward, William W. Cook, and myself from the direction of the operation of the lines of the Commercial Cable Company. A few days ago he removed Edward Reynolds as General Manager of the Postal Telegraph lines. More startling still, Mr. Burleson has turned over our entire cable system, including five cables across the Atlantic, and the 10,000-mile cable from San Francisco to China, Japan, and the Philippines, a cable from New York to Cuba, and a cable from New York to Haiti, to our competitor, the Western Union Telegraph Company, which owns no cable lines whatsoever, (except a few short cable lines from Florida to Cuba,) but merely leases some cable lines in the Atlantic Ocean.

"Mr. Burleson has also called in as his adviser Theodore N. Vail, who caused the Bell Company in 1909 to acquire control of the Western Union and then proceeded to wage unscrupulous warfare on our land and ocean systems until stopped by the Attorney General of the United States, who forced these two companies apart. I see now that Mr. Burleson has appointed a new committee to control all wire communication —cable, telegraph, and telephone—namely, Union N. Bethel of the Bell Company, Mr. Stephenson of the Bell Company, A. M. Yorke of the Western Union, and F. S. Adams of the Kansas City Telephone Company. In other words, the Western Union and Bell Telephone interests are in the saddle.

"All this I consider a part and parcel of a widely spread plot to bring about Government ownership of all wire communications and incidentally enable the Western Union and Bell Telephone Companies to sell out to the Government at a high price. My companies have opposed Government ownership for years at all times and still oppose it. Hence we are marked for annihilation, with no delicate processes in the way of bringing it about. We will see about that.

"The course of events is significant. Last Spring the Telegraphers' Union suddenly developed activity. The differences between the union and the companies were finally referred to the President of the United States, and in a personal letter to both Mr. Carlton, the President of the Western Union, and myself he requested us to carry out the mandate of the Labor Board. The Postal Company promptly complied with the President's request. The Western Union refused. The union threatened a strike. The strike did not materialize.

"Then in a vague way the proposition was presented to Congress to pass a joint resolution authorizing the taking over of the telegraph, telephone, and cable lines. The Senate was assured that passage of the resolution would not be followed by action unless circumstances changed. The resolution was passed on that understanding, and immediately the telegraph and telephone lines were taken over, and later, five days after the armistice had been signed, the cable lines were seized. The compensation of the Western Union and Bell Telephone for the use of their telegraph and telephone lines was fixed by the Postmaster General at an extremely high figure. The compensation of the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company was fixed at about two-fifths of what that company actually earned last year.

"Then came the removal of Mr. Reynolds as manager of its lines, and now comes the removal of Mr. Ward, Mr. Cook, and myself from the management of our cable lines, which have been turned over to our competitor, the Western Union, with which company we have been in a competitive war for thirty-four years—ever since our existence. At the same time, a resolution is introduced in Congress by the Chairman of the Post Office Committee in the House for Government ownership of telegraphs and telephones.

"These are facts, and I think they show clearly the purpose of it all, namely, Government ownership for political purposes, with incidental high prices to the Western Union and Bell Telephone Companies for their properties. And this in America! I don't believe it will succeed. Only last night I was reading a book, just published by Max Farrand, Professor of History at Yale University, entitled "Development of the United States," in which he says that one of the causes leading to the trouble with President Johnson was the stubbornness of Johnson in regard to the continued exercise of excessive executive power. Professor Farrand says, (p. 235:) 'It would seem as if the members of Congress were instinctively right in opposing the overweening power of the President which had grown up in war times.'

"In a way, that is the situation today. The seizing of the cables after the armistice had been signed was an unwarranted use of war power after the war had ceased. It falls to our lot to be on the firing line. The contest is a much broader one than the mere seizing of the cables. It is a contest to restrict the exercise of executive powers to constitutional limits. In addition, our grievance is aggravated by gross injustice and discrimination. However, we are fighting the battle for the public, as well as ourselves, and the principle involved is vastly more important than our losses. We are in this fight to a finish."

Commenting on a dispatch from Washington, printed in yesterday's NEW YORK TIMES, and which reported Government officials as thinking that the appointment of George Clapperton of the Commercial Company as an aid to Newcomb Carlton, indicated Mr. Mackay's decision not to press the suits in equity against Mr. Burleson. William J. Deegan of the company declared yesterday that the actions would be carried through. He said that the suits were not bluff and that the conference to be held this afternoon would prove that they were not.

MAKE ALL WOMEN NURSES.

Frank Wants Law Requiring Girls to Take Two Years' Course.

Louis J. Frank, Superintendent of Beth Israel Hospital, has written letters to ex-Presidents Taft and Roosevelt, to the Surgeon Generals of the Army, Navy and the Public Health Service and to a number of prominent sociologists urging that with the coming of peace, Congress should enact a law for universal training of females in nursing. He says that women with equal rights have acquired equal duties of service and points out that health is of paramount importance, while, he says, public school education gives a smattering of other things and neglects health.

Mr. Frank says the hospitals at the present time could accommodate 2,000,000 nurse students and asks that at about the age of sixteen all girls shall be required to spend two years at the theoretical and practical nursing. He suggests that should young women desire to extend their professional studies along lines where this work would help, they could be given credit for what they had accomplished.

The letter adds that the need is pressing, since there are not enough nurses to take care of illness incident to demobilization.

TAXICAB MEN HELD IN BANK MURDER

Chauffeur and Starter Locked Up Without Bail on Homicide Charge.

BOTH DENY ANY COMPLICITY

McCullough, Who Drove Car, Says Robbers, with Guns at His Back, Forced Him to Get Away.

George H. McCullough, chauffeur of the taxicab in which the murderers of the assistant treasurer and paying teller of the East Brooklyn Savings Bank made their escape on Friday afternoon with $13,000 of the bank funds, and John Mulligan, a taxicab starter, were arraigned in the Adams Street Court in Brooklyn yesterday morning on charges of homicide. Magistrate McGuire ordered them held without bail pending an examination tomorrow. They were locked up in the Raymond Street Jail.

The police and District Attorney Lewis of Brooklyn, who ordered the arrest of Mulligan, questioned the prisoners further concerning the statement made by each declaring that he did not know the identity of the men who had hired the taxicab at Seventh Avenue and Thirty-eighth Street. McCullough's assertion of his innocence of any complicity or knowledge of the attack on the bank and his statement that he had never before seen the men until they hired him to drive them to Brooklyn without giving him a definite address were the chief points upon which he was quizzed. He was asked by one of the detectives:

"If, as you say, these men were strangers to you, why did you permit them to depart without paying their fare when they started for the bank?" The chauffeur said he had seen them first enter the saloon and had supposed they were looking for an address of some one in the neighborhood and had no intention of cheating him of his fare.

Detective Doody, who had fired at the gunmen and was hit twice by return fire, told the police at the Williamsburg Hospital that he had shot at the murderers before they reached the taxicab. McCullough was asked why he had apparently held his car for the robbers to reach it. His reply was that his passengers were at the car and had their revolvers pointed at him before the realized there was anything wrong.

"Why didn't you stall the car or run it on the sidewalk when you knew an officer was firing at your auto?" he was asked.

"Both of the men had their weapons jabbed at my back and told me it was certain death if I didn't make a quick get-away."

Before Mulligan was taken back to jail detectives went with him to Manhattan to have him verify certain details of his statement. Fingerprint experts sought in vain yesterday for some marks left by the murderers on the bank railing and other articles. As no photographs in the Rogues Gallery resemble the description of the robbers, and the roundup of known crooks has supplied no definite clew to their identity, the police believe the criminals are to be found outside the professional bank robbers.

The material clews so far consist of the white silk muffler worn by the man who shot the bank officers, and an oil-soaked raincoat, which McCullough said had been worn by the "tall gunman." It was found, however, that this coat did not reach below the knee of the man described as No. 1. An analysis of the stains on the coat is being made to determine if the garment was used in a garage or by a chauffeur. It was thought the coat may have been stolen or borrowed from a chauffeur, who would know the men.

Mrs. De Witt C. Peal, widow of the murdered paying teller, who was at Muncie, Ind., when she heard of the death of her husband, arrived yesterday at the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. William A. Peal, 159 Summit Avenue, Montclair, N. J. The funeral services will be held there this evening by the Rev. J. W. Stockton, pastor of the Union Congregational Church.

Which child finds it easy? Which finds it hard?

WHY is your little girl so backward in her studies? Is it because she is stupid? Is it because she is lacking in brains?

No, the reason may be purely physical. Schoolroom tasks are a heavy drain on young minds and bodies, and your feeble, thin-blooded child simply can't bear up under the strain.

But she is young. All life lies before her. Take her in time, and you can mold her into a strong, robust child, fit to take her place among the leaders in study and play.

Start the work of reconstruction with the blood. Milk and eggs are prompt blood builders. Fresh air charges the blood with oxygen. And if you will put your little girl on a course of Pepto-Mangan, she will be greatly benefited by that most excellent of general tonics, appetizers and blood restorers—

FRIENDLY WARNING: There is only one Pepto-Mangan and that is Gude's. Sold in bottle and package as shown here. For sale by druggists everywhere.

"The Red Blood Builder"

Pepto-Mangan helps create thousands of new, vigorous red blood cells. The red cells are extremely important to health and well being, because they carry and distribute oxygen—the breath of life—to every cell and tissue. And when the system is kept abundantly supplied with pure oxygen, it is filled with electric force and energy. Gude's Pepto-Mangan is exceedingly pleasant to taste, and it has been endorsed and prescribed by the medical profession for over 25 years.

An Honest Sensible Dentifrice

SEVERAL years ago we had a dentifrice formula which was pretty good, compared to other dentifrices.

We did nothing with it because we didn't want the name "Mennen" to go on just one more unnecessary dentifrice.

You may have noticed that each Mennen product possesses essential superiority over anything of the kind that is made. Mennen's Talcum took the place of harmful, starchy powders. Mennen's Shaving Cream introduced a radically new type of shaving soap that has become the favorite with millions of men. Mennen's wonderful Kora-Konia provided the only effective treatment for chafing, severe skin irritation and baby rashes.

Four years ago we learned of a newly discovered principle which was revolutionizing the whole science of dentistry.

This principle was based upon the researches of H. P. Pickerill, M. D., Ch. B., M. D. S. (Birmingham), L. D. S. (England), one of the world's leading authorities on dental science.

Dr. Pickerill conclusively proved:

a. That one of the principal causes of tooth decay is acid formed by fermenting food particles which find lodgment in tooth crevices and cavities and under the gums.

b. That a copious flow of saliva neutralizes and renders harmless these acids of food decay.

c. That an alkaline dentifrice is not only worthless but is actually dangerous because it paralyzes the salivary glands, stopping the flow of saliva and interfering with Nature's method of preserving teeth.

For three years our chemists worked on a dentifrice formula which would conform to the scientific principles expounded by Dr. Pickerill and accepted by the dental profession.

They succeeded in producing such a Dentifrice.

For over a year this Dentifrice has been withheld from the public in order that it might be tested on thousands of patients under the observation of prominent dentists who have been interested in and who have aided in the development of Mennen's Cream Dentifrice.

It cleanses, whitens and polishes teeth without scouring or grinding the enamel.

It increases the flow of saliva by introducing into the mouth a mild fruit acid which stimulates the salivary glands.

It has a 20% content of alcohol which serves as an antiseptic mouth wash and conditioner of the gums.

Try one tube. You will like it better than any dentifrice you ever tried. Your teeth will be cleaner, whiter and more free from tartar than ever before. A copious after-flow of saliva will preserve your teeth in Nature's way.

Mennen's Cream Dentifrice costs 35 cents. Gold is worth more than lead. Mennen's is better and costs more.

CASUALTY RECORDS MISLAID

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Thousands of hospital reports covering Marine Corps casualties in France, after having remained for months in a store room at the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery of the Navy Department, were unearthed today and turned over to officials of the Marine Corps who had been anxiously awaiting their arrival. The discovery of the lost documents was made through the insistence of Representative Igoe of St. Louis that such reports must be in existence because it was inconceivable that army surgeons would fail to report cases of marine casualties. The reports will bring to light facts about several thousand marines who have not been heard from since June and July.

It was the efforts of Representative Igoe to locate several St. Louis boys who were known to have participated in the battles of Château-Thierry and Belleau Wood, and from whom nothing had been heard by their parents or relatives, that led to the discovery of these records. The only other record which existed concerning these men was that they had been transferred to a replacement organization, which might mean another company or a base hospital, without specifying which one.

One case in particular which had spurred the St. Louis member of Congress to action was that of Michael Dinan Forrest of St. Louis. Soon after the declaration of war Forrest with his brother and other friends, joined the Marines and were sent abroad with the 84th Company, 6th Marine Regiment.

This organization was in the battle of Château-Thierry and contributed largely to the victory that is calculated to go down in history as the fight that led to saving the world, for it was in this engagement that the Germans were stopped and from that time on they were forced to retreat. The same organization was also in action in the Battle of Belleau Wood. Mrs. Forrest, mother of Michael Forrest, received word from a second son who was in this same engagement and in the same company with his brother, saying that when ordered "over the top" his brother was one of the first to fall and that from 10 o'clock until sun-down they shot over him and other Marines. The firing was so intense that they were unable to remove them from the field.

Since that time no word has been received from Michael Forrest, except the report that he was removed to a hospital a few days later. This notation appears on the July muster roll. All efforts to locate him or the hospital had failed, and it was the search for hospital reports that led Mr. Igoe to make the inquiry.

Upon being informed by officials of the Marine Corps, that they were not being received, he took the matter up with army officials, and was informed by Colonel Love, assigned to the Surgeon General's office, that the reports were being received and were sent daily to the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery of the navy. He also learned from Colonel Parker, chief casualty officer of the Adjutant General's office, that they had been receiving hospital reports and were dispatching them to the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery. When Mr. Igoe conveyed this information to the Marine Corps, officers were at once sent to the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery and found the reports. While most of the parents had heard from the marines through the mail, the department had no record of its men, and in several thousand cases the recovery of the reports has enabled them to perfect their records.

When the marines arrived in France they were immediately placed under the control of General Pershing, but the Marine Corps officials, as well as their surgeons, accompanied their organizations. When the men were removed to a hospital, however, they were attended by the medical men of the army, and it was for that reason that the reports came through the army officials.

Mr. Igoe has received the thanks of Marine Corps officials for the information that resulted in obtaining records. An investigation is also being made to place the responsibility for failure to send these reports to the Marine Corps where they belong. Despite the fact that thousands of records were found, none contained the names of the St. Louis men that Mr. Igoe is trying to locate.

ALL SAVED ON CORINTHIAN.

Steamer Ashore in Bay of Fundy Pounding to Pieces in Heavy Sea.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Dec. 15.—The British steamer Corinthian, which struck on Northwest Ledge, at the mouth of the Bay of Fundy, yesterday a few hours after she left this port for Glasgow with a valuable cargo, was reported to be pounding to pieces in a heavy sea. All her company of eighty-seven, under command of Captain David Tannock, are safe. She carried no passengers.

A few of her crew are reported to have reached Westport, Nova Scotia, and Freeport, Nova Scotia, in ship's boats. The rest, including Captain Tannock, have been taken off by the patrol boat Festubert and the Canadian Government steamer Aberdeen, which left here yesterday in response to a wireless call for help. Owing to the heavy weather they did not reach the scene of the wreck until this morning.

A few hours after the Corinthian first sent out radio calls for help communication with her ceased, and only scanty reports reached here tonight from the rescuing steamers. One of these messages stated that Captain Tannock of the wrecked liner was of the opinion that it would be impossible to salve her.

WOULD UNITE CREEDS IN CHARITY DRIVES

Felix M. Warburg Suggests Government Aid in Establishing a Common Fund.

JEWISH DRIVE IS EXTENDED

Two Days Added to Campaign for $5,000,000 That Full Amount May Be Subscribed.

Addressing the campaign workers for the $5,000,000 Jewish War Relief drive at the Hotel Biltmore last night, Felix M. Warburg, Chairman of the Campaign Committee, advocated that campaigns of a sectarian character be hereafter abolished. He hoped that the present campaign would be the last sectarian campaign conducted by the Jews for war sufferers among their own co-religionists and that in the future there might be only united drives embracing all creeds and for the benefit of all races and creeds, irrespective of geographical location.

Mr. Warburg suggested that the Governments of the United States and of the Allies, or the people of these countries, make sufficient loans or gifts to a common fund to make possible the reconstruction of the lives and fortunes of war sufferers, without respect to race or creed.

Announcement was also made that the drive, which was to have closed tonight, had been extended until Wednesday night, so that the more than a million dollars still needed might be collected. The vote taken on the suggestion to extend the campaign two days was carried unanimously. No announcement was made last night as to additional contributions by the various trades. The figures will be made known at the meeting this afternoon at 4:30. Mr. Warburg urged every worker and every individual who has taken part in the campaign to give his support to the membership drive of the American Red Cross, which starts today.

"Because we were delayed in beginning our organization work, through the extension of the United War Work campaign, it has been found impossible for our division Chairmen and trade workers to call upon more than 10 per cent. of the firms and individuals they feel sure would contribute were the direct opportunity afforded to them and were the situation explained to them in detail," said Mr. Warburg. "The results which have been achieved during this week by our workers have, in view of the relatively small proportion of prospects called upon, been remarkable.

"Our President is now in Europe with other representatives of this Government to obtain equality of opportunity for all the peoples of the earth, the nations that are great and the nations that are small. It is for this purpose that we entered the conflict. With political equality and political freedom for the peoples of the world, there will come united action and united purpose upon the part of Americans, and, let it be hoped, upon the part of all other nationalities, to give help where it is needed and when it is needed and in the form that it is needed, irrespective of creed, religion, race or geographical location.

"The suggestion made by me several years ago that by united effort it would be possible to raise in America a fund of $100,000,000 for humanitarian purposes has been amply borne out by the success of the Red Cross, United War Work, and many other campaigns, where the idea was adopted, so that now there is no sum so large that the American people do not respond and meet the emergency. I am sure that I, for one, to the extent of my ability, would enter into any program which would insure the attainment of this purpose and the attainment of this ideal condition, whereby humanity shall be placed first and human suffering shall engage the sympathies and the aid of all people at all times."

Among the additional contributions announced last night were $2,500 from Mr. and Mrs. James Speyer, $5,000 from Otto H. Kahn, $5,000 additional from Louis J. and Joseph Stroock, $1,000 from S. Oppenheimer & Co., $1,000 from Otto E. Dreyfoos, $1,000 from Rokeach & Sons, and $1,053 from the Y. M. H. A. of Wasehington Heights (second collection.)

Announcement was also made of two additional stars added to the honor roll for men in the service and embracing $1,000 subscriptions from Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jaretzki and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Samstag. There was also a $1,000 contribution from Samuel Weil. The B'Nai Jeshurum Congregation announced a gogue of $2,000, and the West End Synagogue of $2,000, and the West End ySnagogue Religious School $222, with a contribution of $2 from the janitor of the synagogue, not a jew. The Yorkville Synagogue contributed $1,000, and $95.56 was received as the result of a collection made by Miss Cora Spiegelberg in a public school. Three little children, Barbara Guggenheim, Janet Hellman, and Carolyn Straus raised $115 through a fair. Miss S. Lowenstein of the team headed by Samuel Untermyer and Mrs. Max D. Steuer, it was announced, has collected through her own efforts more than $17,000. A $200 contribution was received from True Craftsmen's Lodge.

THE essentials of a filing plan are:

First, it must be a finding plan; it must not only put papers out of sight, it must produce them—instantly.

Second, it must be the simplest arrangement possible, so that any new employee can quickly grasp its workings.

Third, it must not require an efficiency expert to keep it going.

Fourth, it must be capable of expanding with your business, with the least possible alteration.

Fifth, and most important, it must not revolutionize your business.

Amberg is not a systemizer, efficiency expert or business engineer; neither are they exponents of ready-made filing plans. While they deal in the physical means for making filing plans practical, Amberg's chief commodity is their knowledge of where to use and how to combine the principles of filing and finding.

Like a lot of your friends, the AutoStrop Razor was drafted—every set we could manufacture.

Soldiers must shave regularly because clean faces and smart appearance help keep up morale—also because gas masks must fit so close to the skin as to be air-tight.

We multiplied production many times over to meet the demands of the Government for our fighting men.

Now for the first time since last April we are permitted by the Government to make shipments of the AutoStrop Razor for civilian use.

Our hospitals can save more lives than the war has cost, IF—

EVERY great medical and surgical lesson learned in the war hospitals of Europe will now save lives in New York City. But we can save these lives only IF the service can be made cheap. This can be done only by hospitals. Many of the modern appliances cannot be carried round from house to house.

1. Only one person in 10 needing hospital treatment gets it. New York is far behind London. For contagious diseases alone London had (before the war) 6 times as many beds as New York. Typhoid fever, pneumonia, gangrene, meningitis, scarlet fever and measles do their foulest work in the poorer districts. But they do not stop there. They spread. Influenza cost the United States over 400,000 lives. The war has cost us less than 60,000.

We have cut the death rate in two since 1870. If all who need it get good hospital care—especially mothers and babies—we can cut that death rate in two again.

* * *

2. Disease is the most expensive thing we have. Three per cent. of the population, under ordinary conditions, are sick. In the United States that means 3,000,000 ill people who lose wages of nearly a billion dollars in a year.

It is as important to arrest a microbe as a murderer.

* * *

3. The hospitals must be more adequately supported, and extended as part of our reconstruction program. The war multiplied their expenses so much that 36 of the 46 United hospitals closed their last year with deficits aggregating $391,341. Hospitals are not money-making institutions. They are dependent upon gifts.

* * *

X-Ray Apparatus
Carrel-Dakin Apparatus
Chemical Laboratories
Bacteriological Laboratories
Microscopes
Ophthalmoscopes
Laryngoscopes
Electrical Apparatus
Diet Kitchens
Well-trained Nurses

And, above all, the best physicians and surgeons, ready for instant consultation and team-work.

4. The United Hospital Fund is trying to put its 46 hospitals in position to do more work for more people. It collects funds to pay for free service. The funds are divided by a committee consisting of the Mayor, the President of the Merchants' Association, the President of the Chamber of Commerce, Otto T. Bannard, Cornelius N. Bliss Jr., Arthur Curtiss James and James Speyer among the United Hospitals according to the free work they do.

The municipal hospitals cannot meet the needs, as they have only 40 per cent. of the hospital bed capacity of New York.

* * *

The United Hospitals draw no lines of creed or race. They are open to all. To share in the fund a hospital must come up to a required standard in its management, in free service rendered, and must make complete statistical and financial reports.

Do your part through the United Hospital Fund.
This will assure the wisest use of your gift.

JOHNSON'S DECLARATION OF WAR ON FRAZEE THREATENS ERUPTION IN LEAGUE

FRAZEE TO ANSWER JOHNSON'S THREAT

Boston Owner Is Expected to Resent Proposal to Sell His Club.

FEUD WILL REACH CLIMAX

Issue May Renew Fight for One-man Commission for the Two Major Leagues

Harry H. Frazee, President of the Boston Red Sox, will arrive in town from Chicago today and is expected to go upon the warpath at once with a reply to the statement issued by Ban Johnson, that the Boston Club would probably be in the hands of new owners before the opening of the 1919 season. The statement was issued after Frazee had boarded a train for New York and he has not had an opportunity to answer it.

Johnson's announcement has caused wide speculation among local baseball men. It is regarded as pointing directly to a climax in the feud between Johnson and Frazee, which began last Summer and has never abated. But it is generally believed that instead of ending the trouble and smoothing the troubled waters of the American League the action proposed by Johnson will precipitate a bitter fight.

It is regarded as quite certain that Frazee will not permit Johnson to oust him from the league without a struggle. He has acted quite independent of Johnson's wishes since coming into baseball and has openly resented the so-called one-man rule of the league. It was Frazee who started the movement in Cleveland last season to curb the powers of Johnson. He was left alone in that fight, but again this Winter he entered into a plan with Harry Hempstead of the Giants to obtain former President Taft as a one-man commission. This move was aimed to clip the wings and reduce the power of Johnson and it was the straw that broke off the amicable relations between Frazee and the American League President.

It is doubted by some baseball men if Johnson can oust Frazee from the league. While he may find some technical violation of league rules, it is asserted that Frazee may be able to win by going to the civil courts, which he might very reasonably do to protect his interests. There are numerous precedents for the removal of club owners, Charles Webb Murphy of the Cubs being one instance. But Murphy got his price and was willing to retire without further trouble. Frazee might go out peacefully under the same conditions.

As a result of the breach between Johnson and certain factions in his league it is said now that a movement is on foot to line up sufficient power to bring about a one-man commission at the joint meeting of the two leagues in February. The National League, through John Heydler, has already come out in favor of the one-man commission, but the plan has been opposed by the American League, through Johnson.

It was reported last night that Clark Griffith is now leading a movement among the American League club owners to get the support of the league for the proposed new form of commission.

Although Christy Mathewson has donned a uniform and gone to war, his position as manager of the Cincinnati Reds will be held open for him upon his return, if he wants it back. Announcement has been made at Cincinnati that Matty would have first call. However, Matty has had little communication with the club since he left to go into the Chemical Warfare Branch of the service. The club officials do not know whether he desires to lead the team again. In the meantime, Heinie Groh, who took up the reins when Matty went to war, will handle the club again pending definite action on Matty.

If the major leagues, at their joint meeting in February, decide upon a 140-game schedule, which has been proposed and favored, it will mean the end of one of the most picturesque angles of the game—the Spring training trips. With the season opening about May 1 these trips can be abandoned.

Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, is the first to announce that he will train his club on their home grounds if the short schedule is adopted. As the clubs always play exhibition games in the North during April, there is no reason why they cannot train at home.

HENIGAN SETS RECORD.

Wins Open Handicap Race Over Brooklyn Course.

Jimmy Henigan, former New England A. A. U. champion distance runner, carried the colors of the Brooklyn A. A. to victory yesterday in the open handicap road race of the Long Island Athletic League. The run was held under the auspices of the Brooklyn A. A. over a course of about two and one-half miles. Henigan, starting from scratch, finished about three-quarters of a mile ahead of the remainder of the field, and his time was 12:27 3-5. As this is the first time the short course has been traversed in Long Island A. L. races, Henigan's time makes a record for harriers to aim at in future runs.

The race was run as a sealed handicap affair. The eight athletes were sent off in a bunch, and their positions awarded according to actual time at the finish. Benjamin Finkelstein showed the way for about three-quarters of a mile, when he was passed by Henigan. The former Boston runner led for the remainder of the distance. Sam Herzig followed Henigan over the finish line, about two yards ahead of Frank Ruddy, but in the recapitulation Ruddy's time was found to be faster than Herzig's, and the former was placed second. Finkelstein finished fourth.

The order of finish follows:

J. Henigan, Brooklyn A. A., (scratch,) 12:27 3-5; Frank Ruddy, Brooklyn A. A., (1:00,) 12:29; S. Herzig, Brooklyn A. A., (0:45,) 12:36; B. Finkelstein, Brooklyn A. A., (2:00,) 12:40; W. Walsh, Swedish-American A. C., (2:30,) 13:22; Edward Mayo, Brooklyn A. A., (scratch,) 13:42; J. Lorenz, Brooklyn A. A., (2:00,) 13:01; W. Johnson, Brooklyn A. A., (2:30,) 13:17.

The New Yorkers put up one of their best games of the season, and held the redoubtable Jerseymen from start to finish. Wyatt, a new arrival from Chicago, who made his début with New York yesterday, cleverly outwitted the visiting defense.

After hiring a field in Greenpoint for the A. F. The home team waited until 3:30 o'clock, at which time Referee Connelly awarded the game to Morse Dry Dock.

A tie game, with the score at 2—2, was the result of the encounter between the Triangles and Crescent Field Club in the New Jersey Soccer League at Bayside Park, Jersey City, yesterday. The Kinley F. C., leader in the same competition, scored by default against the Eagle S. O., eleven, when the latter failed to appear at Clark's Field, East Newark.

DOYLE AND LOVING WIN.

Defeat Galligan and O'Brien in Four-Ball Golf Match.

Pat Doyle of Deal and Elmer Loving of Buffalo defeated Ted Galligan, the home pro, and C. J. O'Brien, an amateur, in a four-ball match over eighteen holes at the Marine and Field Club yesterday by a score of 5 up and 4 to play. Peter O'Hara of the Haworth Country Club was originally scheduled to play with Galligan against Doyle and Loving in a thirty-six-hole match. When O'Hara did not appear O'Brien teamed with Galligan.

Doyle furnished the leading play. He went over the course for a 67, which is one stroke under par. The successful pair had a best ball of 64, while the best ball of Galligan and O'Brien was 73.

WIND HOLDS DOWN SCORES AT TRAPS

R. M. Owen Has Only Perfect Run at N. Y. A. C. Week-End Shoot.

Poor light and a wind that distorted the flight of the targets were responsible for low scores being made by the gunners of the New York Athletic Club in their week end shoot at the Travers Island traps of the organization yesterday. R. M. Owen was the only Nimrod to make a straight string of 25 targets. He had a perfect run in the shoot for the Tournament prize, and then later in the afternoon took a special with another straight string of 25 targets.

George J. Corbett and C. A. Brown scored legs on the Red Cross Cup with full scores of 25 targets. In the shoot for the Byronel Cup at 50 targets, legs were scored by C. A. Brown, D. L. Culver, W. G. Allen, R. M. Owen and R. K. Spotts, Jr., the young son of R. L. Spotts, the former national champion. All had full cards of 50 targets. The high scratch of the day was Dr. D. L. Culver, who had a card of 93 out of a possible 100 targets. The scores:

LARSEN LEADS HARRIERS.

Former Chicago Runner Wins Morningside A. C. Road Race.

O. Larsen, a former Chicago distance runner, showed the way to a small field of harriers yesterday in the tenth invitation road race of a series being conducted by the Morningside A. C. of Harlem. The race was held over a course of about four and one-half miles. Because of the inclement weather the field was small, but seven runners getting away at the start. This was Larsen's second race as a member of the Morningside club and his first victory. He covered the course, despite the hard going, in 25:00.

William Jackson of the St. Christopher Club started off in the lead and set a fast pace for about two miles. Larsen then went to the head of the field and was never headed thereafter. He had an advantage of more than a city block on Jackson at the finish. H. Spies, Morningside A. C., and F. Wilson, Mohawk A. C., ran a dead heat for third position.

The order of finish follows:

O. Larsen, Morningside A. C., 25:00; W. Jackson St. Christopher Club, 26:00; H. Spies, Morningside A. C., 26:30; F. Wilson, Mohawk A. C., 26:30; C. Thompson, High School of Commerce, 29:00; C. Jeszeck, Morningside A. C., 31:00; J. Melnick, Morningside A. C., 32:00.

Morrison and Griffith are tied for fourth place, each with one victory and one defeat, while Cahill, Short, and Moses are tail-enders, each having sustained two defeats.

The players deadlocked for the lead in the three-cushion carrom tournament are Scudder, La Rue, Bassi, and Birs, each with one victory and no defeats. Snow and Downs have won a game each and lost one, while Maxwell and Rogers are last, with two defeats against them.

The tournament will be continued this evening. Moss and Short will play at English billiards, and Bassi and La Rue at three-cushion.

NOVICE FIRST IN PAULIST ROAD RACE

W. Leitch Leads Home Field of Twelve in Handicap Run.

W. Leitch, a novice runner of the Paulist A. C., captured his first road race yesterday when he led home a field of twelve rivals in a club handicap race held over the Paulist organization's course of about three and one-half miles. Leitch's actual time was 21:15, a creditable performance considering the unfavorable condition of the streets the runners traversed.

Leitch was aided in his victory by a handicap of 4 minutes and 15 seconds. The limit handicap of 5 minutes was allotted H. Mountain and P. Blainey. The successful novice runner judged his pace well and made rapid strides over the slippery streets. At the half way mark Leitch had drawn up on even terms with Mountain and Blainey, and in the next quarter of a mile he began to draw away from the field. Leitch continued to gain ground on his rivals until at the finish of the race he had worked up an advantage of fifteen yards on his nearest rival, A. Larson, who started from the 2:15 mark.

Al Hulsebosch, the club's cross-country captain, started from scratch and gained the fast time prize. He finished in sixth position in 18:07.

The order of finish:

W. Leitch, (4:15,) 21:15; A. Larson, (2:15,) 19:32; C. A. Mulcahy, (2:15,) 19:37; H. Mountain, (5:00,) 22:51; P. Blainey, (5:00,) 23:01; Al Hulsebosch, (scratch,) 18:07; Joseph Walters, (0:30,) 18:30; P. O'Connor, (1:30,) 19:47; John Phillips, (scratch,) 18:57; F. Curley, (4:15,) 23:16; P. O'Rourke, (3:00,) 21:30; J. Cerino, (2:15,) 23:14.

WRESTLING AT COLUMBIA.

Instructor Peterson Back to Resume Classes Today

Beginning today and continuing every afternoon, Columbia undergraduates will have the opportunity to resume wrestling with instructor Peterson and his assistant, Lieutenant Robb. Peterson received a very severe injury to his knee-cap while working out with one of his pupils about ten days ago, but the doctors have passed on the instructor's injury and he is ready to begin activities again.

Columbia will enter the intercollegiate season, beginning after the holidays, with a number of last season's experienced men who have decided to begin collegiate studies on the shuttle term.

When Thos. Jefferson purposely forgot to shave

THOMAS JEFFERSON, who refused a coach-and-six and rode his own horse from his Virginia farm to his inauguration, always retained his practical democracy and was strongly averse to what he termed "hollow social affairs."

Learning that he'd been trapped by some ambitious ladies into an unapproved levee at the White House, Jefferson deliberately walked in upon them straight from his daily ride—dusty, booted, spurred, unshaven. Whereupon the crestfallen society leaders saw that their crafty game was fully understood.

Yet Jefferson, at other times, was fastidiously clean-shaven, using precisely the same kind of a razor which your own father used—a time-proven instrument never improved upon until to its unbeatable shape and balance were added the safety and extra convenience of the

MUSIC

To Sing Weber's "Oberon."

Weber's "Oberon" in English will be produced at the Metropolitan on Saturday afternoon of next week, Dec. 28, as a "novelty" to this house, and equally so to most New Yorkers. It was sung nearly a half century ago at the old Academy, in 1870, and was again promised, but not performed, in 1883-84 by Colonel Mapleson. There are said to have been fugitive revivals as lately as 1912, but of these the record is obscure. Mr. Gatti's cast is as follows:

Oberon	Paul Althouse
Rezia	Rosa Ponselle
Fatima	Alice Gentle
Sherasmin	Albert Reiss
Mermaid	Marie Sundelius
Puck	Raymonde Delaunois
Huon	Giovanni Martinelli
Harun Al Raschid	Louis D'Angelo
Babekan	Mario Laurenti
Abdallah	Paolo Ananian
Charlemagne	Leon Rothier
Almansor	Carl Schlegel
Mesrour	Giuseppe del Grande

Conductor Bodanzky has edited the opera to speed up the action, and has composed recitatives for the spoken dialogue, using Weber's themes, as was done in Paris for Bizet's "Carmen." The "book" will be the original English text by James Robinson Planché, to which Weber wrote his opera for Covent Garden, London, in 1826, over ninety years ago. Nine scenes for the three acts have been newly designed by Joseph Urban.

Schumann-Heink and Russian Symphony

Three symphony orchestras, as well as that of the Opera House, gave concerts yesterday to audiences aggregating over 10,000. The first matinée of the Russian Symphony Society's fortnightly series, to continue until the Chicago Opera stars come to town, filled the Hippodrome's galleries and most of its vast floor to something like $5,000 receipts at the outset of the new venture.

Modest Altschuler conducted a popular program, Tschaikowsky's "Italian Caprice," Ippolitoff-Ivanoff's "Caucasian Sketches," Zoltareff's interesting "Hebrew Rhapsody," and Vassilenko's "To the Sun," a thing of "green-tinted dreams," of grasshoppers, dryads, gnomes, and a dance in air, in what the official note describes as "a blare of noise," hardly so terrifying in the great hall.

Mme. Schumann-Heink, who has sung for soldiers the country over, returned to the local stage for a great welcome. The contralto sang in Italian the air of Vitellia, from Mozart's "La Clemenza di Tito," with the artistry of other days--days of Lili Lehman, Marianne Brandt, her great compeers. After a Spanish bolero for encore, she gave another, "Danny," to an old melody suggesting Grainger's "Irish Tune."

After Isidore Luckstone's "Liberty Shall Not Die," for which she bade the house applaud "your New York composer," the singer added a stanza of "The Star-Spangled Banner." Both audience and orchestra remained standing while the players finished with Glazunoff's superbly scored "Allied Hymns," nine in all, of which Gretchaninoff's air of "The New Russia" had to be repeated.

Rosen and Cortot with Orchestras.

Sold-out houses greeted both the Philharmonic and Symphony Societies, respectively, in Carnegie and Aeolian Halls yesterday afternoon. Beethoven was in both programs, represented in Mr. Stransky's list by the "Pastoral" Symphony, and followed by a work less often heard of late, Wagner's "Tannhauser" bacchanale.

Max Rosen, the violinist, appeared with the Philharmonic men, playing Wieniawski's concerto in D-minor, Op. 22. The young New York artist has gained poise and confidence since his début last year on returning from Russia. He was heard with evident pleasure by the large audience, and repeatedly recalled. At the close the orchestra added Tschaikovsky's "Slavic March."

Alfred Cortot, at the Symphony Society's matinée, played Beethoven's pianoforte concerto in C, a work that the master himself, by a tour de force, had performed in C sharp at rehearsal long ago in Vienna. The French artist was in brilliant form, and the Aeolian audience was quick to recognize—as Wagner once did in Paris—that Gallic temperament and taste have "something to say" in interpretation of Beethoven.

Italy furnished a novelty at the start of Mr. Damrosch's program, Victor Sabata's "Symphonic Suite," a modest name for sketches from morning to midday, idyllic episodes "amid leafy branches." There were also Tschaikovsky's "Serenade" for strings, and for M. Cortot again, Chopin's "Andante Spianato and Polonaise."

McCormack Earns Gold Medal.

John McCormack has earned for war funds not less than $500,000 in the last year, and at his first concert "on his own" account at the Hippodrome last evening, Justice Victor J. Dowling took occasion during a pause in the program to tell the facts and figures, and to present a gold medal from the tenor's admirers here. The audience echoed Justice Dowling's sentiments, as it greeted the singer also, with great applause. The medal bore a shamrock from the "Fighting 69th."

Mr. McCormack's welcome was followed by his singing the national anthem, after which, in a program of unusual liberality, he sang for the first time a song called "I Shall Meet You," by Wilfred Sanderson, composer of another which had served Mr. McCormack well during the war, "God be With Our Boys Tonight." There were also "Love's Secret," by Bantock; the Irish "Mother Machree," and "Thine Eyes Still Shine," by Edwin Schneider, the accompaniment, as well as violin solos played by Winston Wilkinson.

Louise Homer and Thelma Given.

Mme. Louise Homer made her own apology, which wasn't needed, after pluckily singing in spite of a cold, at the Metropolitan Opera House concert last night. She gave Delilah's air from Saint-Saëns's "Samson," in place of one from Verdi's "Don Carlos," and before her group of songs with piano, in the second part, the artist spoke from the stage.

"I sing with difficulty tonight," she said, "because of a severe cold, but I will do my best rather than disappoint." Among the latter pieces, with the old "Twickenham Ferry," there was the new "Homeland," by her husband, Sidney Homer.

Thelma Given, the violinist, recently heard for the first time in New York after studying in Petrograd, played with the Metropolitan Orchestra Jules Conus's concerto in E minor and pieces by Debussy and others. Robert Couzinou sang a baritone air from Paladilhe's "Patrie," and Richard Hageman conducted Enesco's "Rumanian Rhapsody."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The Provincetown Players will give the second program of their season at their theatre at 133 Macdougal Street next Friday night. On the bill will be "The Moon of the Caribees," by Eugene O'Neill; "The Rescue," by Rita Creighton Smith, and "Tickless Time," by Susan Glaspell and George Cram Cook.

The cast of "The Widow's Might," in which Grace George will be seen in Hartford tonight, includes Leslie Austin, Zelda Sears, Mayne Lytton, Cora Witherspoon, Harry Hanlon, Kathleen Comegys, Arthur Dennis, and John Warnick.

Free performances of "Roads of Destiny" and "The Crowded Hour" were held last night at the Republic and Selwyn Theatres, respectively, for men in uniform.

The opening of "The Little Journey" at the Little Theatre will take place on Dec. 26 instead of the 25th.

"The Kiss Burglar," with Marie Carroll in the leading role, will begin a road tour in Newark on Christmas Day.

Robert Edmond Jones will talk tomorrow night at the Neighborhood Playhouse on "Costumes and Color."

1,786 Arrests During Year by State Troopers for Motor Law Violations.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 15.—State troopers during the last year made 1,786 arrests for violation of the motor vehicle law, and only 83 of the persons arrested were discharged, states a report made to Secretary of State Francis M. Hugo. The most common offense was the use of improper license plates, although driving without proper lights and reckless dirving were frequent.

According to the Secretary of State this year will show an increase of about 60,000 motor vehicles in the State, bringing the total to approximately 460,000 cars, of which 365,000 are passenger.

Reports to the Secretary of State for the last ten months from New York City show $148,000 was collected in fines, and that 203 persons were committed to jail without the alternative of paying a fine, while 171 others served sentences in default of payment of fines. The most common offense was speeding.

600 REACH HAMPTON ROADS

Secretary Lane's Son in Returning Naval Aviation Forces.

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 15.—More than 600 officers and men of the Naval Aviation Forces, who have been serving overseas, arrived at the Hampton Roads naval base today on the transport Susquehanna, which was sixteen days crossing the storm-swept Atlantic. In spite of rain and mist the men were welcomed by a big crowd.

Among the arrivals was Franklin K. Lane, Jr., son of the Secretary of the Interior, who was greeted by his father, mother, and sister. Secretary Lane and party boarded the transport from a naval launch at Old Point an hour before she landed, and accompanied by Lieutenant Lane they returned to Washington tonight.

As the men trooped cheering down the gangplank they brought with them all manner of souvenirs. One big sailor had in tow a tiny puppy, which he said was "the last living thing found at Armentieres." In his hurry again to set foot on American soil he did not stop to explain the circumstances of the finding of the mascot.

THE SCREEN

Augustus Thomas's "Arizona," expanded to contain the athletics of Douglas Fairbanks, is this week's feature at the Rivoli. One of the principal virtues of Fairbanks as a screen actor is that he keeps his play in a good humor, never letting it take itself too seriously. Many actors take impossible plots and go through them as if they thought they were living real life or as if the spectators might be persuaded to think so, and the usual result is an hour of wearisome bunk. But Fairbanks can take the most farfetched story of melodrama or the most slushy of sentimental scenes and, without burlesque, by spontaneous reality in the midst of unreality, save them from theatrical banality. That is why it is such a relief to see him occasionally—even if he is not the most subtle actor on the screen and takes the same character into every part.

"Arizona" in the hands of some other actor might have become just another screen melodrama, of the tedious hero-villain-weak woman-heroine combination, but with Fairbanks in the leading rôle, supported by a capable company apparently inspired by his spirit, it has become an enjoyable comedy in which the athletic stunts of the star play a conspicuous and entertaining, though by no means monoplizing, part.

"The Wanderer and the Whozitt," also on the Rivoli program, is one of the best scenics that Robert C. Bruce has done, and the applause that followed it yesterday afternoon was testimony that such work has a popular appeal and does not need the labored attempts at wit that have sometimes marred Mr. Bruce's excellent accomplishments with the camera. No one tried to funny with "The Wanderer and the Whozitt." The two dogs and the scenery in it were left to themselves—and every one enjoyed them.

"The Greatest Gift," a Red Cross roll call picture written by Hamish McLaurin, makes an effective appeal. It consists of a number of episodes showing relief by man of the sufferings of his fellow-man, and ends with picturing a bit of the Red Cross work of today.

There is nothing much to "Mirandy Smiles" except Vivian Martin, Douglas MacLean, William Freeman, Maym Kelso, Frances Beech, and some of the others who impersonate the stock characters of a sentimental comedy at the Strand this week, but the impersonations are true to type and easily equal to their purpose of filling the passing moment with entertainment. Mirandy is the daughter of a laundress; she scrubs floors in the opera house and smiles her way into every one's heart, including that of an organist, and finally she is sent away to school so she can come back and marry her hero. There are a number of really amusing scenes in the play, and the story stops pleasantly with the suggestion that Mirandy will go away and return properly polished. She is not miraculously transformed into a lady of learning and culture while the spectators wait.

James Montgomery Flagg's latest comedy, "Perfectly Fiendish Flanagan," with Mr. Flagg himself playing the part of Flanagan, who was made fiendish because he could not role a cigarette with one hand, satirizes the Western bad man of melodrama and movie fame. There would be just a little too much Flagg in the comedy if the author-actor failed to be clever as an author and entertaining as an actor—but he doesn't.

That element of frank make-believe that saves "Arizona" and "Mirandy Smiles" is missing in "Branding Broadway," the photoplay at the Rialto. William S. Hart cannot keep his story from taking itself seriously, and when such a story takes itself seriously it becomes a bore. Hart plays the part of a Westerner who is shipped East and becomes the guardian of a millionaire's son, whose principal avocation seems to be engaging in free-for-all fights. He does not fit in the effete East, and finally goes back West with the heroine, a waitress in an all-night restaurant.

E. M. Newman delivered his Traveltalk, "Wartime England," at Carnegie Hall last night and will repeat it this afternoon.

ESTIMATING THE INDEMNITY.

When Mr. Lloyd George talks of forty billion as England's demand for indemnity and intimates demands from other nations that would bring the total up to a hundred and twenty billions of dollars, the certainty that he is talking for election purposes becomes doubly sure. It is not a question of Germany's guilt, but of what she is able to pay within a reasonable period. That is a question before which the Peace Conference will sit down and think. It will first find out what the bill is, and then proceed to demand the last dollar of it, for at best it will be less than Germany ought to pay.

We have an easy way of estimating what Germany can pay, and we shall have to adopt a sure method instead of preaching demands based merely on what we would like to get. Germany's debt is about $35,000,000,000. The interest on that at 5 per cent. would be $1,750,000,000. Therefore we know that Germany herself believes she can pay $1,750,000,000 per year. We suppose the nations concerned would like to get their indemnities inside of twenty, thirty, or forty years, at the utmost, in which cases the indemnity would be put at $35,000,000,000, $52,500,000,000, or $70,000,000,000. As a business proposal, the last sum, which would wait forty years for payment, would seem on its face to be the least attractive of all.

Still, Germany has sinned outrageously, and the desire to make her suffer for a generation may be uppermost at the Peace Conference. We do not undertake to say which of these sums should be made the total amount of the indemnity. We do say, however, that this method of fixing it is the obvious common sense method. The Peace Conference is not going to estimate Germany's wickedness in dollars and cents and then try to collect it without any regard to whether it is collectible or not. It will know that Germany cannot pay the full amount to which her crimes point, for it would be at least double her entire national wealth. The conference will adopt a method of finding out how much she can pay, and this is a reasonable one.

FAIR PLAY FOR THE GOVERNMENT

Representative Mann, the Republican leader, has discovered a "scandal to the nation" in the backwardness of payments to the men in the services, and to their dependents. Also, the Senate Military Committee is investigating the alleged suppression of casualties, and serious errors which have been made in the announcements of them. There is no doubt of the existence of regrettable conditions regarding both speed and accuracy of reports and of payments. The reports of deaths have been thousands too few, some not being reported, and some have been reported which have not occurred. It is the same with wounds, in many times more cases. It is lamentable that what are called October payments are only being paid in December, covering the obligations accrued for September. It ought not to be the case that November allotments, for October, should not be even promised before Christmas. It is easy to say that no private business makes such demands for consideration in its shortcomings. But there is another side. No private business ever assumed such great responsibilities on such short notice and with such difficulties.

Our military forces of four million men were almost extemporized. They did not exactly leap into being between sunrise and sunset, but they did come into existence on a greater scale than the world ever witnessed, and on the whole with efficiency, although with disregard of all economic considerations. The economics of the expenses of the military administration is another story. But there are reasonable explanations of a great many regrettable incidents. Take the simple matter of names. In a list of four millions there are many identically the same. Sometimes the same name is spelled two ways, the foreign and the Anglicized, by different departments. Sometimes the errors are made through the intention of the owners of the names. Allotments are sometimes omitted through a desire to escape responsibilities. Sometimes allotments are made more than once, even to wives. Sometimes the names are right, but the addresses are wrong. Of course, the Government ought not to have relied on names alone, for mistakes, especially of duplication, are less likely with numbers. But the matching of the names to the numbers was not without difficulties. Names actually seemed to alter between enlistment and numbering, and some hundred thousand numbers were assigned in duplicate.

Representative Rucker charged "gross negligence," specifying that 300,000 letters were "dumped in a heap unopened." There can be no excuse for that. But consider that 3,000,000 letters have been answered by 994 trained correspondents and 13,000 typewriters. The work regarding casualties and payments is additional to the work of the insurance bureau. It alone has 30,000,000 individual records of one sort or another, assembled in three miles of card cabinets. The total life insurance business of all American companies is one-third less than that of the War Risk Bureau's total of $36,000,000,000 of life risks.

It is useless to pile up other items of the Government's task. The point must be clear that no task like it was ever presented to efficiency experts. The shortcomings are lamentable, and have caused grief in many cases. But it is to be considered that no private business is done under the pressure of a government making war. In business dollars and cents alone are considered. Governments care nothing for money, and little for lives, in comparison with whatever is necessary for winning battles. The same opinion which urges haste and waste of lives and money when the cause is in doubt, after the decision leads the condemnation of what was done. There should be reason and proportion even in criticisms which have good basis.

THE TURKS.

Mr. Ward Price's Constantinople dispatch to The Times is curious reading. He shows us the survivors of the Party of Union and Progress, which has led Turkey to destruction in ten years; which had torn the remnants of the Ottoman Empire into fragments even before the beginning of the war; which made the Arabians and the Albanians furious in its passion for Turkification; which played with the phrases of fraternity and equality and liberty and justice and parliamentary institutions for the purpose of organizing the massacre and ruin of non-Turkish races and a cruel, corrupt, and futile autocracy. Mr. Price shows us the survivors, by their want of conspicuity not yet forced to seek shelter from punishment, unrepentant, still affecting to hold the German view that Turkey is "unbeaten." The party which has achieved disruption and decadence under the name of the Party of Union and Progress now takes the title of the Party of Renovation. The cleverest and most cynical of modern Seljukian Turks, Abdul Hamid II., should be alive to grin at this new mask of his deposers.

Preserve and guarantee our independence—that is the cry. Germany, into whose arms the Young Turks flung themselves so recklessly, having broken down, shall not the old Concert of the Powers, an incursion of European officials pledged to supervise "reforms," be revived? Shall not the policy, so successful in Macedonia and Crete, be revamped? Administration must always be maladministration while the Turks have power in Turkey.

From London comes a strange amendment of the old benevolent plural-Power effort to "reform" the Turks. Let the United States do it! No more international jealousies among the tutors of Turkey. "There is a "very marked tendency in London "opinion in favor of the United "States undertaking the task of "teaching the Turks how to govern "themselves." The suggestion is well meant. A similar proposal was made by an English Liberal organ many years ago. The United States has quite enough to do in teaching itself self-government. It has no time or disposition for missionary "civic" work in Turkey. Indeed, it is far from enthusiastic about its opportunity and duty in the Philippines.

Self-government of the Turks is their business and none of our concern. What they should never be allowed to do, what for nearly five hundred years they have shown their incapacity for, is the government of Christians. These are their "herd," to be exploited or slaughtered, according to their good pleasure. No system of foreign control or supervision, single or joint, will serve. Drive the Turks back to Asia, whence they came and where they belong. There is much more than plenty of room for them in Anatolia. If they can learn to behave themselves and let an independent Armenia alone, well and good. If not, "reform" should be pressed upon them by the only means and suasion they understand, the sword. Turkey might have remained neutral and have got rich. She preferred to follow Bieberstein and Wangenheim and the German Military Mission and Admiral von Souchon and the Chauvinists of the Committee of Union and Progress. She made a mad bet and lost. She should be moved, bag and baggage, into Anatolia.

DIE WACHT AM RHEIN.

The American Army of Occupation crossed the Rhine at 7 o'clock this morning.—Mr. James's dispatch.

Quietly, it seems; there was no racket when the Wacht am Rhein began. And yet what says the poet?

> Es braust ein Ruf wie Donnerhall,
> Wie Schwert ge klirr und Wogenprall.

Wogenprall, not a bit of it. "The "troops, after their long hike, went to "billets quietly."

> Zum Rhein, zum Rhein, zum deutschen Rhein!
> Wer will des Stromes Hüter sein?

Why, the 1st, 2d, and 32d American Divisions, to be sure; at least at Coblenz, while the 3d American Division guards our Rhine at Mainz.

Nothing to be afraid of, Vaterland, so long as you behave yourself. Die Wacht (meaning thereby the 1st, 2d, and 32d American Divisions at Coblenz and the 3d at Mainz) fast stands and true. "The doughboys marched over in an undramatic manner," and the populace is now engaged in "learning "the difference between our regula"tions and those of the British and "French." There may be differences of detail, but the purpose is the same, and fest steht und treu die Anglo-Franco-American Wacht am Rhein!

THE SHIPPING BOARD'S REPORT.

The natural desire to know what is being done and what is being planned in a practical way to maintain an adequate American merchant marine after the conclusion of peace the United States Shipping Board in its second annual report, published today, is unable to gratify. The shipping act of Sept. 7, 1916, provided for investigations of "the relative cost of "building merchant vessels in the "United States and in foreign mari"time countries, and the relative "cost, advantages, and disadvantages "of operating in the foreign trade "vessels under United States registry "and under foreign registry." The navigation laws were also to be examined with a view to recommendations for revision of those laws and for "the development of the American merchant marine." In fact, Section 12 directed that the question of how the United States was to do its own overseas transportation should be thoroughly gone into in all its legislative and business phases. It is no doubt true, as the Shipping Board says in its report, that "conditions "arising from the war emergency "have made it very difficult to ob"tain proper data on which to base "conclusions."

Reports of investigations are being prepared, but it is the judgment of the board that until they are completed "definite recommendations should not be made." The fact of the matter is that it has had urgent business to do in building ships for war purposes with the aid of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, and there have been a thousand and one administrative problems to solve. The future of the merchant marine is complicated by present tasks; for instance, the bringing of American soldiers home and the pressing need of tonnage for transporting food, supplies, and materials to Europe. Famine must be averted and the foundations of reconstruction laid. The board is obliged to recommend that "the program for "the construction of vessels as modi"fied to meet peace conditions should "be carried through and should be "extended." In short, so long as the demand for tonnage is very little changed, the effect of war conditions continuing, the maintenance of the merchant marine promised is a question that must remain in abeyance. The board "deems it advisable to "submit to Congress at a future date "its recommendations." The case for delay, which is a plea for time and opportunity, disarms criticism. It is better to proceed with deliberation than to thrust the whole question in an undigested state upon Congress.

Anticipating necessary legislation by Congress, the Shipping Board has not neglected to recruit and train officers and crews for "the rapidly growing merchant marine." The schoolship method not promising quick results, men with some experience in seamanship were sent to special navigation schools for a short intensive period of training. No less than forty-three of these schools were established on the Atlantic, Gulf, and Pacific Coasts and on the Great Lakes. From June 1, 1917, to Nov. 9, 1918, the graduates numbered 3,300. The board estimates that after peace is concluded "the merchant marine will need a total of not less than 200,000 men." It now has nine training ships afloat, with a capacity of more than 4,500 apprentices. There is no part of the report more satisfactory than the account of this campaign of preparedness. Congress must do the rest.

Remarkable has been the achievement in shipbuilding. During the year ended Aug. 31 566 keels were laid, 358 ships launched, and 287 ships of 1,800,000 deadweight tons were completed. The question for the American people is whether they will possess and maintain the merchant fleet built and building, or fling away their golden opportunity.

THE BENEFIT IS PERMANENT.

Accompanying the appeal for assistance for the Hundred Neediest Cases of this Winter, which was published in yesterday's Times, were accounts given by the four charitable organizations furnishing the information as to the results of the assistance given to the cases on last year's list. Their stories may be summed up in a sentence from one of them—"the re"lief was temporary, the benefits "were permanent." Except for the few instances in which help was asked for an elderly person who was unable to work, practically every case presented an opportunity for temporary assistance which would put a family or an individual back into the ranks of the self-supporting.

Temporary casualties of this sort are all too numerous this year. The influenza has taken away the only breadwinner from many homes in the poorer districts. Wages are still high; but for the man crippled by accident or enfeebled by sickness, for the orphans too young to work, for the widow whose whole attention is demanded by her fatherless children, there are no wages; and the prices that these unfortunates must pay for their necessaries are higher than ever because the high wages have brought prices up along with them. This very increase in prices has in itself pushed some families over the narrow line separating desperate poverty from actual dependence. To the great majority whose personal well-being is assured, who will spend this Christmas in comfort and happiness, there can be no more urgent duty than the assistance of their fellow-citizens who are in destitution simply because they have had ill-fortune.

A BAVARIAN VISIONARY.

Kurt Eisner, the Munich newspaper man who is Premier of Bavaria for a season, has been rightly described as "a dreamer," "a visionary." True, his insistence that discredited, notorious parasites of the imperial régime, like Scheidemann and Solf, must "go," seemed sensible, practical, self-evident; and Dr. Solf, with no sorrow of parting, has already "gone." None the less, the brain of Kurt Eisner is possessed with false dreams, visions sent from the Gate of Ivory. Hear the misguided, simple soul:

> I do not want to be a statesman. I want to tell the truth.

A Chevron Viewed Askance.

Nothing possibly could have been better-intentioned than was Secretary Baker's determination to permit the placing of a distinguishing mark on the uniforms of men who, though they have been in the military service of the country and have performed to the full extent of their ability the duties assigned to them by their superiors, were deprived, for one good reason or another, of the privilege of crossing the sea and getting into the fighting line. In announcing that such men should be entitled to wear a silver chevron for each six months of service on this side of the water, the Secretary admirably stated the fact that the work done by these men was in every way honorable to them—that in many instances it involved many sacrifices, that it was as necessary to the achievement of victory as was that done by the men on the firing line, and that, in its way, it was as deserving of respect as was that done by the men who risked their lives at the front.

In appreciation of these truths there was general approval in the press of the Secretary's plan, and the assumption among civilians was that the army men whom the fortunes of war, in most cases much against their will, had kept at home would be equally pleased. At first that seemed to be the case, but now, from sources numerous enough to indicate the existence of a widespread feeling, there are coming from the men entitled to wear the silver chevron whispers to the effect that, instead of valuing highly the recognition thus conferred, they are regarding it with strong distaste as emphasizing a distinction, inevitably only too large, between themselves and the men to whom came the more glorious opportunities of foreign service. They claim that service is service—that in theory always, and in practice usually, the place of its performance was not a matter of personal choice, but of obedience to orders from superiors who should have known, and by fair assumption did know, where the abilities of each man would be of most use in attaining the ends for which the country entered the war.

Advertising Their Bad Luck.

That this should have been the reception of what unquestionably was designed to be a well-earned mark of honor is regrettable indeed. Whether right or not, the feeling of reluctance to wear what is in effect an advertisement of the fact that the wearer's soldiering was done 3,000 miles from where the bullets flew and the shells fell is easily understandable. And there really is something to be said, probably, in support of the contention that a visible differentiation of the two classes is undesirable and unjustified. If the homestaying had been a matter of preference—if all had gone abroad who wanted to do so—those who went overseas could well demand a mark separating them from those who kept out of danger, and the latter would have deserved to be known of all beholders for what they were. But there is no real excuse for drawing such a line, and if the silver chevron, in the opinion of more than a few supersensitive men, does draw that line, then the invention of the silver chevron is to be deplored. Fortunately, there is no compulsion to wear it, so the grievance of those whom it offends is not as bitter as it might otherwise be.

The Other Half Is Revealed.

Not the least frequently mentioned source of social ills is the ignorance of one half the world of how the other half live. If the meaning of this familiar phrase were that half the world does not know that many are in want—that many are the victims of misfortune—that many are in need of help—then the familiar phrase would be far from veracious. Nobody is really without a knowledge of these unhappy facts. But knowledge is one thing, and effective, moving realization of facts as they are is quite another.

It is true that not a few people so rarely pass beyond the circles of existence where material resources are adequate for meeting reasonable demands that they have no real appreciation of the tragedies of poverty—of the terrible conditions that sickness and death can create in the part of the population where the "margin of safety" is always narrow and precarious. For the attainment of realization, as distinguished from knowledge, of how "the other half" live—and die—nothing except actual, personal observation could help more than an attentive perusal of the "Hundred Neediest Cases" which this year as in previous years The Times has presented for the consideration of its readers in and out of New York.

In these brief narratives can be found in their many variants most of the sorrows and the sufferings that are caused by or cruelly aggravated by lack of money and the inability to earn enough of it for the tolerable conduct of human life. There are, of course, sources and causes of unhappiness with which money has nothing to do and cannot remove, but these come in a different category and have their different remedies or resignations. These "hundred cases," and the many more of which they are typical, are of the sort that money, judiciously given and expended, will go far to cure. How generous the response will be, experience has shown.

Little Less Than a Total Loss.

In all the war there can hardly have been harder fighting done, or dangers more deadly encountered, than fell to the lot of some of the Americans in France in the months preceding the surrender of the Germans. That "fierce" rightly describes the experiences they went through was sufficiently proved by the story of one of the wounded men who arrived on the transport DeKalb.

He is Private John N. Marks, of Arkansas, a marine in a company attached to the Sixth Division. That and the Fifth Division went into battle 6,800 strong, he said, and in a single day and night, in crossing an open wheat field and holding an advanced post, all except 1,500 were either killed or wounded, and in Marks's own company of 250, when a French force finally arrived and drove the Germans back, only five were left alive and without an injury serious enough to count among the "casualties."

The bloodiest battles of our civil war showed no such losses as that, but such comparisons are not entirely fair—comparisons, that is, between battles as a whole and parts of a battle in which two divisions were only small fractions of the multitude engaged. No system of reckoning, however, could make such losses small—make them other than "fierce," as Marks put it.

For the Disabled Soldier.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

One of your correspondents complains that there was not a suitable place of honor provided at the recent peace celebration for our maimed soldiers who have returned with loss of limb or otherwise disabled. He suggests that in future celebrations some particular place of honor be provided for these men.

I quite agree with him, but let us see to it that the honor that we do them has some constructive value. Let the disabled soldiers be placed where the employers can see them and recognize their full duty to them. "We will give these boys an opportunity to make good," they should say to themselves. "We will not take them on out of charity or through a patriotic feeling, but we will give them a chance to show that they can do their work as efficiently as able-bodied men."

We know that disabled soldiers in Europe and Canada have been trained for lives of self-support and self-respect, and we know that thousands of them are now earning good livelihoods in competition with their able-bodied fellows.

Constructive assistance is what the disabled soldier most needs, and in the long run that is what he will most appreciate.

The First Chinese Merchant Ship.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

From the China Club of Seattle I am in receipt of information that the first Chinese vessel, Hwa Hwu, arrived in Seattle today, bringing a full cargo of general merchandise of about five to seven hundred tons from the Straits Settlements and Hongkong, this being the first Chinese steamship flying the Chinese Republic flag in the history of the Republic of China.

Those who had for many years past seen the old Chinese dragon flag flying on the Chinese steamships of yore cannot but feel very much moved by this great evidence of the coming of China, when the vessel above mentioned has come under the charter of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, a Japanese concern.

We know him as jolly, but now he's grown proud,
He hears the coins' jingle, the rustle of bills—
Has come from the reign of the cruel god Thor!"

He marks each fine car at the curb as it stops,
And he thinks, "Who can beat it? Though losses we've had,

He sighs for a minute, then says, "This is true
And one wondrous fact is delighting my heart—
More beautiful gifts than are proffered today!

"And each has a meaning of import to me—
The Made-in-America stamp signifies

To the Editor of The New York Times:

According to Ward Price's remarkable dispatch from Constantinople appearing in The Times of this morning, "the Turks want America to teach them to govern." Interesting as this piece of news may seem, yet there is a subtle ambiguity connected with it. To govern whom? If themselves, the whole world will echo and re-echo Amen and Hallelujah! The incorrigible Turk has at last admitted his inability to rule himself, and, like a repentant child, seeks to sit at the feet of a great and modern democracy. If, however, to govern the small nationalities—Armenians, Syrians, Arabs, Jews, &c.—who once formed a part of his possessions, and who have just been liberated from his yoke, then the story is different.

By his inefficiency, ignorance, and unprecedented acts of atrocity, the Turk, by the common judgment of the civilized world, has forever forfeited his right to govern alien races. For him now to camouflage under the tutelage of the United States in order to retain his possessions in Mesopotamia, Armenia, Syria, and Palestine is an excuse as bad as the crime. Neither the Syrians nor the Armenians—certainly not the Americans—will ever acquiesce in such a scheme. A more direct way would be to have America teach the Armenians and Syrians themselves how to govern, rather than teach the Turks how to govern them. Why not? The experiment will be more promising, less expensive in time, energy, and money, and in harmony with the demands of democracy, equity, and stability.

The Syrians at home and abroad are agreed on the elimination of the possibility of the re-establishment of Turkish authority, nominal or real, over Syria. They realize the fact that the keystone to the foreign policy of Great Britain in its dealing with Turkey throughout the nineteenth century was the preservation of the "integrity of the Turkish Empire," and they have not forgotten that as late as the Fall of 1914 both England and France promised the Sublime Porte the preservation of that integrity as a price for its neutrality. But they are convinced that the victories of Allenby and Maude, rendered possible by the presence of 2,000,000 American troops in France, have created a new situation.

The Syrians are moreover agreed that what they want is a free Syria, able to develop its material resources and intellectual possibilities under the tutelage of some great democratic nation which will withdraw from their land as soon as they can perform the function of full self-government. On the identity of that nation there is disagreement among them. The sentiment, however, is growing in favor of the United States of America.

AS TO NEW PIERS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I feel compelled to make a few observations on some of the matter that has been appearing in the daily press recently conerning piers, "The need for them," "The danger to our commerce in lack of piers," and other odds and ends of loose and pointless argument. Much has been said about applications for piers that cannot be met and of lack of space required, but who has said anything about the genuineness or merit of these applications? How many of them are firm or binding bids?

When I took up the work of the Dock Department six years ago, I found on the desk a large number of applications for piers; many of them were duplications. When I had them weeded out and got down to the probable ones, I found that very few of the individuals who were given as the responsible persons had any conception of the prices that had to be paid to give even a fair return to the city on the investment. Applications for piers are usually reduced in number the moment you ask to what extent an applicant will bind himself if the city will build him a pier.

The Controller, that eminent "watchdog" of the City Treasury, is made to appear as captious for wanting to see what guarantees there will be that the city will be warranted in making expenditures such as are required for piers. But what would happen to him if he spent twenty millions on piers that became the prey of speculative investors?

There must be a definite and comprehensive financial plan to safeguard the city and get proper revenue to reduce the taxes.

A Free Armenia.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

City.

Dear Sirs—We shall have no assured peace in the world until the oppressed nationalities are set free. One of the important reasons for which America went into the war was to make democracy safe, which, of course, embraces bringing oppressed nationalities from under the yoke of their oppressors. Turkey has shown her inability to rule her own people, and certainly not other nationalities that have come under her bloody yoke. The Armenians have suffered most from the united barbarities of the Hun and the Ottoman. Armenia should and must be free, and she should have her ancient country under the guarantee that all nationalities shall have equal political and religious rights. I feel sure that all of the new nationalities that will be carved out of the former autocracies will be constituted under charters that will be very much alike. To ask for more would be unreasonable and unjust, to be content with less would be equally so. Yours truly,

OSCAR STRAUS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There seems to be no national reception for the returning soldiers. The time for such a reception is immediately they arrive in home waters. A simple reception which would not only be effective but acceptable to the returning boys is that the United States warships should remain at anchor near the lanes which the foreign steamers take coming into the harbors, and that some salute be instituted for these men as each steamer passes. In the harbors the patriotic pilots use their whistles, and on shore the whistles are used, but there seems to be no national recognition. The booming of guns would not only gladden the soldier's heart, but stir the pulse of all who heard.

This matter has been brought to the attention of the Secretary of the Navy, but up to this date appears to have been overlooked. We have plenty of powder and the ships. This is a national reception which could take place in every port of entry.

ENGLISH VIEW OF AMERICA.

Dilnot Thinks Bonds Are Made Strong by Different Methods of Life.

"An Englishman in America" was the subject last night of an address by Frank Dilnot, correspondent of The London Daily Chronicle, at Christ's Church, Seventy-first Street and Broadway. Mr. Dilnot, after remarking that he had spent what he considered two of the most precious years of his life here, said:

"No one knows better than myself the bonds between the soul of America and the soul of Britain. I venture to think—so contradictory is human nature—that they are stronger and not weaker by the fact that in many of our everyday methods of life, in our way of doing things we are very different. Let us remain different. That is what makes nationality and gives all the force of individuality to countries as well as to human beings. War will henceforth never be an insult to America which Britain will not resent as though it were directed towards herself."

"Before America came into the war there was—I cannot sufficiently emphasize it—no criticism among the common people of Britain. There was a fervent hope she would range herself with the Allies, but at the same time a recognition that she had a perfect right to map her own course. You might have heard a vaudeville joke or two, but practically the entire population had a kindly and friendly feeling toward America and a fervent admiration for her. It was one of the surprises of my life on arrival here to find among high and low an impression that we were saying and feeling nasty things about America. A more colossal misunderstanding never existed. The average Englishman had, if I may say so, an almost exaggerated regard and admiration for this country and its people.

"While England had hosts of splendid friends here, I found among great sections of the community an indifference toward England shading into suspicion which had nothing to match it on the other side of the Atlantic. I need not tell you that the tide of friendliness in England has developed into a torrent soon to be demonstrated when your President goes there. Here I am happy to think an understanding of the old country has widened and deepened to such an extent that nothing now can budge it."

TO BUILD A NEW HOSPITAL.

Institution Will Be Devoted to Diagnosis of Ailments.

Ground is to be broken in a few days, it was announced last night, for the first New York hospital to be devoted exclusively to diagnosis. It will be situated at 125 West Seventy-second Street, and will be known as the West Side Branch of the Diagnostic Clinics of the Academy of Diagnosis. The hospital will cost $250,000. The building will be six stories, with every modern equipment.

The society has a membership of 400 physicians, and Dr. M. Joseph Mandelbaum is the President. It intends to make the institution self-supporting and gradually to erect similar buildings in other places. The inspiration for the building came at the Catholic Hospital Convention in Milwaukee two years ago, when Dr. C. H. Mayo of Rochester, Minn., suggested the great need of a diagnostic hospital in this country. One of the purposes of the founders of the new hospital, which, it is said, will be the only one of its kind in the world, is to bring the facilities of the best modern diagnostic methods within the reach of persons of moderate means.

STEFANSSON WINS MEDAL.

Geographical Society Rewards Discoverer for Work in the Arctic.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, discoverer of the "blonde Eskimo" and of several islands in the arctic archipelago of British North America, has been selected by the Council of the American Geographical Society as the recipient of the Charles P. Daly medal. This medal is awarded by direction of the donor's will "for valuable and distinguished services or labors." The presentation will take place Tuesday evening in the Engineering Society Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street.

Stefansson's work in the arctic has extended from 1906 to 1918. Among the previous winners are Rear Admiral Peary and Roald Amundsen, discoverers, respectively, of the north and south poles. The interest of the American Geographical Society in its work is not only that it be scientific, but that it be useful to the world, and this is the spirit of the Daly medal. Part of the inscription on the medal reads: "He learned the ways of life of the Eskimo, and in a long and hazardous journey discovered new lands beyond the arctic fringe of America." It refers to the fact that Stefansson went further than other arctic explorers in learning the arctic life. He actually lived on the wild life of the country instead of taking vast stores of supplies.

FUTURE OF SOUTHERN SLAVS

A meeting to celebrate the freedom of the Slavs of Central Europe was held last night under the auspices of St. Mark's in-the-Bouwerie, Tenth Street and Second Avenue. Miss E. E. Chadwick, who has spent the last seven years in work among the Serbians, delivered an address on "The Future of the Southern Slavs." She said the demands of the Southern Slavs for a united nation was not a caprice or a new desire to set up a government of their own, but a passionate resolve which had been handed down for centuries.

"The young Prince of Serbia," she said, "has been asked to act as a regent for this new nation which is going ahead with plans and not waiting for the outcome of the Peace Conference. No name has yet been chosen for this new country of old races, but it is probable that the new nation will be called Jugoslavia, which means Southern Slavs." Miss Chadwick said that it was Serbia which had pointed out the way to freedom, and recalled Serbia's answer to the Austrian note: "It is better to die in beauty than to live in shame. We'll fight."

S. Stojowski, represented the Poles and spoke on "The Historic Tolerance of Poland." Mrs. Foxlee, who is a native of Bohemia, appeared in the native costume and read a message of appreciation from her people to America.

WAR MAY AID STATES.

Suggested That Government's Surplus Stocks Be Sold to Them.

Major Gen. George W. Goethals, Director of the Purchase, Storage, and Traffic Divisions of the War Department, has approved a suggestion made by Burdette G. Lewis, New Jersey State Commissioner of Charities and Corrections, that State and municipal institutions have an opportunity to buy at reasonable cost surplus materials which the army no longer wants and the States need badly for their wards.

In reply to a letter in which Dr. Lewis made the suggestion, General Goethals wrote:

"Your plan for the disposition of surplus stocks is a very practical one. A surplus property division has been created and a catalogue of such material now is in preparation." Mr. Lewis is asked to have the State Purchasing Agent take up the matter with L. H. Hartman, chief of the new division, at Washington.

A further suggestion of Mr. Lewis that the State of New Jersey be allowed to purchase barracks no longer needed by the War Department, move them to State institutional property, and thus relieve over-crowding and care for dependents now on the waiting list also is receiving consideration.

LET PEOPLE PASS ON ROADS, SAYS M'ADOO

Tells Peace Jubilee He Has No Fear of the Outcome of That Decision.

SERVICE BY SIX CHURCHES

A union peace jubilee of the Associated Congregations of the Church of the Ascension, Calvary Church, Grace Church, Church of the Holy Communion, St. George's Church, and the Church of St. Mark's in the Bouwerie was held yesterday afternoon at the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory, Lexington Avenue and Twenty-fifth Street. The speakers were Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo and Lieut. Col. Charles W. Whittlesey, whose historic answer to the enemy when his "lost battalion" was surrounded and called on to surrender in the Argonne thrilled America.

The armory was crowded with members of the Associated Episcopal Congregations and their friends, and the services were conducted by the ministers of the six churches. The processional hymn was sung by the choristers and the people, the choristers entering the edifice led by a detachment of the 69th Infantry, New York Guard, carrying the flags of the allied nations and the battle flags of the famous regiment.

In his address Secretary McAdoo reviewed the historic points in the nation's war policy, briefly indicating the unprecedented character of the Selective Service act, the Liberty Loan campaigns, the War Insurance act, and digressed to say, concerning the railroad problem, that he did not care whether they remained under Government ownership or whether they were returned to private hands. However, he felt certain that, whatever was done, the decision of the majority of the American people would be decisive, and of the outcome of that decision he had no fears.

"I think well of the American people even though they have returned a Republican Congress," he declared. "My faith in the people is not shaken. We may be Democrats or Republicans, but first and last we are Americans."

After reviewing the history of the four Liberty Loans he said: "Remember that there is another loan coming on. I don't have to conduct that. But to any of you New York millionaires who want a good investment I recommend subscription to the Fifth Liberty Loan." The United States had never defaulted in payment of any of its obligations, said the Secretary, and he heard that some people feared the forthcoming loan would not be a success because of the fact that the war's stimulus is not spurring on the people.

"These people who say such things do not know the heart of the American people," he continued. "Because the war ended so quickly is no reason why we should not now pay the debts we have contracted. In fact, it is a reason why we should pay our debts so much sooner. We ought to make any sacrifice even to the extent of wearing tattered clothing in order to raise the money to bring back our sons and to receive them in the way that they deserve, showing them the hearts of a grateful people."

Colonel Whittlesey, in civilian garb, passed over the homage paid the officers of the armies, and said that the acts of which all the people were proud were the acts of the common soldier.

"Our men are not going to come back hating the Germans," he declared. "No man who has been in the line facing the Germans will bear any malice toward them. I know if any American infantryman met the Kaiser on the road he would be willing to share his hardtack with him. This is not a false sentiment."

He paid tribute to Father Halligan of the 308th Infantry, and told how some American officers had been killed on a hill above the Vesle River, but their bodies could not be removed for burial because the ground was swept by a hail of German shell fire. With some volunteers Father Halligan went to the hill and buried the bodies. "He was our padre, and we loved him," concluded the speaker.

REFUGEES NEED AID.

Near East Relief Committee Receives Appeal from Its Agent.

The American Committee for Relief in the Near East will conduct a nationwide campaign in the week of Jan. 12 to raise a relief fund of $30,000,000. Reports received from Dr. William W. Peet, representative of the committee, say that food prices in Constantinople are exorbitant, and that food supplies will have to be purchased in the United States.

In a recent dispatch from Teheran, Dr. Peet said:

"Two hundred thousand refugees are outside the Caucasus. Those from Salmas and Van number 20,000. Those, now in Hamadan, from Baku number 10,000. There is great need of relief from some source for the repatriation of refugees and orphans. The Armenians even in the Caucasus are in great need of medicines and clothing. Relief can be sent via Batoum for the refugees."

A cable dispatch received by the committee yesterday said that American prisoners of war released by the Turks were now engaged in work for the Armenian and Syrian Relief Fund. Among them are William Nelson, former Vice Consul at Tripoli, Syria; Charles Arthur Dana of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, and a Mr. Levine.

NO 'TRENCH RENT' CHARGED

French High Commission Denies Report Current in Some Quarters.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The French High Commission issued a statement today to correct what it said was an impression in certain quarters "that the French Government is charging the American Expeditionary Forces for what has been described as 'trench rent' and for damages done to property in actual warfare in the firing zone."

"There is no such thing as 'trench rent,'" the statement said, and it added "damages done to private property in the rear of the operating forces have always been indemnified by the Government to the owners of the property damaged. This applies equally to the American, British, and French in the regions where cantonments and manoeuvres are likely to harm fields, crops, barns, houses, and the like, but, of course, this does not apply to the firing zone."

WOULD ENCOURAGE STUDY OF CLASSICS

Academy of Arts and Letters Suggests Courses for Schools and Colleges.

SEES AID TO CIVILIZATION

Resolution Says Opposite Policy Would Lower the Culture of the American People.

Indorsement of the classics and a suggestion that American secondary schools and colleges place more emphasis on their study were embodied in a resolution adopted yesterday by the American Academy of Arts and Letters at its annual meeting, held in the Century Club, 15 West Forty-third Street. Professor William M. Sloane, Chancellor, presided, and the election of Dr. Paul Shorey of Chicago University to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Andrew D. White was announced. The resolution relative to the classics was as follows:

"At a time when the habit of change threatens to unsettle all convictions and re-estimate all values, when war has concentrated the intelligence of the world on mastering the secrets of power latent in the physical forces of nature, when the readjustments of reconstruction direct attention to the practical needs of the importunate present, the American Academy wishes to record its abiding faith in those intellectual traditions and spiritual aspirations of humanity which in their sum constitute 'the things that are more excellent.' Literature, including not only the best reports of the current life and the passing hour, but the selected treasures of the European centuries from Homer to Tennyson, is simply the recorded memory of civilized mankind, the chief thing that distinguishes mankind from creatures that live only by the consciousness of the moment. By reasons of conditions not likely to recur, the noble literatures of Greece and Rome possess liberal and special excellences not easily reproduced, and a peculiar power to stimulate, enlarge, and liberate the awakening intelligence of studious youth. They have a further and hardly less weighty significance as the source of inspiration and the indispensable key to the full understanding of nearly all of the best books of the modern world.

"There may have been times when excessive emphasis of these truisms forced the study of the classical languages upon reluctant or unfitted minds to the retarding of educational progress and the neglect of other not less essential studies. Those days are passed and their controversies concern us no more. It is no longer a question of exclusive predominance of the classics in education, but of their suppression. The study of the classics is not an obstacle, but an aid to the fostering and prosecution of those scientific inquiries upon which modern civilization depends.

"With no desire to revive obsolete controversies, and without attempting to anticipate the details of a curriculum, the academy believes that, in a broad view of present conditions, thoughtful Americans ought to use their influence to encourage rather than to discourage (1) the basic study of a substantial amount of Latin, and wherever practical, of Greek, in our secondary schools; (2) the cultural study of Greek and especially of Latin in our colleges; (3) the scientific study of classical antiquity in the graduate schools of our universities. The triumph of the opposite policies will lower the intellectual and aesthetic standards of our secondary schools, and the average culture of the American people, and, in the absence of any controlling sense of linguistic laws and historic derivations, will debase their written and spoken English. It will convert into a mere technical or vocational school the liberalizing and elevating American college, which, however imperfectly, has trained the statesmen, the writers, and the leaders of opinion who have made the America we know and love. It will destroy the young and flourishing school of productive American scholarship just as it is emancipating itself from the old provincialism and from the old dependence on Germany, and is preparing to take its true place in the fellowship of scholars throughout the world."

It was announced that strong effort would be made to complete the endowment fund, now amounting to $100,000 and to endeavor to find a donor who would assist in the building of a new home for the academy on the eight lots given to it by Archer M. Huntington.

The officers of the academy were re-elected. They are William Dean Howells, President; William M. Sloane, Chancellor; Robert Underwood Johnson, Secretary, and Thomas Hastings, Treasurer. In addition to the foregoing, members of the Board of Directors are: Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Edwin H. Blashfield, and Augustus Thomas. Others present at the meeting were: Daniel Chester French, Hamlin Garland, Cass Gilbert, Robert Grant, Brander Matthews, Gari Melchers, Paul Elmer More, James Ford Rhodes, William Roscoe Thayer, and J. Alden Weir.

Real Estate Man Fatally Stabbed.

Joseph Borelli of 347 East 109th Street, a realty agent, handling many tenements in the Harlem Italian colony, was found unconscious last night with seven knife wounds in his head at 104th Street and Second Avenue. He was taken to the Harlem Hospital, where it was said he would probably die. Policeman Fagin pursued a running man to the Third Avenue elevated station at 106th Street, where he was dragged from the platform of a car, and charged him with being the assailant of Borelli. The prisoner said he was Antonio Sprano, a clerk, of 213 East 108th Street. Fagin said Sprano dropped a blood-stained razor to the station platform when he jumped over the car gate.

HIS UNCLE IRVING'S PATRON

First Studied with James Renwick, Also a Relative, Architect of St. Patrick's Cathedral.

James Renwick Brevoort, the landscape painter, died yesterday at his home, 390 North Broadway, Yonkers. Mr. Brevoort, who was born in Westchester County, New York, July 20, 1832, was a son of Elias Brevoort and a nephew of Henry Brevoort, Washington Irving's patron and friend, and a direct descendant of Jan Heinrich Brevoort, who came to New Amsterdam from Holland in 1630.

Mr. Brevoort spent most of his boyhood days in the towns of Williamsbridge and Fordham, N. Y., where his father's farm adjoined that of Peter Lorillard, and one of Mr. Brevoort's treasured possessions was a sketch he made, as a boy, of the old Lorillard snuff mill, now long since destroyed. He worked for a while in the office of his cousin, James Renwick, chief architect of Grace Church and St. Patrick's Cathedral.

In 1872 he was appointed Professor of Perspective in the school of the National Academy of Design, and the following year he married Miss Marie Louise Bacom. His first wife was Miss Augusta Tuthill of Middletown, N. Y., who died some years before.

For seven years he painted and studied in England, Holland and Italy. He returned to the United States in 1880 and had since made his home in Yonkers.

Mr. Brevoort's membership in the National Academy of Design extended over fifty-five years. He was one of the oldest members of the Century Club, and an honorary member of the Yonkers Art Association.

His principal landscape works were: "A Scene in Holland," "Lake Como," "Storm on the English Moor," "May Morning at Lake Como," "A New England Scene," "Morning in Early Winter," "Wild November Comes at Last," "Windy Evening on the Moor," "Windy Day on a Moor."

The funeral will be held at his late home Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

NAPOLEON A. JENNINGS DIES

Veteran Newspaper Correspondent Was Author of "A Texas Ranger."

Napoleon A. Jennings, for many years a reporter on The World, and for the last few years a member of The New York Herald staff, died yesterday at his home, 254 West Forty-fourth Street. Mr. Jennings had been ill for some weeks of heart disease. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Victoria Jennings.

Born in Philadelphia Jan. 10, 1866, Mr. Jennings attended St. Paul's School at Concord, N. H., and on his return to Philadelphia at the age of 16, he went into business with his father, a Philadelphia merchant. Two years later, going to Texas to purchase a ranch, he became a member of Captain H. H. McNally's troop of Texas Rangers at Laredo, Texas. He was with the Rangers for three years.

Colonel Jennings, as he was later known, came in 1886 to New York as a member of the staff of the old Star, and soon afterward was one of the first reporters on The Evening Sun when it was started. In 1892 he went again to Texas as correspondent of The Sun. He worked for several years for various magazines, and in 1900 published "A Texas Ranger," in which he told of his experiences on the border.

He was on The World for many years, in the course of which he also went to Europe as manager for Edith Helena, the opera singer, then his wife. He traveled for seven years, and was in Mexico City as correspondent when the Diaz régime fell. In October, 1914, he was made correspondent of The New York Herald and remained in Vera Cruz for a year, since which time he had been on the city staff of The Herald.

Colonel Jennings was a friend of Colonel Roosevelt, and as newspaper reporter he went with the former President on several trips throughout the United States.

The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Campbell Funeral Church, Broadway and Sixty-sixth Street, and interment will be in Woodlawn Cemetery.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION

Industry Passing from Price Control.

Government control of steel, copper, and other hitherto restricted prices is to be discontinued at the end of the year and the way paved for the normal laws of supply and demand to return to their own. The decision of steel men and the War Industries Board at Washington last week in respect to the price situation may safely be pointed to as one of the decisive occurrences of the readjustment period. It was quite likely that certain of the steel producers accepted the decision with reluctance, for they were uncertain whether or not they would be able to work their plants at a high capacity basis and continue to pay record wages if prices were not stabilized for a longer period. They went to Washington prepared to submit a new schedule of quotations lower than the current maximum rates, maintaining that, without a definite price program, consumers would be inclined to hold back their orders for an expected decline. When the Government officers urged that the market be allowed to seek its own level, the steel makers quickly altered their plan, but the really significant factor of the conference was the tacit understanding among the latter that the prepared price schedule should hold good, at least for a time, after the return on Jan. 1 to competitive conditions. Many interesting possibilities hang upon this venture. Already a number of companies are reported to be quoting prices from $4 to $6 per ton below the present maximum rates for contracts to be filled in the first quarter of next year. These prices generally correspond to those contained in the tentative plan for the first six months of 1919, and they mark a considerable concession from going quotations. At the same time, it is not yet proved that consumers find them acceptable, and on this point hinges the success or non-success of the producers in testing the pulse of future demand.

E. H. Gary, Chairman of the special committee of the American Iron and Steel Institute which has been handling the major problems of the industry during the war period, urges upon his colleagues that they be patient, continue to pay high wages, seek to use their influence to stabilize conditions within their own primary field and without, to the end that normal buying and selling may be introduced without shock. He predicts that results in the next five years will astonish even the most optimistic. Coming from one of the most far-sighted leaders in the stee ltrade, this is an encouraging forecast, without mitigating the problems which promise to arise before peace-time prosperity shows itself. The producing companies, as a whole, have accumulated during the era of extraordinary activity considerable "fat" upon which to live well for a time. They could continue to pay unusual wages even though profits dwindled, and it is to be expected that the income of labor will not be disturbed as long as the employers see a fair return on their capital. During the period of readjustment, which will last until consumers begin to place their orders in a normal flow, it is likely that efforts will be centred on the reduction of other costs before wage accounts receive attention. And it may be that before the question arises of making really substantial reductions in wages, demand from domestic and foreign sources will expand to a degree large enough to keep the mills and furnaces working so actively as to entail the employment of many more men than are now engaged. The supplementary factor to wide employment is a high wage scale, and it was evidently with the prospect of an early reawakening of commercial buying in mind that Judge Gary asked his fellow-producers last week to consider labor first and seek to exercise a conservative attitude in other directions under a free market.

Assurances from the War Department that stocks of copper now on hand would not be hurriedly disposed of has brought a deal of encouragement to producers of the metal. Figures on these holdings are not available, but it may be assumed that they reach up into the millions of pounds, distributed among a great many concerns which were lately engaged on heavy Government manufacturing operations. The question of copper stocks at the refineries and among manufacturers appears to be one open to considerable debate, whether existing supplies are unusually large or below normal. At the present time it is calculated that some 600,000,000 pounds of the metal are constantly in process through the reduction works and refineries, a total normal to an output as large as that being made when the full surge of the war demand was on. Estimates have been heard that the year would end with some 100,000,000 pounds of copper in free stocks, ready for the market. This aggregate would not be considered exceptionally large when commercial consumption was lively throughout the world, but whether or not it would prove excessive under current conditions remains to be disclosed. The copper industry has not yet received definite information that Government agencies intend to leave the market altogether free of restrictions or supporting influences after Dec. 31, although this is assumed from what has been done in the case of steel. Producers are to go over the situation with the War Industries Board during the current week. There appears to be just now a lack of demand at the existing fixed maximum price of 26 cents a pound, and offerings have been reported at 23 and 24 cents. Manufacturers who were left at the signing of the armistice with sizable amounts of the metal on hand and faced the prospect of cancellations of part of their war orders might quite naturally desire to dispose of some of their mtal at concessions, provided they expected to see lower prices later.

The opposition which immediately was voiced in railroad and banking circles to Director General McAdoo's proposal for a five-year period of Government operation of the railways emphasized the feeling in many quarters that a new program for the carriers should be completed in the period prescribed by the Railroad Control act. While Mr. McAdoo urged the extension on the grounds that Congress should have plenty of time in preparing the plan under which the roads are to be returned to their owners, the bank and railroad leaders insisted that twenty-one months after peace terms were arranged was ample for the task. Lack of support of the five-year term had its bases also in apprehension lest the railroads become so completely merged that an equitable unscrambling process would be hopeless. Political considerations, also, influenced the opposition, on the ground that opportunities for the upbuilding of a powerful machine lay in a prolonged union between Government and the roads. The combination of these factors promises a sharp contest in case efforts are made to forward Mr. McAdoo's suggestion in the current Congress session.

The banks are in process of taking up the second offering of Treasury certificates of indebtedness issued in anticipation of the Fifth Loan. The two issues together will absorb $1,000,000,000 of bank credit, with the definite promise held out that the Government will call fortnightly upon the institutions for further loans on certificates. In view of this continuing demand, it was not surprising that loans for stock market purposes were as closely restricted as ever last week, although call money declined to the 4½ per cent. level.

TAKE UP PEACE PROBLEMS.

Two Financial Institutions Consider the Business Outlook.

In its "Financial and Business Review and Outlook" issued today, the Mechanics and Metals National Bank, while asserting that "more skill will be required to check our war production than was required to build the industrial war machine in the first instance," says that the United States is entering into the period of readjustment and reconstruction the most powerful and the most favored nation in the world. The circular in part says:

"The United States is the only great nation equipped with working forces, plant facilities and capital sufficient to turn out what Europe will want in its reconstruction period, and orders may be expected to be placed with us for enormous quantities of raw material, for steel and iron and other metals, for lumber, grain, cotton, provisions, and a thousand things with which to restore a Continent to a semblance of its former self. We all recognize mankind's need for American products, but we all recognize, also, that our own industrial condition is still to be adjusted to the new era into which we have entered.

"Preparations for a long war were on a vast scale in the United States, and the sudderness with which we left the war behind has found us unprepared to make the change quickly. An automobile speeding over a road at sixty miles an hour cannot make a right angle turn wthout slowing down, and industry in the United States can hardly be expected to make the turn into peace pursuits without very definite adjustments."

Discussing business conditions the semi-monthly letter of the Guaranty Trust Company dated today says in part:

"The readjustment of business to peace conditions is proceeding, but it is still affected by the uncertainty as to when and how fast prices will return to normal levels. It is observable that consideration of the labor problem is entering insistently into all calculations and while in some quarters opinion inclines to the belief that labor must soon accept sharp reductions in wages there is a very strong drift toward the view that now, if ever, is the time to seek that co-operation of capital, management, and labor, that will result in increased production, cheaper prices, and fairer returns to these elements.

"The note of optimism is dominant at all gatherings of business men to discuss readjustment problems. Announcement has been made that Government stores of food and other articles available for civilian use will not be dumped on the markets."

Two Factors Which Affect Values

There are two important factors which affect the value of stocks.

First—Intrinsic worth, which is determined by the financing, organization, management and volume of profitable business done by the company.

Second—Special influences, such as war or peace, adverse legislation, progressive competition with its new methods and inventions.

Our Service Department was established for the purpose of assisting investors to determine the status of their present holdings and contemplated investments.

PORT DISTRICT FOR NEW YORK PROPOSED

Report by J. H. Cohen Provides for Six Commissioners from New York and New Jersey.

CLOTHED WITH WIDE POWERS

The legal problems that must be solved before any agreement between this State and New Jersey for port and harbor development can become effective are discussed in a preliminary report by Julius Henry Cohen, counsel of the New York and New Jersey Port and Harbor Development Commission. It is proposed to create a "Port of New York District," to consist of six Commissioners, equally divided between the two States, with power to acquire property by lease or purchase, to borrow money, and to do any other constitutional thing that will result in a comprehensive development of the port facilities.

A public discussion of the proposed plan is invited, and the expectation is that a treaty satisfactory to both States will be ready for submission to the two Legislatures at the coming sessions. A brief explanation of the work expected of the proposed "Port Authority" says that the intention is to give the six Commissioners power to represent the States before the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Public Service Commission, or any other administrative, judicial, or legislative body for the purpose of securing the adoption or execution of:

"Any physical improvement, change in method, rate of transportation, system of handling freight, warehousing, docking, lightering, or transfer of freight which, in the opinion of the Port Authority, may be designed to improve or better the handling of commerce in and through said district, or improve terminal or transportation facilities therein, or it may intervene in any proceeding affecting the commerce of the port."

Detailed machinery is provided by the plan for obtaining action by the municipalities or in case of their failure to act a determination by the courts of each State. Mr. Cohen explains that at the threshhold it is necessary to face the problem of dual sovereignty, which makes the work much more difficult than similar work by States which control all of the territory involved. Mr. Cohen refers to grants to "wharf out" given by New Jersey and this city to private owners which are in the nature of franchises. These are irrevocable and can be acquired only by power of eminent domain. This city has outstanding dock improvement bonds amounting to $122,872,036. Part of the city's waterfront has been pledged to secure the bonds.

The proposed plan does not deal with physical or economic features. These are now being studied by the commission and will later be made the basis of a final report. Mr. Cohen's report contains this extract from a public announcement made by the United States Shipping Board on Aug. 4:

"A doubling and perhaps trebling of docks, piers, marine railways, and terminal facilities in general of Atlantic, Gulf, and Pacific ports will probably be called for by the swiftly increasing American merchant marine. To provide for the fullest possible service of the ships, once they are released from traffic, even new ports may become necessary. The survey of port facilities undertaken shows them taxed to capacity by the present shipping, in many instances overtaxed, and in nearly all instances, unless they are speedily expanded, facing serious congestion. This is especially true of the facilities of New York Harbor, the greatest problem of port development in the world today."

101	for Notes with 2 years or more but less than 3 years to run
100½	for Notes with less than 2 years to run

The following is a summary submitted by F. W. Ruggles, Esq., President and General Manager of the Company, taken from a letter to the Bankers, copy of which will be sent on request:

Purpose of Issue—To reduce current floating indebtedness and to provide additional working capital for the further expansion of the business.

Business—The Company is the largest manufacturer of motor trucks in the United States. The output for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1918, was approximately 17,000 trucks. Present manufacturing capacity is 25,000 to 30,000 trucks per annum. The Company owns the entire Common Stock of The Torbensen Axle Company, which is the largest manufacturer of axles for motor trucks in the country. Through the latter it controls the M. & S. Corporation, which has a large production of a patented locking differential.

Property—The plant of the Republic Motor Truck Co., Inc., is located at Alma, Mich., covering approximately 40 acres. The plant of The Torbensen Axle Company is at Cleveland, O., covering 4 acres. The plant of the M. & S. Corporation is at Detroit, Mich., covering 2½ acres.

Security for Notes—These Notes are to be secured by a first mortgage on all the fixed assets of the Republic Motor Truck Co., Inc., and by pledge of the entire Common Stock of The Torbensen Axle Company. A consolidated financial statement of the Republic Motor Truck Co., Inc., and The Torbensen Axle Company, as of October 31, 1918, based upon a report of public accountants and after giving effect to the present financing, shows net quick assets amounting to $5,900,401.

Earnings—Combined net sales of the Republic Motor Truck Co., Inc., and The Torbensen Axle Company for the year ended June 30, 1918, amounted to over $25,300,000. Net profits before providing for Federal Taxes amounted to $2,253,303.

General—The transition from a war to a peace basis can be readily accomplished as only about 30% of the production has been devoted to war work. Republic trucks are manufactured in seven sizes and distributed through about 1,300 dealers located in every state in the Union. The prospect for future business is bright as the demand for the products of the companies is limited only by ability to increase manufacturing schedules. According to the report of examining engineers all properties are thoroughly modern and in a high state of efficiency. The management of the companies will continue in the hands of the same men who have been with them since their inception.

All legal details have been approved by Messrs. Breed, Abbott & Morgan, New York, for the Bankers, and by Messrs. Tolles, Hogsett, Ginn & Morley, Cleveland, for the Company.

URGES COMPLETING OF SHIP PROGRAM

Federal Board Will Give Advice Later About a Permanent Merchant Marine.

ARRANGED FOR 2,298 CRAFT

Corporation Has 455 New Vessels, 59 Former German, 6 Austrian, and 36 Other Ships.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Completion of the great merchant marine construction program, as it now stands modified to meet the coming of peace, and still further extension of shipbuilding is recommended by the United States Shipping Board in its second annual report to Congress, made public today. The question of a permanent merchant marine program is left for future determination, the board indicating that it will have suggestions regarding both development and operation at the conclusion of investigations now in progress.

Describing the tremendous fleet now operated by the Government, the report shows how enemy tonnage was procured not only by taking over vessels interned in United States harbors, but by purchasing and chartering from other nations which likewise had seized German and Austrian ships. Cuba, China, Siam, Brazil, Uruguay, and Peru all aided the United States and the Allies in this regard. The cost of repairing the German and Austrian vessels amounted to approximately $11,104,862.70.

The Emergency Fleet Corporation of the board owned on Nov. 21, according to the report, a total of 455 new ships, of 2,648,892 deadweight tons; 59 former German vessels of 343,206 deadweight tons; 6 former Austrian vessels aggregating 35,262 deadweight tons; and 36 other ships of 137,248 tons.

Of the 81 Dutch vessels taken over under Presidential proclamation, 52 of 236,340 deadweight tons, were managed by the Shipping Board and the others by the Navy. There were 328 foreign ships of 1,366,361 deadweight tons under charter to the board on this date and 450 American ships of 2,910,766 deadweight tons under requisition, making a total fleet of 1,386 vessels aggregating 7,498,075 deadweight tons owned, managed, or chartered by the Shipping Board.

With regard to the requisitioning of American tonnage, the report says:

"Perhaps no phase of the Shipping Board's work has been more difficult to adjust fairly and satisfactorily than that involved in the requisitioning of ships for use. Nevertheless, most owners have co-operated with excellent spirit."

Contracts and commitments of the Emergency Fleet Corporation for the construction of ships made in the year provided for 1,296 steel cargo ships of 8,877,605 deadweight tons, eighty steel tankers of 737,000 deadweight tons, ninety-four steel troop ships of 787 000 deadweight tons; two steel hospital ships of 20,000 deadweight tons, four steel refrigerator ships of 37,500 deadweight tons, 104 ocean-going steel tugs and eight steel harbor tugs and sixteen steel barges of 54,800 deadweight tons.

The wood and composite ship contracts called for 181 complete wood ships of 707,500 deadweight tons, 519 hulls of 1,841,000 deadweight tons, 140 barges of 659,500 deadweight tons, 162 wood tugs, and thirty-two composite ships of 116,000 deadweight tons.

From the time of its organization up to Aug. 31, 1918, says the report, the corporation had negotiated 495 contracts, aggregating 2,298 vessels, with a total of 14,119,130 deadweight tons, involving an estimated cost of $2,319,216,204.

Dealing with the steel ship program, the report states that efforts of the steel ship construction division have been devoted to accelerating the construction of ships, obtaining ships suitable for war purposes, improving the quality of new construction, and obtaining ships at reasonable prices. During the year ending Aug. 31, there were 566 keels laid, 358 ships launched, and 287 ships of 1,800,000 deadweight tons completed.

The report declares that a materially better accomplishment is confidently expected the coming year, and that gratifying progress along technical lines was made, particularly in the simplification and improvement of ships and standardization of the many fittings required.

With regard to the wood ship program, the report says the board has recognized that more careful attention should be given to ships of large size, and after investigation has decided to recommend that efforts be concentrated upon the construction of a 5,000-ton flush-deck wood ship, which would be as strong as the 3,500-ton types now being built, and which could be produced at a saving of approximately $20 a ton. At the present time, ten types of wood ships of 3,500, 4,000 and 5,000 deadweight tons are being turned out.

Since August 1, wood ship production has averaged at least one complete, ready-for-service wood steamship a calendar day and the report declares that this average will increase.

Concrete ship construction has been limited, the report states, because this type of vessel is admittedly less efficient than the steel ship as a cargo carrier and because the present hull-producing capacity of the country in steel and wood ships is in excess of the producing capacity of marine engine makers, and machinery for operating concrete ships could not be made available. However, contracts for construction of five Government-owned shipyards for concrete construction have been signed and work begun, and the present construction program provides for thirty-eight concrete tankers and cargo ships of 7,500 tons, three cargo ships of 3,500 tons, and one cargo ship of 3,000 tons. In addition, plans have been prepared for a 2,500-ton deadweight concrete schooner coal barge and bids asked, it being intended to build twenty-five of these.

In the fiscal year ending June 30, 117 American vessels of 94,740 deadweight tons were transferred to foreign registry, permits being granted by the board when special circumstances indicated that the change would not injure the national interest. In the same period foreign-built vessels placed under American registry numbered seventy-five, of 545,995 deadweight tons, not including vessels of Dutch registry taken over by the President.

Permits for the construction of 295 vessels of 437,090 deadweight tons for American private interests, and of 187 vessels of 389,160 deadweight tons for foreign interests, were granted by the Shipping Board up to Oct. 15. Of these vessels, 251 were wood, 145 steel, and 86 concrete.

FINANCIAL NOTICES.

To the Shareholders of the UNION BAG & PAPER CORPORATION:

Because this Company paid an extra dividend of 2% in December, 1917, inquiry has been made as to why this has not been duplicated this year.

This year our main difficulty is the amount of taxes this Corporation will have to pay. The new bill before Congress (if enacted) may increase our taxes by three-quarters of a million dollars more than last year, which would amount to 7½% on the capital stock of the Corporation.

Your Directors have subscribed for $400,000 of the Fourth Issue of Liberty Bonds, and pride themselves on the fact that a large portion of the payment for the subscription is still to be provided for.

It often happens through increase in inventories and the existence of unusual obligations that money actually earned cannot be distributed at such period. The present position of the Corporation is not such as to warrant the payment of an extra dividend. Our friends may rest assured that all earnings which can safely be paid to shareholders will be turned over to them.

It must be borne in mind that the paper industry—because of quick changes in the business itself and because of excessive Governmental interference—is more difficult to manage than is generally the case in large undertakings.

We will close our year on December 31st, this time representing a period of eleven months only. As soon as our books can be closed, the amount of taxes ascertained, and cash position of the Corporation established, the shareholders will be entitled to, and will receive, such extra dividends as the circumstances may warrant in the judgment of your Board.

Your management has always held that shareholders are properly entitled to all information concerning the Company's affairs which is not detrimental to their interest to divulge. For that reason the above statements are made.

For the Executive Committee,
M. B. WALLACE, President.
NEW YORK,

For complete information regarding the above bonds attention is called to the letter of Mr. B. C. Cobb, President of the Company, copies of which will be furnished on request, and which states that:

The Consumers Power Company does the electric light and power business of a large portion of the State of Michigan, including some of the most important manufacturing centres in the State, serving a population of over 600,000.

The generating plants of the Company have a total present rated capacity of about 209,000 H. P., of which 106,000 H. P. is water power.

Net earnings of the Company are over 2¼ times the interest charges

These bonds are secured, in the opinion of counsel, by a direct first mortgage upon properties having generating plants with a rated capacity of approximately 128,000 H. P. They are further secured by a mortgage upon the remainder of the Company's property, subject to the divisional bonds (closed mortgages), which aggregate less than 7½% of the total bonded debt.

Both gross and net earnings have more than doubled during the past five and one-half years.

Price 89½ and interest; netting about 6%

As of October 1st, 1918, these net tangible assets had increased to $40,749,260.75, of which $16,476,108.44 were represented by plants and property and $24,273,152.31 by net quick assets, the increase of $17,056,534.39 resulting from surplus net profits left in the business.

The net profits of The Studebaker Corporation and its subsidiaries for the seven years ending December 31st, 1917, after charging off $2,193,000 depreciation, were $30,126,000, an average of $4,303,800 per year, amounting to approximately four times the maximum annual interest charge on this issue.

Notwithstanding the curtailment due to War operations and restrictions on automobile production, the estimated net profits for 1918, after making provision for taxes and depreciation, will amount approximately to $4,000,000.

HOTEL MEN TO OPEN EXPOSITION TODAY

WOMEN WORKERS TO STAY

The third National Hotel Men's Exposition, which will open in Madison Square Garden this afternoon and continue throughout the week, to be attended by hotel men from all parts of the United States and many from Europe, will have as one of its features an exhibit by the Hotel, Dining Car, and Steamship Division of the Food Administration. The Hotel Men's Exposition is conducted jointly by the New York State Hotel Association and the Hotel Association of New York City. Work on the various exhibits is being rushed, and everything will be ready for the opening this afternoon.

The Food Administration exhibit occupies the centre of the Garden, and the structure which houses it is attractive from an architectural standpoint. At one corner of the Garden there is a model of the famous Noble Rose Inn, in the town of Furnes in Flanders, for some time the headquarters of the Belgian Army and of King Albert, which the hotel men of the country have undertaken to restore at a cost of $50,000. It is hoped to raise this amount among the hotel men attending the exposition. Already pledges for this purpose have been received by a large number of hotel men. Mrs. Ben S. Allen, who was in Furnes while the inn was under shell fire and was one of the last Americans to see the building before it was demolished, will preside at the model inn and will be assisted in receiving by various persons of note. Baron E. de Cartier, the Belgian Minister, who has taken a keen interest in the movement from the start, will be one of the visitors.

The spot where what is left of the Noble Rose Inn stands is intimately associated with Belgian history. The ruins of the inn, situated on the Rue du Nord, face the historical church of Sainte Walburge. The inn bore upon its gable the date 1575, but its foundations belonged to what was evidently a palace dating back to the thirteenth or fourteenth century. The inn was shelled by the Germans on Nov. 1, 1914, and again on Feb. 16, 1915, the last time being reduced to ruins. It was just a year ago that the hotel men of the country, after hearing about the Noble Rose Inn from Ben S. Allen, Chief of the Educational Division of the United States Food Administration, decided that they would propose the restoration of the inn as a gift from the hotel men of America, as expressing the sympathy of American hotel men with Belgium. Their offer was transmitted to Baron de Cartier in Washington, and shortly afterward word was received that the Belgian Government at Havre had designated the Noble Rose Inn as a historical monument. It thus becomes a ward of the Belgian nation, under the control of the Ministry of Fine Arts, and the possibility of use for private profit is removed.

Oscar Tschirky, manager of the Waldorf-Astoria, where the thirty-second annual dinner of the New York State Hotel Association will be served Thursday night, told a committee of hotel proprietors yesterday that the dinner would be served entirely by women, and he predicted that before the new year was far advanced a large percentage of the dining room employes of every large New York hotel would be women, and that after sixty days there never will be another large dinner served in this city by men as waiters.

The announcement, instead of bringing forth gasps from up-State hotel men, as he expected, was greeted with applause. The up-State hotel men have had trouble in obtaining workers, and some of the visiting hotel men went so far as to predict that very soon women would be employed in the dining rooms of all the large hotels of the country. Mr. Tscherky said that women had given most satisfactory service.

"From the viewpoint of the patron of the hotel dining room the women have won their place because of better natured service," he said. "Patrons write to me every day telling me that they would protest if the women were displaced. They speak in appreciation of the fact that a woman seems grateful for tips given instead of appearing to think that the tip should be larger, as frequently was the case when men only were employed."

The New York Federal Food Board yesterday made public a letter from M. E. Labbe, Secretary General of the French National Food Committee of the North of France, District of Lille, expressing appreciation for relief work done by the United States. In writing to Herbert Hoover, United States Food Administrator, M. Labbe said:

"At last we are delivered! But the joy which swells our hearts does not make us forgetful of those who have made bearable this period of bitterness. Today offers us, on the contrary, the desired occasion for expressing freely our full gratitude to the Commission for Relief in Belgium and to its Chairman. We do not yet know all of the obstacles which had to be surmounted in order to feed for nearly four years from eight to nine million inhabitants. We are mindful, however, of some of the difficulties which have been so happily overcome; and we are not ignorant of the fact that complex problems have presented themselves at every step, and that in each case the Directors of the Commission for Relief in Belgium have been able, with firmness and energy, to apply the solution which would be most advantageous to our cause."

INVESTING BUILDERS GROPING FOR LIGHT

STEEL CUT A BIG HELP

Marked increase in inquiry for basic building materials, following the Government's announcement that it would not fix steel prices beyond Dec. 31, proved conclusively that a potential market exists for immediate building work.

Only certain classes of construction work have the order of call, however. It is roughly classified as commercially necessary construction work. Costs are too high to give the speculative builder much of a chance to compete for the quantities of materials and labor at present available or that which will be available next year.

The type of construction work that seems to be destined to proceed without interruption even at the present levels of prices is that which has taken on new life within the last few days at the leading seaboard cities. They consist principally of warehouses, office buildings, terminals, dock expansion, loft buildings, industrial establishments, and garages.

There are a few large speculative dwelling operations, tenement and apartment enterprises on foot, but they have not received much encouragement at the hands of the lending companies or professional mortgage interests.

There appears to be no immediate prospect of alleviating the scarcity of living quarters for any of the large cities east of the Mississippi, especially if those cities are face to face with the immediate necessity of increasing their export or commercial facilities, as is particularly the case with New York, Boston, and Philadelphia.

The present situation is, in fact, what might be called a "cash market." The very tense situation with regard to labor, the extremely restricted supply on hand at building material centres, the great demand for commercial construction dictated by the immediate necessity for this country to reach out into foreign fields with its products almost overnight, combine to insure a full field to all the building interests of any community. Close competition will not be the rule as in periods of great building activity in the past, because the control of prices is beyond the reach of the distributer and is confined entirely to the ability of the American building material manufacturer to meet the demand.

His quotation is controlled by the cost of raw material, which cannot be reduced as long as labor remains high and scarce at source of production. This means that the pick of the building business will be intrusted to the strongest firms. "Shoestring" contracting will have little place in the building market until the supply of building materials catches up with the demand.

As a general rule the distributers of building materials are using strong hands to keep the market within bounds as to prices. High prices are at present responsible for keeping the great lending companies out of the market and also for retarding the free action of a great many private owners who had homes to build. There is very likely to be a drop of $5 a ton in the price of structural steel, and within a week or two the steel interests will be aggressively in the market for business.

The fabricating shops are in splendid shape for handling building construction work and some of them are even now rushing out work that has been held in the shops for a year or more because of the right of way accorded to Government work. This steel will be that which will go into the buildings that will soon resume their activity after being halted in their uncompleted state for the period of the war, in some cases.

There were lockouts of certain skilled trades last week because of demands made for wages that employers had considered ill-proportioned to the trend of the times. Plasterers have demanded $1 an hour, or $8 a day, and other demands have been along the same lines.

There is a disposition on the part of investors to hold back their plans until labor cost does not represent such a big item in the total outlay of capital. The cut in the price of steel that is expected to be announced shortly after the turn of the year is likely to have a retroactive effect upon the quotations of other basic building materials.

Building interests have not responded to the Government's encouragement to proceed with construction work so as to absorb the labor made available by the returning troops, and as a result of the sluggishness of construction work up to the present time certain demobilization plans have had to be deferred and probably will be deferred until later in the Spring.

The Federal authorities gave the builder every facility to proceed with construction work, except to give the necessary release to savings banks and lending institutions in general that would permit them to freely make loans. Labor was made immediately available, relinquishments were made on the supply of coal and other essentials to building material manufacturers, railroads were permitted to take material consignments freely, and barges were released; but, outside of the firms or individuals who had their own funds with which to proceed, the prospective builder was chilled at the outset when he endeavored to negotiate a loan for his enterprise. Approximately $5,000 000 worth of speculative work that would employ many thousands of skilled artisans in New York alone is going to be deferred to the Spring of 1920, according to the Dow Service Daily Building Reports.

The Government's policy is dictated partially by reason of the forthcoming Liberty Loan, but also because it has information that the supply of building materials is such as to either force a further price control policy or permit the market to run away with a demand for materials that the manufacturers could not hope to meet.

The conclusion reached was that such a stampede would make prices so high as to prohibit commercial enterprises going ahead, and it would leave no American building materials available for export, and, in the light of the terrible devastation in France and Belgium, it is pointed out that America has an important peace duty to perform within the next year. The result of this policy is expected to be a gradual ascension of building construction work, reaching its peak somewhere in the Summer of 1921.

These are the fundamental reasons why building material prices today are within the reach of the well-financed builder and will continue to be. It would not surprise some to find a slight decline in some lines before Spring, with a further advance in April or June, probably to new high levels. The best advice obtainable in the trade is that which counsels against delay in contemplated construction.

CUMMINS'S RAILROAD IDEAS.

Government Ownership, with Private Operation, His Plan.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Government ownership of the railroads with private operation may be the solution of the railroad problem by Congress, says a Washington dispatch tonight to The Chicago Tribune, which says in part:

"In the next Congress the dominating figure in the realm of railroad legislation will be Senator Cummins, who is destined to be Chairman of the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce.

"To effect a permanent settlement of the railroad question, Senator Cummins holds that three essential reforms must be accomplished. Unearned increment as a basis of capitalization must be eliminated. Wasteful competition must be terminated, without permitting such combination of railroads as would place the public at their mercy. Incentive to development and efficiency in service must be preserved.

"As the Senator views the matter, it is not possible to accomplish all the purposes under a system of Government ownership and operation, any more than it is possible under private ownership and operation. He, therefore, suggests a combination of the two as the only effective way that can be adopted to improve conditions in all directions.

"Private corporations would be required to furnish all operating capital. Profits up to 6 per cent. of the operating capital would go to the companies intact. Profits above 6 per cent. would be subject to a graded tax.

"Senator Cummins would provide for competition in service by forming operating regions so that two or more would extend between the same general centres. Thus, he would have the Pennsylvania in one region and the New York Central in another, so that between New York and Chicago there would be a chance to demonstrate better management by one or the other of the corporations. There would be no competition in rates.

"He would have the Government take over all the railroads exchanging for existing railroad stocks stock issued by the Government with dividends of 4½ per cent. guaranteed.

"The transformation of all present railroad securities into Government obligation would mean the establishment of a great volume of stocks of value, which would become the basis of enormous business credits and which would tend to stabilize values of every kind."

MEXICAN FINANCES BETTER.

Official Says Government Will Favor Conversion of Its Debt.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 15.—In conversation with a high official of the Government he stated that within a few months the Government would announce figures showing that its ordinary income would amount to 200,000,000 pesos, which would fully meet all expenses. The Government at present has no intention of contracting a foreign loan, but will be interested in convenient arrangements which will permit of the conversion of its debt, which is about $200,000,000.

"It is possible the Government will enter into arrangements for the return of the railroads to their owners under an arrangement which will provide for the conversion of the railroad debt," said the official. "Without this arrangement the railway companies would find it almost impossible to reorganize. Conditions have improved greatly in the last two years. A great quantity of rolling stock has been repaired, and at present the traffic is almost normal. This will demonstrate that, with Mexican employes, it is possible to better conditions."

SELL NO GERMAN GOODS.

More Than 700 Stores Said to Have Joined the Boycott.

More than 700 stores in New York have agreed not to sell German made goods and are displaying "No German Made Goods Sold Here" signs, it was announced yesterday by the Woman's National Committee of the American National Defense Society, of which Mrs. McAllister Smith is the head.

"James McCreery & Co., Best & Co., and Lord & Taylor are among the larger stores displaying the signs, but we have not concentrated on the big stores only," said Mrs. Smith. "We have obtained the co-operation of smaller stores throughout the city. The stores in the neighborhood of 125th Street have been thoroughly canvassed and the greater number are displaying the signs. The Broadway Association has written us that they are heartily in accord with the movement of the society to boycott German made goods and stand ready to aid us in every way possible."

German made toys will come up for discussion at the annual convention of the Toy Manufacturers of the United States, which is to be held in the McAlpin Hotel on Wednesday and Thursday.

Our Wool Commission Recalled.

Uncle Sam Says "STOP!"

A stern command and one which all must obey. According to the law recently enacted the manufacture and importation of wines and liquors have been completely suspended. Moreover, President Wilson has signed the Emergency Agricultural Bill with its legislative rider enforcing National Prohibition from June 30, 1919, until the American army is demobilized, which will probably require two or three years.

To the Public

In 1907 we had a severe panic.
It shook the financial centres of our Country to their foundations.
In 1914 we had just recovered our financial health.
Then the European War broke out, a temporary setback took place,
Since which time there has been a period of great activity to supply war needs.
Every commodity, including labor, has increased 100% to 300%.
Our Government alone has spent some Twenty Billion Dollars for War purposes.
While most of the material has been consumed the money still remains in the hands of the public.
Thos. W. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan & Co., has estimated that this Country's income from Foreign sources alone will be $1,500,000,000 per year.
The accumulation of capital is, and will be, simply enormous.
The War is over. This capital will seek investment.
Since 1907 Real Estate, generally speaking, has declined save in a few exceptional localities.
To-day lots near Subway Stations on upper west side can be bought for $1,500 to $5,000 each, depending on location.
The Most Conservative authorities agree Real Estate is at the bottom.
Now is the time to buy. A rise is to come.
Lots on the upper west side which can be bought for $500 to $2,500 each
Should, unless all indications fail, sell for $2,500 to $5,000 each in a very few years, as they are directly on the line of the City's growth.
The Dash Estate lots to be sold at auction to-morrow are well situated on high ground.
On some of the lots building loans will be made for the erection of private dwellings.
They are only three minutes' walk from either 238th or 242d St. Subway Station.
This is a poor time of the year to sell lots. The weather has been bad and there is little demand.
Very few people have examined the property.
All signs point to a slaughter of values and to the opportunity of picking up bargains.
The investment of a few hundred dollars at this time should result in good profits.
The Executors of the Estate, Mr. Meikleham and Mr. Dash, have instructed me to sell the 85 lots and residence for whatever they will bring.
I'm certainly going to do it. I cannot do more than call your attention to these facts and suggest to you to attend the sale. The opportunity is yours.

JEWS PLAN UNITY IN FIRST CONGRESS

MAKES PLEA FOR LIBERTY

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15. — Representing all parts of the country and all leading organizations of Jews, 400 delegates assembled at the Metropolitan Opera House today in response to the call for the first Jewish Congress—this congress to collate all the aims of Jews, organized and unorganized, and put them into form, whereby a movement forward may be made instead of vacillating action as has been the case in many previous gatherings.

Colonel Harry Cutler of Providence, R. I., who until tonight acted as Chairman of the Administrative Committee of the congress, was temporary Chairman of the meeting. After Rabbi B. L. Levinthal of Philadelphia prayed for the divine blessing upon the delegates a short address was made by Colonel Cutler.

"For thousands of years," he said, "our people have suffered persecution and discrimination, and now that the readjustment of the world civilization is about to be accomplished, when it is hoped the fundamental principle that all men are born equal will become an established fact and the rights of small nations be equally conserved with those of greater powers, the Jewish people must come into its own."

As he ended with these words, the audience, realizing that Colonel Cutler referred to the plan of recreating a Jewish homeland in Palestine, burst out with storms of applause.

The speaker made a plea that the Jews of the world deserved the boon of full civil, religious, and political liberty, in view of the lives and treasure which they had contributed during the war, and the patriotism and self-sacrifice of those on the side of the Allies.

Letters were read from Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy; Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, and the Italian Embassy, expressing regret over the writers' inability to attend the conference and wishing it success.

Welcome on behalf of the Jews of Philadelphia to the visiting delegates was expressed in the speech of Professor David W. Amram of the University of Pennsylvania.

"Your principal duty," said Professor Amram, "will be to declare those fundamental principles of right that are yours by faith and inheritance, both as Americans and as Jews, and you will call upon the peoples of other lands to recognize these principles and apply them in their dealings with the minority groups in their midst.

"Your forefathers in Judea proclaimed liberty throughout the land unto all the inhabitants thereof. Let it be your work to support the policy of our great national leader, Woodrow Wilson, in proclaiming freedom to the inhabitants of all lands."

As Professor Amram mentioned the President, the crowds in the theatre went wild with enthusiasm. They waved small American flags, jumped on the chairs and cheered for several minutes.

"President Wilson expressed the spirit of America," continued the speaker, "when he declared that international justice must play no favorites and know no standard but the equal rights of the several peoples concerned. The Jewish peoples of Middle and Eastern Europe are among 'the several peoples concerned.' The President's declaration, above everything, involves the thought that there shall be a power greater than any national power that shall protect any man anywhere in the enjoyment of the rights that are given him by the Grace of God.

"It lies within your power, members of the congress, to say a great and perhaps a potent word in behalf of this thought, to give formal shape to a doctrine that has been the eternal idea of our people."

In introducing Nathan Straus of New York, who was later acclaimed unanimously the Honorary President of the congress, Colonel Cutler referred to him as one of the foremost Jews in the world.

"We meet today not only as Jews, but as Americans, to give thanks to God for the part it has been our privilege to play in the war that is won," said Mr. Straus, "for Jews have done their full duty, and done it eagerly and gladly, on behalf of America and American principles.

"We want no toleration, but liberation, for our brethren in all lands. From the greatest to the humblest, American Jews understood as they fought for this country that all they prized in life was at stake, that no sacrifice that America could ask of them would be equal to the measure of our devotion to her cause.

"The Balfour declaration, standing out as unique, unprecedented in its liberal spirit, followed by the unqualified approval of our own President Wilson and by his Holiness Pope Benedict XV., by France, Italy, and Serbia, has made certain the realization of our aspirations as far as Palestine is concerned. But unfortunately there still remain the same problems in other lands ar prior to the war. Where he has no equal rights the Jew has no protection and becomes the scapegoat in peace and in war times.

"Any internal troubles, any national upheaval from whatever cause, is the immediate occasion for the mob to attack the Jew. Our history bears witness to these sad realities, and recent events in Poland, in Galicia, and in Finland have again demonstrated them.

"It was such conditions which caused the calling of a congress, and we have convened to find ways and means to ameliorate them. If there are any other people suffering and persecuted like ours we shall be just as anxious to help them.

"Whatever the accident of birth or the circumstances of religious faith, we are all brothers and should help each other to the full extent of the opportunities of service and the means, that the God of all mankind gives to each of us.

"It is not Zionism, not Judaism, but humanity that beckons me now to the land that cradled the great world religions; and there I am going at the earliest opportunity in the near future."

Louis Marshall, the noted New York attorney, Chairman of the American Jewish Committee, came out in favor of Zionism at tonight's session in Lu Lu Temple.

"The question of Palestine is no longer a mooted one," said Mr. Marshall. "It is a settled question. The action of England and the other allied countries indorsing the project of making a political State out of Palestine will undoubtedly receive the support of the whole civilized world."

Speaking of alleged anti-Jewish riots in Poland, Mr. Marshall asserted that a "strict guarantee to grant the Jews in Poland, as well as in Rumania, equal rights, to which they are entitled," would have to be exacted from the two nations before the members of the Peace Conference granted them any concessions.

While the Polish National Department and the Polish National Defense Committee had both denied the Jews had been persecuted in Poland, Mr. Marshall asserted the reports received here of the outrages from various sources were unimpeachable.

"Marshal Foch has sent a commission into Poland to make a detailed investigation of the reported persecutions of the Jews," said Mr. Marshall. "We are willing to wait until the unblemished facts have been obtained, but meanwhile those at the peace table should not accept any false promises or shams from the nations which violated promises in the past. We insist that all nations benefited by the Peace Conference must do justice to the Jews."

After a rollcall a protest on the seating of delegates arose. It had been the decision of Isaac Hourwitch of New York, Chairman of the Board of Elections, that those delegates who since their election had moved away from the districts from which they were elected should give place to the men receiving the next highest number of votes. Bernard A. Rosengatt of New York, a member of the board, maintained that they should be retained despite their removal. The matter was eventually referred to the Credentials Committee, and the original list as printed provisionally accepted.

The method of choice of delegates was by general election, one delegate at large from each State and one from each district within the State apportioned by Jewish population, each national Jewish organization according to its membership, was represented.

The congress will hold sessions at Lu Lu Temple until Thursday, when it is believed its work will have been completed. Among the noted delegates from out of town were Judge Hugo Pan, Judge Harry M. Fisher, and Julius Rosenwald of Chicago; Governor Simon T. Bamberger of Utah, Dr. Henry Friedenwald of Baltimore, Professor Felix Frankfurter of Boston, Professor Horace M. Kallen of Wisconsin, Jacob H. Schiff, Morris Margulies, Nathan Straus, Solomon Bloomgarten, Judge Jacob Strahl, and Julius Rosenwald of New York, and Abram Elkus and Henry Morgenthau, former Ambassador to Turkey.

SAYS GAMBLING IS LAWFUL.

Magistrate Corrigan Discharges Men Arrested in Clubroom.

"It is a shame that these men, apparently respectable and law-abiding, have been haled into this court on a charge of gambling," said Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan in the Tombs Court yesterday, as he discharged Carmelo Defeo of 336 East 115th Street and twenty-three others. "Gambling is not a crime, and it has been decided so time and again by the highest courts. If a man wishes to bet on a golf match, a rowing race, a ball game or a horse race, it is his privilege to do so, and any interference with him is a violation of his rights.

"I am tired of having these cases brought before me after the numerous decisions by the Appellate Courts. In this instance it is particularly wrong. These men, men who work during the day and belong to a chartered club, the Goritza Social Club of 251 Elizabeth Street, met last night to join the Red Cross organization. Twenty-four men responded to the slogan, 'A heart and a dollar is all we ask.' They contributed their dollar and are raided by the police, and each man is required to find a bondsman to appear in court this morning. They have missed church, they have been put to great inconvenience, and it is time the police Captains read the law and instructed their subordinates as to the rights of law-abiding citizens. The defendants are all honorably discharged."

The arrest of the twenty-four defendants was made at 1:30 Sunday morning in the clubroom at the rear of 251 Elizabeth Street by Patrolman Timothy J. Crimmins of the Second Inspection District. The prisoners gave $500 bail each in the Elizabeth Street Station. The arrested men were all Italians.

SPEED VIOLATORS PUNISHED

3,810 Arraigned in Four Months and 105 Sent to Jail.

A report on speed violations to be submitted to Chief Magistrate McAdoo today by Chief Statistician Charles Strong shows that 3,810 speeders were arraigned during July, August, September, and October—1,745 less than in the even period of 1917—of whom 253 paid fines, 527 were committed in default of payment, 507 got suspended sentences, 105 were sent to jail without alternative, and 138 were acquitted. There were 5 suspended sentences in the Traffic Court in Manhattan, 73 straight jail sentences, and 34 acquittals.

A table shows that Magistrate Frederick B. House handled 1,168 cases, acquitting 25; Magistrate W. Bruce Cobb handled 279 and acquitted 8, while other Magistrates handled varied numbers with varying results. A summary of suspended sentences by boroughs shows: Manhattan, 5; Brooklyn, 174; Queens, 169; Bronx, 147, and Richmond, 9. The Committee on Uniform Sentences of the Board of Magistrates will meet shortly to induce Magistrates to agree upon more uniform punishment for traffic law offenders.

CRASH ON B. R. T. DUE TO A MAN ON TRACK

When Elevated Motorman Stops Train, Following Train Hits Standing Cars.

RUN OVER BODY ON RAILS

Unable to Tell if Victim Was Alive Before—Three Passengers Hurt in Collision.

Three persons were injured and several more hurt when two B. R. T. trains crashed together on the Ridgewood and Myrtle Avenue elevated line at the Seneca Street station, Brooklyn, yesterday morning, following an attempt by a motorman to rescue a man he had seen lying across the tracks.

The rear-end collision pushed one of the trains over the man and mutilated him to such an extent that it was impossible to determine whether he was dead or alive when run over, or whether he had been assaulted and thrown upon the rails.

The injured were passengers in the rear car of the two-car train that was struck. They were Max Block, 67 Pulaski Street, Queens, fractured ribs and cuts, taken to the Wyckoff Hospital, and Sarah Sexton, 683 Fresh Pond Road, and Policeman Anthony Schultz, 19 Slocum Street, Middle Village, Queens, both of whom were taken home for medical treatment.

The man crushed by the train was identified as Charles McCready, 20 years old, of 1,709 Woodbine Street. He was a driver for Klein Brothers in Manhattan. Charles B. Hoerter, uncle of McCready, said his nephew had been with him and other relatives at a ball, and all had started home after McCready had suddenly left the party. It was three hours later—at 6:10 o'clock yesterday morning—when Motorman Herman Hock saw a man on the tracks.

Hock stopped the train, got out, and was going toward the man when another Manhattan-bound train struck the halted cars and sent them over the man on the rails. The rear car of the first and the front car of the second train were smashed by the impact, and the forward truck of the first car was derailed, interrupting traffic for several hours. Motorman Kerr of the colliding train said the fog and a curve in the road prevented him seeing the signals or the cars ahead.

A similar accident on a B. R. T. surface line occurred at an earlier hour yesterday morning at the Brooklyn end of the Williamsburg Bridge, when a Reid Avenue car crashed into a Nostrand Avenue car. Four persons who were bruised or cut by broken glass were attended by a Williamsburg Hospital ambulance surgeon.

XMAS AT BANKERS TRUST.

Employes to Get Bonuses and Increases to Meet Living Expenses.

In addition to a 5 per cent. bonus as a Christmas gift, the Bankers Trust Company has just announced a cash distribution to its employes as compensation for the higher cost of living during the six months' period ending Dec. 31. This is the fourth semi-annual adjustment of the sort made by the company since January, 1917. It is based upon a plan devised by the officers and a committee of employes, and is regarded by the bank not as the granting of a bonus, but as just compensation during a time when living costs have greatly depreciated the purchasing power of salaries.

The distribution gives to all employes who entered the service prior to July 1, 1916, salary increases ranging from 30 to 40 per cent. Persons employed subsequent to that time get proportionately less. The percentage for employes hired during 1917 ranges from 8 to 25, and for those engaged during 1918, a flat rate of 5 per cent. is fixed upon. The greatest percentage increases are given to employes whose pay ranges from $1,100 to $1,299, while all getting above $2,500 are to have their increases computed as if they were receiving only that amount.

In its report to the company the committee of employes said:

"The committee recognizes the fine spirit of equity which has been evidenced by the officers in initiating and continuing its activities and of the company's reception of its findings. As the ending of the war brings prospect of decreased living costs, the committee has in mind the necessity of establishing a basis for such future distribution as may be made which will take into account such decreased costs as may be realized."

The Model 90

Overland

Thrift Car

That policy is now as it has been in the past
—quantity production of a quality car —economies of large purchasing power and standardized factory methods

And the result is now as it has been in the past
—the ruling sensible automobile value of the season.

But we have not let price wait upon the lowering of costs through the increase in production.

We have anticipated it, you have it now, and now is the time to buy.

We also anticipate a demand for this car that we must necessarily fall short of fully supplying until we shall fully have restored normal factory conditions.

We are doing our utmost and will continue to do everything in our power to bring stocks of cars up to working requirements with the least possible delay.

Your purchase if made this season should have your attention now.
